This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. TRANSACTIONS

OF THE

FORTY-SIXTH SESSION

OF THE

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF HOMŒOPATHY,

FORTY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY,

HELD AT CHICAGO, ILL., MAY 29 TO JUNE 3, 1893.

Instituted April 10, 1844.

EDITED BY

PEMBERTON DUDLEY, M.D.,

GENERAL SECRETARY.

PHILADELPHIA:

SHERMAN & CO., PRINTERS, SEVENTH AND CHERRY STREETS.

AUTHORIZED DEFINITION.

At the Annual Session of 1881, the American Institute of Homœopathy ordered as follows:

1. That the President's definition of the words "Regular" and "Irregular," as applied to schools and practitioners of medicine, be adopted by this Institute as correct.

2. That hereafter this definition be conspicuously printed in all published documents and TRANSACTIONS of this Institute, in order that the profession, of all schools, may the sooner be familiarized with, and led to adopt it.

"A REGULAR PHYSICIAN.—A graduate of a regularly chartered medical college. The term also applies to a person practicing the healing art in accordance with the laws of the country in which he resides."

See Transactions of 1881, pp. 23, 68 and 71.

PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

American Institute of Homœopathy,

HELD AT CHICAGO, ILL.

MAY 29 TO JUNE 3, 1893.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

THE American Institute of Homœopathy, at the session of 1892, received formal and official notice of the intention to hold a "World's Congress of Homœopathic Physicians and Surgeons" in the City of Chicago, Ill., under the auspices of "The World's Congress Auxiliary," an organization established by the authorities of the Columbian Exposition for the purpose of convening representatives of various arts, sciences, professions and other interests, and of persons engaged in various enterprises for the amelioration of the condition of the human race. The object of these Congresses was to be the consideration of questions and subjects pertaining to those different interests by persons learned and skilled therein from all parts of the world.

Upon receipt of the above-mentioned announcement, the Institute voted to omit the reception of its usual reports and papers on scientific subjects, to limit its proceedings for the session of 1893 to routine and other necessary business, and to enlist and devote the energies and influence of the organization to promote the success of the Congress.

The above statement will explain the fact that the TRANSACTIONS of the Institute for this year and volume, contain no scientific addresses, papers or discussions.

FIRST DAY'S SESSION.

MONDAY, May 29, 1893.

THE Forty-sixth Annual Session of the American Institute of Homœopathy was convened in room 29 of the Art Institute building, Chicago, Ill., on Monday morning, May 29, 1893, at 10 o'clock.

The Institute was called to order by the President, James H. McClelland, M.D., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The ex-presidents of the Institute and delegates from foreign countries were invited to seats on the platform. Those who responded to the invitation were Drs. J. C. Burgher, Bushrod W. James, D.

H. Beckwith, J. P. Dake, I. T. Talbot, C. Wesselhoeft, O. S. Runnels, T. Y. Kinne.

Drs. C. Bojanus, of Samara, Russia, P. C. Majumdar, of Calcutta, India, J. Cavendish Molson, of London, England, and A. C. Hawkes, of Liverpool, England, also occupied seats on the platform.

President McClelland's Introductory Address was then delivered as follows:

Members of the American Institute: It becomes my duty, and pleasure as well, to first speak my thanks for the distinguished honor you have done me by electing me your president. That I appreciate this evidence of your regard, you must feel assured, and it shall be my earnest endeavor to serve you with fidelity.

The prime object of our gathering is to advance the cause of our science, and to further the interests of this great national body, and I beg that you will join with me in every effort to this end.

There will be differences of opinion as to how this shall best be done. Yet if we will agree to differ where we cannot adjust our differences, we will be able to transact our affairs agreeably and expeditiously. As you are aware the regular scientific work of the Institute will be transferred to the Congress this year, all bureaus holding over till next year, when the regular reports will be presented.

The short sessions of the Institute, which will be held daily, will be devoted to such current business as cannot well hold over. To this business let us address ourselves as expeditiously as possible, and I therefore declare the American Institute of Homœopathy convened for the transaction of such business as may properly come before it.

The Report of the Committee on the World's Congress of Homœopathic Physicians and Surgeons was offered by its Chairman, J. P. Dake, M.D., of Nashville, Tenn., and was accepted and referred to the Committee of Publication. The report simply stated that in the preparation of this programme and the work relating thereto, the committee appointed by the American Institute of Homœopathy had co-operated with the committee appointed by the World's Congress Auxiliary, and that said programme, therefore, represents the nature of the committee's labors. Following is the programme:

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF LOCAL ARRANGEMENTS

was presented by its Chairman, J. S. Mitchell, M.D., of Chicago. It was accepted and referred as follows:

The local committee of the American Institute has acted in connection with the local committee of the World's Congress. It has arranged for the meeting of the American Institute to have its business meetings in this room (29) of the Art Institute. It has arranged also for committee rooms and for general headquarters, but the first meeting of the World's Congress, the inaugural congress, will be held to-night, in the hall of Washington, the south hall of this building, at 8 P.M. The dedication of the Homœopathic hospital and headquarters on the Exposition grounds will take place this afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The sessions of the Congress will commence to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. There will be a general session lasting from 10 to 1 o'clock, during which addresses will be delivered. The Sectional meetings will be held from 3 to 6 P.M. It is desired that we have at these meetings of the Congress the attendance of all our physicians, taking the Exposition at times when the Congress is not in session.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON PROGRAMME AND BUSINESS was presented by its Chairman, Dr. C. E. Fisher, of Chicago, as follows:

We have followed the usual order and have prepared the programme for the week and printed it in circular form. It outlines the work of the Institute for the week. The only business session will be held in the morning from 9 to 10. On page 21 will be noted the items of business, and the only change we have from that thus far is in relation to the Memorial Service, which is marked "time to be fixed by the Institute." This has been fixed for Friday morning at 9 o'clock. It seems impossible to set aside an evening of this week for this memorial service. A programme will be arranged for this service, and the addresses will be limited to the speakers who are appointed by the Memorial Committee, and these will be confined to the immediate friends or relatives of the deceased. The selection of the place for the next Institute session, and New Business, your committee thinks, ought to be arranged just as early in the session as possible. The circular announces that we will have an afternoon session to-day from 3 to 6. Instead of that we will have the dedicatory services of the World's Homœopathic Hospital on the Exposition grounds at 3 o'clock.

The recommendations of the committee were adopted:

THE REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

was read by the General Secretary, as follows:

CHICAGO, ILL., May 29, 1893.

The By-Laws impose upon the Executive Committee attention to "matters of business not otherwise specially provided for," and the performance of "such other duties as may, by vote of the Institute, devolve upon it."

Under this rule of the Institute the Committee is required to report on the following topics—all of which were specially referred to it:

1. Fixing the exact dates for this session. This question was solved so as to accord with the plans and arrangements for the holding of the World's Congress of Homœopathic Physicians and Surgeons, as heretofore publicly announced.

2. The expense account of Dr. Horace M. Paine as Chairman of the Committee on Medical Legislation for the year 1892. This question was referred to the Committee with authority to act, and after much consideration the claim of Dr. Paine was met and paid.

3. The Resolution for the establishment of a "Reserve Fund" out of the surplus revenues of the Institute. Your Committee reports that in their view it is inadvisable to set apart any portion of the Institute's funds as a reserve.

4. The Resolution that a new portrait of Hahnemann be procured for the Institute Seal. On this subject we have to report that the portrait now in use is unsatisfactory, and that it is desirable to procure one known to be an authentic representation of the illustrious Founder of the Homœopathic School. It has, therefore, been determined to recommend a portrait copy of the bust taken from life, by the distinguished French artist, P. J. David, in 1837; i.e., when Hahnemann was 82 years old. A copy of this bust in bronze, presented to one of our colleges by Madame Hahnemann in 1876, and certified by her as an accurate likeness, was at our disposal, and three photographs were taken at different points of view. The Committee unanimously decided that the picture representing nearly, but not quite, a profile view, brings out to the best advantage the striking facial characteristics of the subject. Two designs have been prepared; one, circular in form, and the other elliptical, but less so than the old Seal. These designs are herewith submitted and the Committee recommends that the Institute select one of these and order the preparation of a new Seal in accordance therewith.

On behalf of the Committee,

JAS. H. MCCLELLAND, Chairman.

PEMBERTON DUDLEY, Secretary.

The first recommendation, "that it is inadvisable to set apart any portion of the Institute's Funds as a Reserve," was deferred for action to a later period of the session.

The second recommendation, that a new design for an Institute Seal be adopted, and presenting two designs, was, on motion, referred to the Senate of Seniors to make a selection.

The General Secretary also presented the following:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF PUBLICATION.

Your Committee of Publication would report that the TRANSACTIONS for 1892 were issued in the usual form and style, making a volume of 1064 pages. An edition of fifteen hundred copies was printed, and of these there have been distributed Copies.

To Members of the Institute, . . .	956
To Homœopathic Colleges, ...	16
To Journals, ...	26
To Libraries, ...	41
Making a total of, ...	1039

There have also been distributed the following back volumes:

	Copies.
TRANSACTIONS of 1891, ...	54
" 1890, ...	20
" 1889, ...	8
" 1888, ...	8
" 1887, ...	1
" 1886, ...	1

Making a grand total of 1131 copies sent out during the past year.

Respectfully submitted,

PEMBERTON DUDLEY,
General Secretary.

The report was accepted and referred.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE HAHNEMANN MONUMENT

was called for, and Dr. Henry M. Smith, of New York City, responded verbally, on behalf of the committee, as follows:

This report of the Hahnemann Memorial Committee will be preliminary. The committee was appointed by the American Institute, at its last session, to take charge of the matter of erecting a Monument to Hahnemann—a bronze statue in the city of Washington, commemorative of the growth and progress of Homœopathy; commemorative of Hahnemann; and to beautify the city of Washington and to be the first monument or statue erected at our national capital for a medical man and the greatest of medical reformers. There have been statesmen and warriors and discoverers whose busts or monuments have been placed there, but as yet no statue to any physician. The work, as suggested by your president, met with such a hearty recommendation at the meeting that the committee thought it would go right on, and that it would be a matter of but a few months, possibly only a few weeks, before the monument would be ready to erect. But when we had our meeting, as we did in the city of Washington, and appointed sub-committees on ways and means and on other subjects, we found that we had started a larger project than we had anticipated, and that instead of having a monument erected by the American Institute, this committee had become the representative of all the Homœopathic physicians of the United States, fourteen hundred members of this Institute, and twelve thousand physicians of the country. National and sectional societies wrote us that they wanted to have something to do with it. Therefore it has been held in abeyance, and correspondence has been opened with all the societies to interest them and the whole profession in the different localities, and, through them, the laity. I would suggest that a special hour be set apart by the Institute to receive in full the report of the committee and have the matter discussed, and that this hour be 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

The recommendation of the committee making the report the special order for 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning was adopted.

THE REPORT OF THE NECROLOGIST,

Dr. Henry M. Smith, was then read. It is hereto annexed.

During the past year six of our members have been called away by death. Their names are:

Frank M. Clark, M.D., of Salem, O.

Caspar L. Crandall, M.D., of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Charles Cullis, M.D., of Boston, Mass.

John J. Drysdale, M.D., of Liverpool, England.

George E. Shipman, M.D., of Chicago, Ill.

George A. Hall, M.D., of Chicago, Ill.

Continuing his report, Dr. Smith said:

"There have been in the Institute, since its organization, about 2900 members. There are at present 1378, leaving about 1500 names of those who are not now members of the Institute. Of these there is a list of deceased numbering 615. In looking over the list of names since the date of the organization, it was found that many had died prior to the date of their names being dropped from our annual catalogue, and of each of these there should be a biographical sketch, as is our custom. A few of these only were regularly and easily obtained, and others were obtained with difficulty and only after long delay, and many we have been unable to get at all. We have gone over the list as published last year in the TRANSACTIONS, and have been able to make several corrections in the names and dates of those published in the necrological list."

The report was accepted, and referred to the Committee of Publication.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MEMORIAL SERVICE

was presented by its chairman, Bushrod W. James, M.D., of Philadelphia, Pa., recommending that the service be held at 9 o'clock on Friday morning; the programme to be published in the Medical Century before that date and the speakers therein announced. The report was accepted and adopted.

THE REPORT OF THE TREASURER,

E. M. Kellogg, M.D., of New York, N. Y., was next presented. It shows a balance from last year's account of $822.22. Received from admission fees and annual dues, $5384.40. Expenditures, $5123.40. Balance on hand, $1082.82. It was referred to an Auditing Committee consisting of Drs. J. B. G. Custis, William Webster, and Winthrop T. Talbot. (See "Report of the Treasurer.")

President McClelland then introduced several of the foreign delegates to the World's Congress, who were present on the platform.

Dr. C. Bojanus, of Moscow, Russia, who, with his accomplished wife, was present at the session, addressed the Institute in the French language. The following is a translation of his remarks, as prepared by Madame Bojanus.

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: It is with the deepest feelings of gratification and satisfaction that I address these few words to the honorable assembly of my Trans-Atlantic brethren. This personal feeling of gratitude is, however, outweighed by the thanks which I feel bound to express in the name of the divine doctrine of Homœopathy, which has found a second home in the United States. According to historical data collected by one of the most ardent disciples of Hahnemann in Russia, Count Mordvinoff, Minister of the Navy in the reign of Emperor Alexander I., it appears that in 1834 there were only four Homœopathic practitioners in the United States. At the present time there are fifteen thousand. Numerous hospitals have been founded for the relief of suffering humanity, flourishing schools have sprung up for the instruction of youth, and a considerable number of journals proclaim all over the world the progress of the New School in America. And all this has been achieved during the short period of sixty years, a period during which Germany, the cradle of Homœopathy, has done nothing but recede in the development of its own offspring. I consider myself, therefore, fully entitled to exclaim: Long live the United States and its laborers in the vineyard of Hahnemann!"

The President then introduced Dr. P. C. Majumdar, of Calcutta, who spoke as follows:

English is not my language; it is my adopted language, so it is very difficult for me to speak. I have long wished to visit America. When it was announced that there would be a Congress of Homœopathists at Atlantic City, I wished to attend it, but could not, as there were some difficulties in my way. This time, when I heard of the World's Congress, I determined to come, and I put aside all the obstacles, and now come to America to see this vast country and its prosperity, and to meet some of the people whose names I have had the honor to read in the journals for so many years. I am very glad to see them here and to be acquainted with them. And I am very glad to see so many ladies who attend this great Congress and who are believers in our doctrines. I shall feel well repaid for the travel and the trouble it has cost me to come. When I left my home my friends said, "What benefit will you derive from going to such a vast country and to such a great distance away?" I replied, "I do not know." But now I come here and see, and I expect to derive the very greatest benefit from my visit to America. I will be very glad and very happy to convey my hearty thanks to these gentlemen with whom I come in contact, and present to them and this Institute the good wishes of my far-off people. (Applause.)

Dr. H. C. Allen: I want to make a little addendum to what Dr. Majumdar has just stated, his modesty having forbidden him to mention it. He is the editor of a medical journal published in Calcutta, one-half of which is printed in English, and the other half in his native tongue. He is also the author of a work on Homœopathic practice of upwards of 1000 pages; a work on materia medica of 800 pages, a domestic practice of 250 pages in addition to being an active practitioner and a graceful and prolific journal writer. It is well that we should know this. (Applause.)

The next speaker to be introduced by the president was Dr. Alfred E. Hawkes, of Liverpool, England, President of the British Congress of Homœopathic Physicians. He said: It is very kind of you to wish to listen to a few words from me. I have enjoyed the meeting very greatly, and will enjoy it still more as I meet with the authors of the many books I have read and which we in the Old Country all have read. If I represent anything now it is more particularly a branch of the British Homœopathic Society located in Liverpool, of which I happen to be chairman, and also as chairman-elect of the British Homœopathic Congress to be held in Northampton in August or September, and that will probably call up in your minds the name of an old friend of some of you—Dr. Arthur Clifton. I have the kindest messages for all whom it may concern from Dr. Hayward, of Liverpool, whose letter kindly introducing me must have gone astray or come over in a later vessel, for my departure was hurried and almost unexpected. I want to say this, that before entering your magnificent harbor I saw one of the great warships of the world, I think it was an Italian warship; as we passed the Campagnia she very gracefully dipped her colors; and our little society in the Old Country and its greater branch dips its colors to the American Institute here assembled. (Applause).

Dr. J. C. Molson, of London, was next called by the President and introduced and said:

I too, came away in a great hurry; only a few days before I went I was notified by the President of the British Homœopathic Society that I must represent them. Dr. Richard Hughes whom all remember, sends a few kind words to his American friends. He came down and wished me bon voyage and a safe return, and expressed his regret that he could not come himself. We look across the ocean with pardonable pride to you; it is true that the homœopathic infant was born in our continent, but you have reared him; you have brought him up to be a full grown man; and we are thankful for all we have received from you. The literature that we value in particular comes from your land. Dr. Pope said to me some years ago, invest in Dr. Farrington's Materia Medica, it is the product of a born teacher; I did so, and I have never regretted following his excellent advice. I have the honor to be associated with the London Homœopathic Hospital; the building is now being pulled down, and in the course of a few months we hope the Princess May, the fiancée of the Duke of York, will lay the foundation-stone of our new hospital. (Applause).

President McClelland then introduced another foreign visitor and delegate, Dr. Charles F. Fisher, from Sidney, Australia, who said: I come from the antipodes. But we also have good Homœopathy in my far-off country. In 1854 I went out to New Zealand and introduced Homœopathy in that Island. There we established a small hospital, and it lives yet in the affection of the people. We have in Melbourne a very fine hospital with 120 beds; and have had especially fine results there with typhoid fever; that is a fever not merely epidemic but endemic. We have yet many things to struggle for in my country that you in your great and free country have already attained; but every day the powerful government is becoming more softened to our efforts and the day may not be far distant when we shall have as great liberties there as you have here. (Applause).

Dr. R. B. Johnson, of Ravenna, Ohio, was added to the Board of Censors, whereupon the Board presented the names of 31 applicants for membership, who were ordered posted as per the requirements of our by-laws.

THE REPORT OF THE BUREAU OF ORGANIZATION, REGISTRATION AND STATISTICS was presented by its Chairman, Thomas Franklin Smith, M.D., of New York, and was accepted and referred to the Committee of Publication.

Following is the report:

Fellow-members of the American Institute of Homœopathy:

During the past year Homœopathy has made good, substantial, healthful progress in the United States.

The years of phenomenal growth have long since passed; we have seen the seed abundantly sown, we have witnessed the growth of the blade and also that of the ear, and now we are seeing the development and ripening of the full corn in the ear, and thus it will go steadily on until it shall cover the entire earth. Many of the old societies are increasing in number of members and also in influence; they are spreading out new branches which are affording help and succor to many thousands of suffering humanity.

New hospitals have come into existence, and very many of the old ones are putting on new and more vigorous active life.

The Brooklyn Maternity and New York State School for Training Nurses, writes: "The old buildings are just sold; new and more extensive ones will be erected this year."

The Ward Island Hospital, New York City, has opened a large training-school for nurses, which is doing most excellent work.

The Faxton Hospital, at Utica, N. Y., has been making very extensive alterations and repairs, so that it is at the present time in most excellent working order.

The Hahnemann Hospital, of New York City, is about adding a large maternity building to its present building, and plans have already been submitted for it, and it is expected that work will be commenced upon it in a very short time.

From Hahnemann Hospital, of Chicago, we learn that a new hospital is in process of erection at a cost of $100,000.

The Protestant Hospital, of Toledo, Ohio, reports: "We expect to open our new building very soon, worth $5000, with 100 beds and a Training-School for Nurses."

We also have a report from the Central Homœopathic Dispensary, of Brooklyn, that they are about to purchase grounds and erect upon it a fine, large building which will give to them increased facilities for carrying on their good work.

We here desire to correct a mistake which was unintentionally made by us in our report to the American Institute of Homœopathy last year. In speaking of the Glenmary, at Owego, N. Y., we reported it closed, while the fact was, it was alive and doing better work than ever before. We have a report from it this year.

Several new Homœopathic journals have been born during the past year and they seem to be well started upon their pilgrim life; we wish them all the success that they deserve.

There are at the present time in the United States three National Homœopathic Societies, one Sectional Homœopathic Society, 30 State and 83 Local Homœopathic Medical Societies and 30 Homœopathic Medical Clubs.

We have reports from all of the National and Sectional Societies, and from 25 State Societies, 64 Local Societies, and 29 Medical Clubs.

We have been unable to obtain any reports from the following Societies and Clubs, viz.:

Alabama Homœopathic State Medical Society.

Homœopathic Medical Society of Delaware and the Peninsula.
Florida Homœopathic Medical Society.
Massachusetts Homœopathic Medical Society.
Homœopathic Medical Society, State of Michigan.
Alameda County Homœopathic Medical Society, California.
Homœopathic Clinical Society of Maryland and District of Columbia, Washington Branch.
Clinical Society of Hahnemann Hospital, of Chicago.
Maryland Academy of Medicine.
St. Paul and Minneapolis Academy of Homœopathic Medicine.
Hahnemann Society of Kansas City Homœopathic Medical College.
Central New York Homœopathic Medical Society.
Columbia and Greene Counties, N. Y., Homœopathic Medical Society.
Homœopathic Medical Society of Western New York.
Medical Society of Northern New York.
Onondaga County, N. Y., Homœpathic Medical Society.
Seneca County, N. Y., Homœopathic Medical Society.
Southern Tier, N. Y., Homœopathic Medical Society.
Homœopathic Medical Society of Northern Pennsylvania.
Syracuse, N. Y., Hahnemann Club.

There are in the United States at the present time so far as we have been able to ascertain, 43 general and 45 special Homœopathic hospitals; from these we have received reports from 38 general and 35 special Homœopathic hospitals; these 73 hospitals report a capacity of 6047 beds; during the past year they have treated 39,373 patients; of these 29,637 have been cured, 4154 have been relieved, 1029 have not been relieved, 1422 have died; the death-rate has been 3.60 per cent.; there are remaining in the hospitals 3136 patients at the present time.

We have been unable to obtain any reports from the following hospitals, viz.:

Homœopathic Hospital, of Delaware.
City Hospital, Wichita, Kansas.
Kansas City Homœopathic Hospital, Kansas City, Mo.
Good Samaritan Hospital and Asylum, of St. Louis.
Brookside Retreat, Plainfield, N. J.
Denver Sanitarium, Denver, Col.
Baptist Hospital, Chicago.

Chicago Nursery, and Half Orphan Asylum.
Kansas Surgical Hospital, Topeka, Kansas.
Church Home for Babies, Minneapolis.
Washburne Orphan Asylum, Minneapolis.
St. Martha's Sanitarium, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Baptist Home for the Aged, New York.
Milwaukee Orphan Asylum, Milwaukee.

There are 52 Homœopathic Dispensaries in the United States; of these we have received reports from 45, showing that these have treated during the past year 160,211 patients, and that 466,202 prescriptions have been made during that time; these dispensaries have also made 38,080 outside visits.

There have been no reports received from the following dispensaries, viz.:

Samaritan Mission and Free Dispensary of Kansas City, Kan.
Homœopathic Dispensary and Hospital, of Baltimore City.
Worcester Homœopathic Dispensary Association, Worcester, Mass.
West Side Homœopathic Dispensary, New York City.
Syracuse Homœopathic Free Dispensary, Syracuse, N. Y.
Good Samaritan Homœopathic Dispensary, Cleveland, Ohio.
Medical and Surgical Hospital and Dispensary, of Reading, Pa.

We hope to be able to procure statistics from a majority of these, if not from all of them in time to print them in the TRANSACTIONS it is not our fault that we have not received them, as we have sent repeated requests to the officers of these institutions and societies urging them to supply us with what we needed, but all to no purpose thus far.

There are 27 Homœopathic journals published in the United States, three of which are not yet a year old.

There are in the United States 20 Homœopathic Medical Colleges.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOMAS FRANKLIN SMITH, M.D.,
Chairman Bureau of O., R. and S.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE,* was presented by its Chairman, Dr. Winthrop T. Talbot, of Boston, Mass. Accepted and referred to the Committee of Publication.

* This report has not been received.—GENERAL SECRETARY.

Reports of Delegates from Sectional and State Societies being in order, the General Secretary called attention to the rule adopted last year for the government of these reports. He read from a letter, suggestions he had sent to the delegates, so far as he had been able to learn their names, recommending that their reports should include the following items:

1st. New Legislation affecting favorably or unfavorably the rights or privileges of Homœopathists.

2d. New societies formed during the last year.

3d. Appropriations, donations and legacies to Homœopathic hospitals and other institutions. Improvements or additions to existing hospitals. New hospitals established.

4th. Homœopathic appointments to governmental positions.

5th. Names of towns in the State, in which Homœopathic physicians are greatly needed.

6th. Any other events of unusual professional interest.

Reports were then presented from New Jersey by Dr. T. Y. Kinne; and from Alabama, by Dr. A. M. Duffield. (See "Reports of Delegates.")

The room in which the Institute was in session had been gradually filling up until, at this time, a large number of physicians were compelled to stand, and a buzz of conversation outside the door rendered it difficult to hear the reports as they were being presented. Dr. J. P. Dake of Nashville, Tenn., therefore moved that the further consideration of this subject be deferred until to-morrow morning when the Institute would assemble in a more commodious apartment. This motion was adopted.

Secretary Dudley then asked for instructions relative to the printing of the Daily Roster, as required by a resolution adopted last year. He stated that Gross & Delbridge, publishers of the Medical Century, had offered to print it in the pages of their journal, which would be on sale during the session at ten cents per copy, or they would make a reprint from their pages for the use of the Institute. The cost in the former case would be merely the cost of composition, and in the latter case the cost of composition together with the cost of paper, presswork, etc. The secretary desired to know if the Institute wished to give him specific instructions in relation to the question.

A discussion followed, participated in by Drs. T. G. Comstock, B. W. James, I. T. Talbot, C. E. Fisher and the Secretary. Dr. H. C. Allen then moved, and the Institute by vote ordered, that a reprint be issued, the number of copies to be as required under the original resolution, and to be distributed gratis to those in attendance.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE INSTITUTE BUTTON,

Dr. Henry M. Smith, Chairman, reported that its duty had been attended to, and that buttons of silver or of copper could be procured on application to the treasurer. The report was accepted and the committee discharged.

The Committee on Medical Legislation was called on for their report. Dr. Dake, of the Committee, responded that because of the absence, on account of indisposition, of the Chairman, Dr. F. H. Orme, of Atlanta, Ga., no report would be presented this year.

The Committee on Pharmacopœia, Dr. J. P. Dake, chairman, requested that its report be deferred till a later period of the session and that a committee of three be appointed to assist the committee in adjusting some matters connected with its work. On motion, the request was granted, and Drs. T. Y. Kinne, O. S. Runnels and D. H. Beckwith were appointed the Special Committee.

The Committee on Publishing List of Graduates of Homœopathic Colleges in the TRANSACTIONS was called on for a report. Drs. O. S. Runnels and B. W. James stated that they thought the committee had finished its work and been discharged last year. The President, therefore, declared that such a report was not properly in the order of business, the committee having gone out of existence.

The Committee on Extending the Time Limit of the Institute Sessions, Dr. T. Y. Kinne, chairman, asked that its report be deferred and made the special order for 9 o'clock on Thursday morning, in order that the report might be made in harmony with that of the Committee on Revision of the By-Laws. Motion granting the request was offered and adopted.

The proposed amendment to the Constitution providing for the annual election of an Assistant Treasurer was, by vote, referred to the Committee on Revision of By-Laws.

The report of the Committee on Revision of the By-Laws was also postponed till Thursday morning.

President McClelland presented a communication, coming, he said, from a State Society and preferring charges against a member of this Institute. Under the rule, he referred it, without reading, to the Senate of Seniors. Adjourned till 9 A.M., Tuesday.

SECOND DAY.

MAY 30, 1893.

The Institute re-assembled at 9.15 o'clock, President McClelland in the chair. Only a few members had yet arrived.

The regular order of business was resumed, and reports of delegates from State Societies being called for, Dr. I. T. Talbot, of Boston, Mass., and Dr. Bushrod W. James, of Philadelphia, Pa., reported verbally for their respective states.

Dr. B. W. James moved that any of the State reports as provided for by the rules of the Institute that may be forwarded to the General Secretary be accepted and referred to the Committee of Publication. Agreed to.

The following are the reports of Delegates as received by the General Secretary up to the time of going to press:

Alabama.

I have very little of interest to report. Our annual meeting, which was to have been held at Huntsville, Ala., on May 16th, in conjunction with that of the Tennessee Homœopathic Medical Association, was postponed by mutual consent until May, 1894, when it will be held at the above-mentioned place. Our Legislative Committee, who were to have watched for a chance to have passed an amendment to the present law so that we could have an Examining Board of our own, failed to get together and do anything; upon learning which, Dr. Boyd, our president, hastened to Montgomery, but was too late to accomplish anything before the session closed.

We need more physicians of our school in Alabama, which is a very promising field of labor. There are less than a dozen of us now in the State, and we need to have our ranks recruited.

I often get letters of inquiry in quest of information concerning locations, and always reply promptly, but it results in nothing more, as I never hear from the parties again.

Now, why is it? Simply because they are afraid to be examined by Allopaths, and, perhaps, with some reason, from a sense of pride; but I passed this inquisition, and others can do the same if they try.

There are plenty of good fields to locate, such as Selma, Decatur, Bessemer, Eufaula, Opelika, Anniston, Florence, Tuscaloosa, and, I might add, every city in the State. The people are holding out their hands and begging for relief from the murderous doses of calomel, quinine, antipyrine, opium, etc., and want our treatment, and why can't they have it?

I would ask those who have students just graduating or recent graduates, who desire to make a good future for themselves, to advise them to go to Alabama and pass the examinations, which are much easier than those required to get their diplomas. It is for their good, for the good of the country, and, above all, for the good of Homœopathy and humanity.

A. M. DUFFIELD, M.D., Delegate.

California.

New Legislation.—During the past year a bill was introduced into the Legislature by the Allopaths, the object of which was to give them complete monopoly of all medical matters in the State. It was a "single examining board" bill, in which no school was mentioned, simply leaving the appointment of the same in the hands of the Governor. This bill was killed after considerable hard work done by some of our energetic young men. One of the interesting features of the bill was the smoothness in which it was drawn, eliminating all reference to charlatans, quacks and newspaper advertising, since these items had caused the antagonism of the press and consequent loss of the bill in previous years. It was aimed more directly at the Homœopathic and Eclectic schools. Indeed, one of the most prominent charlatans of San Francisco told the writer that he was working with the Allopaths in favor of the passage of the bill.

The Eclectic school joined hands with us in our work, and they introduced a bill giving equal rights to all schools on the Boards of Health and in all institutions supported by public moneys. This passed the Assembly by a vote of 59 to 1 (the latter being an Allopathic physician), but was killed by the boodle element in the Senate. Even the mayor of San Francisco, a druggist by trade, came all the way to Sacramento to fight the bill. All the public health officials of the city of San Francisco, the health officer and quarantine officer—all were there to fight it because it simply meant the taking away of considerable patronage from Allopathic control. Both sides are organizing for a bitter fight two years hence. No doubt that by continued effort we shall win, as popular sentiment and the newspapers are on our side.

New Societies.—The San Francisco County Homœopathic Society was formed with some sixty members. President, J. N. Eckel, M.D.; Secretary, Grant Selfridge, M.D. Its meetings are held monthly.

New Hospitals, etc.—The San Francisco Hahnemann Hospital building fund is constantly increasing. An art loan exhibit given during the winter netted a neat sum. Other existing hospitals are flourishing.

Dr. C. A. Wayland, of San José, has received the appointment of health officer of that city. Dr. Grant Selfridge, of San Francisco, has received the appointment of oculist and aurist to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which, on the Pacific coast, wields more power than the Government. Our towns are all well supplied by Homœopathic physicians.

The Hahnemann Hospital College of San Francisco is in its most flourishing era. The building has been entirely refitted, a new gynæcological room added to the dispensary and more complete clinical facilities afforded to the students.

Journals.—The California Homœopath, formerly edited by Drs. Boericke and Dewey, has merged into a more assuming journal and one better calculated to meet the wants of the profession on the Coast. Dr. H. R. Arndt, of San Diego, is editor, and Boericke & Runyon, of San Francisco, publishers. The name of the new journal is The Pacific Coast Journal of Homœopathy.

Prof. Ward, the able gynæcologist of the Hahnemann Hospital College has opened a private sanitarium for abdominal surgery in San Francisco, to which students have access.

W. A. DEWEY, M.D., Delegate.

Illinois.

During the past year an attempt was made to alter the medical laws of the State, but the attempt failed.

Hahnemann College, of Chicago, received an appropriation of $150,000 and Hering College $100,000. Hahnemann has erected a new hospital building at a cost of $110,000 and a college building costing $50,000. Hering College has also established a hospital during the last year. There is also to be mentioned the World's Columbian Hospital recently erected in the Exposition Grounds at a cost of $15,000.

During the past year, Dr. Vincent, of Springfield, was appointed a member of the State Board of Health, and has since been elected by the Board as its President.

WESLEY A. DUNN, M.D., Delegate.

Indiana.

During the legislative session of 1893 a bill was offered providing for the appointment of a Board of State Medical Examiners, whose duty would be to examine all applicants for license to practice medicine in the State.

The bill further provided that said board should be composed of seven Allopathic and two Homœopathic physicians, a majority of whom should pass on each applicant. This bill we considered unjust, as it would, if allowed to become a law, be made to discriminate against Homœopaths. Hence, our Legislative Committee proceeded to open fire upon the bill, which opened the eyes of some prominent members of the Legislature to the nature of the bill, and it died still-born.

No new societies have been formed during the last year. No appropriation, donations nor legacies. The fact that Homœopathy is not represented upon the medical staffs of the benevolent and penal institutions of the State is due largely to the apathy of its adherents. Some efforts in this direction have been made from time to time, but have usually been made without concert and without energy and persistence.

The governing power is not prejudiced, and does not discriminate, but simply lacks information, which might easily be furnished were the profession as alert and as interested as it should be. In proof of this I will cite the fact that in the organization of a State Board of Health the Homœopathic School was recognized, not so much because recognition was demanded as that the framers of the bill feared that it might be defeated were the claims of that school ignored. They therefore gave assurance that a representative would be allowed on the board. Two years after the passage of the act establishing the board, the Homœopathic member was dropped, and that because he did not take sufficient interest in the matter to prompt him to demand and work for his reappointment. Thus, for a period of two years, our school was without representation in any department of the State government.

At the end of that time a member of the Indiana Institute of Homœopathy procured through that body the passage of a resolution demanding the appointment, formed it into a petition which he presented to the Governor together with a statement of facts and rights to such recognition.

Although another Allopathic physician had been appointed to the vacancy for political reasons, yet upon the complaint of injustice done, the Governor procured the resignation of the appointee, and gave the place to the petitioner.

A Homœopathic physician is needed and could do well in Gas city and Rockville. Gas city is a growing town of thirty-five hundred people, situated in Eastern Indiana, in what is known as the natural gas belt. Rockville has a population of 3000, is located in Western Indiana, and needs a Homœopathic physician badly.

W. T. GOTT, M.D., Delegate.

Kansas.

The Homœopathic physicians number about one to every five thousand of the inhabitants of the State. They hold such positions as that of physician to the Soldiers' Orphan Home, the School of Reformation for boys, and fill positions in other State and charitable institutions. One of their number has for eight years past been elected annually to the presidency of the State Board of Health. This board is composed of four Allopaths, two Eclectics and three Homœopaths, all appointed by the Governor. They are not a Board of Examiners, their work being confined to the field of sanitation and supervision of the general public health interest of the State. They have worked harmoniously together, and like brothers have dwelt together in unity.

The Kansas State Homœopathic Medical Society held its Twenty-fifth Annual Session, at Topeka, on the 3d, 4th and 5th of May, 1893. The following physicians were elected delegates to the American Institute of Homœopathy and World's Congress of Homœopathic Physicians and Surgeons:

E. R. Tuttle, M.D., Salina; E. R. Thompson, M.D., McPherson; J. W. Light, M.D., Kingman; G. H. Anderson, M.D., Seneca; P. Diederich, M.D., Kansas City; G. H. T. Johnson, M.D., Atchison.

The Homœopathic physicians of the State are working to secure the exclusive medical control of one of the insane asylums of the State with fair prospects of success, and are vigilantly looking after the interests of our school in all directions.

E. R. TUTTLE, M.D., Delegate.

Maine.

In the absence of the Chairman, is becomes my duty as a delegate to answer to the call for Maine. The Maine Homœopathic Medical Society has a membership of seventy active members and five honorary ones. It holds annual meetings, usually the first week in June. The Society was incorporated by Act of Legislature in 1867 and organized very soon after with seventeen members. One hundred and twenty physicians residing in the State have been connected with it besides six non-resident honorary physicians. At the session in 1892 seven physicians were elected to active membership and one to honorary membership. Six volumes of its Transactions have been published. The requirements for membership are as follows: "Any person shall be eligible to membership who has received the degree of Doctor of Medicine from a legally authorized medical institute, sustains a good moral character, and acknowledges and practices medicine according to the law Similia Similibus Curantur.

Homœopathy was introduced into Maine in 1840 by a foreigner, Dr. Sandricky, who came to Eastport and later in the same year to Bath, where the first convert, an Old-School physician was made. Much ridicule, abuse and persecution has been heaped upon Homœopathists by the Old-School adherents, perhaps some less of late years, yet Homœopathy has continued to spread, until there are ninety physicians of this faith in the State, an average of one to every 7400 inhabitants. Very many of the towns know nothing of it. There is no law restricting any person from practicing medicine. The following statute seems too absurd to have a place in the laws of the State—Chap. 13, Sec. 9, reads as follows: "No person who has not received a medical degree at a public medical institution in the United States, or a license from Maine Medical Association, shall recover compensation for medical or surgical services, unless previous to such service he had obtained a certificate of good moral character from the municipal officers of the town where he then resided." The Maine Medical Association is the Old-School Society, and according to this statute is empowered to license any person it sees fit to practice medicine. The effect is a rich field for quacks since they demand their fees in advance, as in many cases a certificate of good moral character would be difficult to obtain.

During the session of the last Legislature, 1893, a bill carefully drawn to include all educated physicians was presented requiring the registration of all physicians having diplomas from regular chartered colleges. It had the support of a great majority of Homœopaths and Allopaths, but was vigorously opposed by one of the most heartless extortioners in New England. He is not a resident of Maine, but furnished money to oppose the bill by expensive counsel at the hearing before the Committee. It is a matter of regret that his efforts should have been seconded by a few Homœopathic physicians, some members of the Institute. The bill was defeated in committee, and charlatans have equal privileges with graduated physicians. In all the public institutions of the State not a Homœopath has an appointment. One was on the Board of Trustees of the Insane Hospital, and one who has since died, was on the staff of the Central Maine General Hospital, department of eye diseases. W. SCOTT HILL, M.D., Delegate.

New Jersey.

New Jersey, homœopathically considered has, during the past two years, in point of number of Homœopathic physicians, kept pace with the increase in population; and in clientage, wealth and influence exceeded this proportion. It has a flourishing State Society of which Dr. A. W. Baily, of Atlantic City, is President. There are two Homœopathic hospitals—at Trenton and Camden—both making good records. The State legislature last winter passed a bill appropriating $125,000 for a State Homœopathic Insane Asylum, which failed to become a law through the Governor being advised there was no funds with which to meet it. Next winter we expect to prevent any such results and thereby obtain what our legislators justly are so willing to grant. We have the single medical examining board, composed of five Allopaths, three Homœopaths and one Eclectic. Through our efforts a clause was inserted in the creating bill, requiring a unanimous vote to license any practitioner. This gave harmonious action and insured fair treatment at the hands of the majority. Since its organization 141 candidates have presented themselves with the following results: Of the Eclectics 50 per cent passed; Allopaths 82 per cent. and Homœopaths 86 per cent. Examination percentage of successful applicants: Eclectics 67, Allopaths 79 and Homœopaths 81. The best record made by any candidate was a graduate of a Homœopathic college. I know of no legacies, donations or appropriations for Homœopathic institutions and no new hospitals have been established. Regarding "towns where Homœopathic physicians are greatly needed," their name is Legion. Our medical colleges are so thorough in instruction, so rigorous in examination and the course of study so extended as to make the supply unequal to the demand. Better thus than otherwise; not how many but how good shall be the practitioners, is the true motto. If any State has an overplus, just send the good ones to Jersey. No others need apply.

Ohio.

Delegates:—D. H. Beckwith, M.D., Cleveland; J. D. Buck, M.D., Cincinnati; J. A. Gann, M.D., Wooster.

Mr. President and Members of the Institute:

It is with pleasure that I respond to the call of the State of Ohio. I remember Cleveland, with only three Homœopathic physicians. To-day we number one hundred.

SOCIETIES.—In most of the counties in the State, Medical Societies exist. We also have district organizations, where several counties unite and establish a society. All these are tributaries to the Homœopathic Medical Society of Ohio, and all work for its advancement, prosperity and popularity.

I am proud to say that the local societies have had a larger attendance and better papers than any previous year. The State society, at its last meeting, never was equalled in numbers. The quality of its papers and its scientific discussions never surpassed.

Cincinnati extended the freedom of the city through its Mayor, to those in attendance, and the local physicians did honor to themselves. Our meeting this year was postponed through its officers, for one year, thus giving many of the physicians of Ohio, who could not have attended both meetings, an opportunity to attend the Congress and Institute here in session.

JOURNALS.—Ohio has three medical journals, published quarterly, which compare favorably with other medical publications and through them thousands of readers are supplied with progressive medical literature.

DISPENSARIES.—During the past year, the Medical and Surgical Dispensaries throughout the State, have treated more medical and surgical patients than any previous year. Medical and Surgical Staffs have been organized. Specialists have had their departments well represented, so that the poor have been treated in every branch of medicine, with all the care and attention that wealth could have provided for them.

MATERNITY HOME.—During the past year, the Cleveland physicians have established a Maternity Home, which has been of great advantage to the senior students in clinical work. It is managed by a board of ladies, and is one of the charities of Cleveland.

TRAINING SCHOOL.—The Training School for Nurses, has been under a thorough course of instruction by competent teachers, selected from the professors of the two colleges. The number of graduates at the last commencement was greater than the class of last year.

These trained nurses are in great demand by physicians of both the New and Old School of medicine. Over one hundred applicants to enter the Training School, during the past year, could not be received, as only a certain number can be accommodated. It requires over fifty to do the hospital work.

HOSPITALS.—The Cleveland Homœopathic Hospital had a very large number of medical and surgical patients during the past year. It has paid all its indebtedness, and has to-day several thousand dollars in bank to its credit.

The Hospital is large and commodious, but cannot accommodate the demands for admission that are made daily. The Executive Committee has plans and specifications prepared for a large fireproof annex, and we hope it will be completed by next year.

Toledo has just opened a new and beautiful hospital, which has from seventy-five to one hundred beds. It is located in a desirable portion of the city, and built and sustained by the citizens of the place. The ladies of Toledo have done noble work in building and furnishing so fine a building. They work as true Christian women in this charity work to relieve the sick and wounded.

The Old and New School of Medicine each have their Medical and Surgical staff. The lady managers and trustees are represented from each school.

I predict success for the New School, providing the physicians and surgeons work in peace and harmony together, waiving all petty jealousies, and stand firm for the best interests of the hospital, working daily for its maintenance, its reputation and success. Time will develop the loyalty of the Toledo doctors to Homœopathy.

COLLEGES.—During the past year two large and elegant Homœopathic college buildings have been completed in Cleveland, and thoroughly equipped in every department. These buildings are of so fine a structure that they are an ornament to the city, and the physicians of the New School of Medicine are proud that Ohio has done so much for Homœopathy the past year.

The trustees have made some important changes in the methods of instruction, which they claim will be of great advantage to the medical students. The three colleges have improved their curriculum of studies, and their teachers are second to no other college in the United States.

A dental department in the old college, has a complete faculty. In the new building, these rooms are so constructed that the best of clinical and practical work can be accomplished.

DONATIONS.—The donations, contributions and endowments to the hospitals and dispensaries in Cleveland the past year have far exceeded those of any preceding year. The work done for Homœopathy the past year, has added wealth and popularity to our school of medicine throughout the State of Ohio.

D. H. BECKWITH, M.D.

THE STATUS OF HOMŒOPATHY IN SOUTHERN OHIO.

The status of Homœopathy in Southern Ohio, may be best represented by a brief report of the Homœopathic institutions found therein, together with the rate of increase or decrease in the number of practitioners.

The Homœopathic institutions in Southern Ohio consist now of one college, Pulte Medical College, at Cincinnati; two hospitals, also in Cincinnati, viz.: The Ohio Hospital for Women and Children, and the proposed hospital in connection with the Pulte Medical College.

Aside from this, Homœopathy is represented in the Protestant Home for the Friendless and Foundlings, at Cincinnati, which asked the aid of the Homœopathic profession during the hot summer of 1890. This step was found necessary by the managers of this great charity, on account of a very high rate of mortality. It is sufficient to record, that Homœopathy accepted the call and the mortality record of 62½ per cent. of the Old School, was at once reduced to 50 per cent. in the face of the hot summer, and the opposition of nurses not in sympathy with the change.

Under Homœopathic administration, extensive repairs were made, and a maternity hospital added and the mortality rate of 46 per cent., foundlings, mother-babes and accouchment cases included. During the year 1892 the mortality rate was for foundlings, 37 per cent., for mother-babes 7 per cent., and one death in 76 obstetric cases. This was a malformed pelvis, requiring a Cæsarean section.

In regard to Societies in Southern Ohio, the Cincinnati Homœopathic Lyceum heads the list with a membership of sixty; next comes the active Montgomery County Homœopathic Medical Society with a membership of 55.

The number of Homœopathic practitioners is increasing, especially in the larger cities and towns. There are splendid locations in this field and the Southern Ohio territory will bear investigation in this regard.

J. D. Buck, M.D.

Central Ohio.

But little more than a generation has passed since the first seeds of Homœopathy were sown in Central Ohio.

Like all growths that have attained strength and permanency it was destined to endure the storms of opposition.

Misrepresentation, social persecution, and professional ostracism combined to destroy the new plant which even in its early growth gave much promise of vigor and endurance.

Justice to the memory of those who were instrumental in founding Homœopathy in Central Ohio would require the mention of a goodly number of worthy Homœopathic physicians; and yet promi-nently, and as pioneers, we must only mention (for lack of space) the names of honored Prof. A. O. Blair, formerly of California, Prof. G. W. Barnes, late of California, and D. Lewis Barnes, formerly of Delaware, Ohio.

In the central section of Ohio we find, by the latest directory reports, we have 145 Homœopathic physicians. (The Old School having 1155; the Eclectics 117; unclassified 74.)

The only Homœopathic Medical Society in Central Ohio is the Columbus Clinical Club, and this not large.

Though there are, about 1000 Homœopathic physicians in the State of Ohio, only 247 belong to the State Medical Society, and 74 to the American Institute of Homœopathy.

Ohio still presents a good field for Homœopathy; for 13 counties are still without a Homœopathic physician; and in the State 848 towns, some small, and others of two or more thousand inhabitants that are still without a representative of our school; and urgent calls are frequently sent: "Come over into Macedonia and help us."

JOHN A. GANN, M.D.

Reports on Medical Literature and Medical Education were called for, but were not presented.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION.

Dr. Dudley offered a motion that the report on Transportation, as published in the Annual Circular, be accepted as the report of the Committee on Transportation, Dr. A. C. Cowperthwaite, of Chicago, Chairman. Following is the report:

The Chairman of the Committee of Transportation, reports that he has been unable to obtain any special concessions for the benefit of those attending the sessions of the Institute and of the Congress of Homœopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

A. C. COWPERTHWAITE,

Adopted. Chairman.

Dr. C. E. Fisher offered a motion that as the hour for the morning session, 9 o'clock, appeared to be inconveniently early for a majority of the members, therefore the President of the Institute be requested and authorized to confer with the President of the Congress, with a view of securing a later hour for the Institute session.

Dr. Talbot moved as a substitute that we adhere to the hour as agreed upon and adopted.

The question was disscussed briefly by Drs. Julia Holmes Smith, T. G. Comstock, Pemberton Dudley, C. E. Fisher and B. W. James. The substitute was lost and the original motion adopted.

President McClelland subsequently announced that he had been in conference with President Mitchell on the subject, and they had agreed that hereafter the Institute should meet at 9.30 and the Congress at 10.30 A.M., and that such would be the order.

The selection of the place and time of the next annual session of the Institute was, on motion of Dr. Fisher, made the special order for Thursday morning, immediately after the consideration of the reports on time limit of the sessions and on revision of the By-laws.

Dr. Henry M. Smith, of New York City, moved, and the Institute, by vote, ordered that the Board of Censors present the names of candidates for membership in alphabetical order.

Dr. R. B. Rush, Chairman of the Board of Censors, asked that the thirty-eight applicants for membership reported yesterday, be elected. They were duly elected.

The Board of Censors reported, through Dr. C. B. Kinyon, the names of twenty-five additional candidates for membership. The Institute then adjourned till 9.30 on Wednesday morning.

THIRD DAY.

MAY 31, 1893.

The Institute came to order at 9.30 A.M., pursuant to adjournment, the President in the chair.

Dr. R. B. Rush, Chairman of the Board of Censors, moved the election to membership of those whose names had been announced on Tuesday morning. They were duly elected.

DR. I. T. TALBOT said: Mr. President, I have a matter of historical interest and value to present to the Institute. There has in some way a grave mistake crept into the chronological list of the Institute, and which has been continued from year to year for several years. The General Secretary, not feeling himself empowered to correct what had appeared as an inaccuracy for so many years, now suggests that the Institute take the proper steps to correct the error. The Institute, when first established, was very simple in its organization, and it was the vote of the body, at the first session, that it should not have a president, but simply be presided over by a chairman. There was held a caucus the year before, and the person was nominated and then elected at the beginning of the meeting, and this person was known as chairman of the meeting. That continued from the year 1844, the formation of the Institute, down to 1865. In the proceedings of that year there appears for the first time a president and vice-president, and from that time on down, the preceding chairmen have been published as presidents. This publication falsifies the records and should be corrected. I move, sir, that the Secretary be directed to correct the inaccuracy referred to.

Adopted.

DR. H. M. SMITH: I would like to call attention of the Institute to the fact that next year is the semi-centennial anniversary of the American Institute of Homœopathy, organized in 1844. In 1888 there was prepared a roster of all the members of the Institute from the organization up to date; that list, as you may imagine, has considerably grown, and I have here the old list with the additions. I would move, sir, that this list be corrected for publication up to date, either for publication in this volume of TRANSACTIONS or in the volume of next year. Dr. Dudley has suggested that it should be prepared in time for this year's volume, inasmuch as the usual scientific proceedings will not be published in our TRANSACTIONS, but will doubtless be taken in hand independently by the World's Congress Auxiliary; our own volume will, therefore, be smaller, so that it would be a good plan to insert this corrected list in the volume of this present Institute session. In 1876 there was a synopsis of the TRANSACTIONS of the preceding years begun, and Dr. Strong for some years afterwards continued it up to 1882–3. I would also suggest that that abstract be corrected, added to, and published in our present year's volume, so that any member can look back and see just what was done without the necessity of reading each volume. It would be a general index of what was done, because the old volumes of our TRANSACTIONS are fast disappearing, and of course will not be reprinted. I therefore move that a committee be appointed to revise our roster of members, bringing it up to date to be published in this year's TRANSACTIONS, and also that the abstract of proceedings as published in 1876 be republished and brought up to date.

Adopted.

Drs. H. M. Smith and T. M. Strong were appointed the committee.

DR. COWPERTHWAITE: On behalf of the Censors I desire to report on a matter which concerns the status of Dr. C. E. Fisher. I will not need to enter into the merits of this case—it is well known to all—but will simply say that the Chairman of the Board of Censors has very thoroughly investigated the question, and we report unanimously in favor of placing Dr. C. E. Fisher back to the date upon which he made his application, provided he pays dues for the intervening years, and we find there is no reason why this should not be done. I may say, in addition, for those who are not wholly familiar with this motion, that Dr. Fisher made application to the Institute for membership in 1873, and the matter was deferred on account of the fact that some objection was made to the college from which he graduated; after that he was graduated from another school. In 1884 he made a second application, and was recognized by the Institute. He thinks it but justice to himself that he be restored to the original date, inasmuch as it was through no fault of his that the objection was made, and as he is willing to pay up all back dues.

On motion of Dr. Kinne the report of the Board of Censors was accepted.

Dr. Kinne also moved that the recommendation contained in the report be adopted.

DR. I. T. TALBOT: The question is upon the antedating of the membership of one honored in this Institute for the good work he has done, the activity which he has shown in the cause of Homœopathy here and elsewhere; a member who has been honored with the position of Vice-President of the American Institute of Homœopathy. He is a friend of all of us; one whom we all regard, and whose future we look forward to with the greatest of anticipations and hope; one concerning whom there can be little doubt regarding his fealty and sincerity to the Institute. But there is a very serious question, more serious than that which concerns the individual; and that is whether we as an Institute, now nearly 50 years old, can go back into its past years and falsify its records. It is a question which throws a doubt upon all the records that we have; if we have the right at any time to go back and change matters of fact which occurred years and years ago, we leave ourselves open to the charge of being unreliable, and mix up our records. It is in accordance with the motion just carried here that we should correct our records. It is in accordance with the past history of this Institute in 1866 or '67 that a man came before the Institute and wanted his connection with the Institute antedated three years. He had sent, at the very beginning, his application for membership; it had been mislaid or kept in the pocket of one of the officers of the Institute, who had forgotten to present it; this man was elected in 1847, and his application was not antedated. He said it was no fault of his that the application rested so long in the hands of a negligent official; it was the fault of the Institute that he was not sooner elected, and he demanded that he should be considered one of the members of the Institute for an earlier date than that upon which his application had been ultimately received and acted on by the Institute. But the Institute voted unanimously that his date should not be changed. The case before us now is one that came clearly before the Institute. I was myself then actively interested. It came to the Institute in 1873 at Cleveland with a diploma from a college which was then in doubt, and which very soon afterwards ceased its existence. Now, I cannot say how old the young man was at that time; but he refuses to tell me how old he is to-day; but my impression is that he was not 21 years old; that he was 20; and I advised him in a friendly way never to let a bit of suspicion or a blot rest upon his title of doctor of medicine; that he was young, and that he should take another course in some college and receive a diploma from an institution that there could be no doubt about. He did that. He did it nobly and well, and his diploma now can have no question about it. He didn't apply again for eleven years; he doesn't come in on his first application; but eleven years afterwards he made a new application and was elected to membership in 1884. Now, he comes to us and asks us—I won't say with undue activity—he asks us to antedate or change our record to make him hereafter as of date 1873. I cannot believe that this Institute will take such a step to throw a doubt upon all its records, as this act would unquestionably do.

DR. FISHER: It may seem a little personal to present my own side of the case. I had not intended speaking on the question, but the injustice that has been done me by the last speaker is too great to permit my keeping silent. I want to explain the situation. I want nothing but justice. This Institute has honored me repeatedly and I ask no favors other than those that belong of right to me and to every member. And I beg that when a vote is taken upon this question, the "personal equation" be not considered. The facts are these. In 1872 I was graduated from the Detroit Homœopathic College, which suspended its labors when the Ann Arbor University was established. In 1873, whether 15 or 40 years old, I was old enough to satisfy my constituents, and I went to Cleveland from Kansas as a delegate from the Kansas State Homœopathic Society to the American Institute. It was a revolutionary session. One of the professors in the Detroit College was an advertiser. There are some of the honored members of the Institute who were at that time in the same line. This college on the lake meant a fight with the college on the river, and hence my application in the city of the college by the lake was held in abeyance, because I was a graduate of the college on the river. My application for that reason was laid on the table until the status of the college on the river should be established to the satisfaction of the college on the lake. In 1874 this Institute elected a member of the Detroit college to membership. My application was not acted on,—was not taken from the table by the Institute through no fault of my own; it was clearly a case of sacrificing an applicant of a rival college. It should have been taken up; it lay there for eleven years. I was at a point so remote from the meetings of this Institute; I was in feeble health; I had gone to the frontier; and I have no apology to make for not having been able financially for eleven years to get back to the Institute. I took my second graduation at Pulte College. I am proud of her. But I say that my membership should have begun from the time that I first applied, and the application should have been taken from the table as soon as I had complied with the request of the Institute's committee, and it was not right to date me from my later application. In 1875, this same objectionable professor, Dr. Spinney, who had caused the Detroit college to be regarded with disfavor, was an applicant for and was elected a member of the Institute. I did not ask the Institute to antedate my application, because the status of the college was not defined until some years later. This does not falsify the records. It corrects a palpable error. If the Institute failed to take up the application through oversight of its constituted officers, it is always right to correct its errors; and your Board of Censors, to whom you have entrusted this matter, have carefully investigated the claim I make and have recommended that it be allowed. I want to go on the record where I belong, which is in 1874. This Institute does not care to know the hundreds of dollars I have spent and the thousands of miles I have travelled to have this wrong righted.

DR. COMSTOCK: Dr. Fisher is an honor to us; but we must not falsify our records to favor Dr. Fisher. We don't wish to do any injustice to Dr. Fisher; but the law is the law, and I hope that there it will stand.

DR. DUDLEY: I don't quite agree with the last speaker nor with Dr. Talbot. They say we must not falsify the record. Why not? If our records are wrong, correct them. People say if we have a rule, live up to that rule. The rule knows nothing; the man who makes the rule is the power. Rules furnish no warrant for an injustice. Dr. Fisher's original application has never been disposed of. It is still before this body. Dr. Fisher ought not to have made application a second time for membership; it was a mistake to do it. That is where his record went wrong. The original application ought to have been taken from the table when the second application was made, if it had not before been taken up; and this Institute should not have put the onus of that mistake upon Dr. Fisher. I believe in putting the responsibility of that act where it belongs,—upon us, not upon him. I don't like to falsify records either; but I would far rather falsify the record than be guilty of an injustice.

DR. TALBOT: If an application is laid upon the table, and afterwards acted on, do we date the membership back to the time of the original application? Would this not be an ex post facto proceeding?

DR. DUDLEY: We have thus antedated a membership twice since I have been Secretary.

Dr. KINNE: It is perfectly legitimate and has been done over and over again in my positive knowledge of the history of this Institute; where action has been deferred and taken up later, it has been dated back to the original status of the cause. It was only laid upon the table until a certain act could be performed, with which act Dr. Fisher had nothing to do. It was through no fault of his that the college was in doubt at the time.

The Censors' recommendation was then adopted.

On behalf of the Board of Censors, Dr. C. B. Kinyon began the reading of a further list of applicants for membership. Dr. Henry M. Smith raised the point of order that the list could not be received because the names were not arranged alphabetically, as required by a rule adopted on the previous day. The Chair decided the point of order well taken.

The Report of the Committee on the Hahnemann Monument.

was presented verbally by Dr. Henry M. Smith, of New York, N. Y. Dr. Smith said:

I am sorry that we have to hurry this matter through; it is so important that it ought to be considered at length and with great care. The interest in this matter, which has grown beyond our anticipations, justified the asking on our part of an hour set apart, in which we could consider it fully. In brief, I undertook to learn, a few nights ago, what we, as a committee, had done; but I cannot, in the time allotted me this morning, amplify my report so as to include even a major part of our report—which should include a sketch of the movement. Fortunately, the journals of our school have taken kindly to the movement and have published it far and wide, informing the profession generally of what has been done. I desire to state briefly that the movement, started in Washington last year, has outgrown the eleven members of the Institute; also that State committees have been appointed in many of the States; that committees of other local and district societies have been in correspondence with your committee, asking to be instructed in the plan of our movement. Other societies have said that they, too, would appoint committees when their regular meetings would be held. We encouraged this appointment of State and local and other societies' committees, because we desired to interest the physicians in those States and districts, and have them feel that their own friends were actively engaged in it; and also that, through them, we should be able to come in touch with a greater number of the public. We desire, of course, that each State shall take charge of the matter of pushing it and raising the funds as it sees fit; using whatever methods it may desire. We want to call, through them, public opinion and public attention through the public press. This is an era, as you know, of monuments. We are advertising the United States of America; we are advertising our friends and our manufactories; and it is a time when we should give her medical belief a front place, and bring it to the public notice with no uncertain sound. We want to be the first in the field to erect a monument in Washington—that city of monuments—to a physician. We undertook in New York to get an article published in some of the monthly periodicals whereby we could excite some interest in the subject of Homœopathy and in the life of Hahnemann; we had difficulty in doing so. Behind every magazine there was some medical man, and anything connected with medicine was referred to him, who, in the large majority of cases, was an Old-School doctor. We thought if we could get hold of some journalist of known reputation, anything over his signature would be taken by the journals; but we found the journals would have naught to do with the subject, no matter over whose signature. We have learned, however, that the Journal of American History, for some reason, made application for a history of Homœopathy, and that they have it in preparation,—a series of three articles,—with a sketch of the life of Hahnemann. It is not necessary to go into any detail or any sketch of Hahnemann, but since I have been to this meeting a number of gentlemen have asked me where they could get a sketch of Hahnemann's life. Johnson's Encyclopædia had one sketch of him; it was written by an Old-School doctor, and they threw it aside; but in preparing their biographical dictionary, they asked me if I knew where they could get a sketch of Hahnemann. In regard to the contract, we have held the matter in abeyance. The editor of the New York Herald said: "We will give you all the notice you want, if you can catch me in; if you can get my ear. We will do anything for you; we will give you any size notice; but don't make any noise about it until you are ready to have it done. Don't let it be stale when you come to me with it." So you see we have the promise of a strong friend by-and-by.

We have taken subscriptions of any amounts that the subscribers are willing to give. So far we have received about $5000, of which some is paid, and deposited in the Knickerbocker Trust Company, where it is drawing interest. Instead of soliciting, the societies have written us, asking whether we had any plan to propose; thereupon we sent out a circular which most of you have already received. In addition to this we have small subscription blanks, which I will gladly furnish to you.

DR. BUSHROD W. JAMES: The question of the different States taking up this matter was first thought of in Washington; and the State of Pennsylvania took action at once. The president of the State society appointed a committee, and that committee appointed a treasurer, and the society is at work. The city of New York, I understand, has the same method. I found that my best method of obtaining subscriptions was to tell the people what had been subscribed. Therefore, as soon as I was appointed, I obtained from Dr. Smith the names and amounts of those who had subscribed, and had the information printed. We have already had subscribed about $2400.

THE PRESIDENT: We have taken up a good deal of time with other matters that might, perhaps, have been given to this plan. We want to explain the aim of this monument committee. It represents the American Institute of Homœopathy. It simply is, in a word, that this great body of Homœopathic doctors say, we will see justice done to the memory of Samuel Hahnemann. Now, it will come very gracefully from this Institute to say, at the National Capital, where people from all parts of the earth are flocking year after year, that there shall stand a magnificent monument to the greatest reformer of modern or ancient times. I don't believe it is necessary to explain the object of this movement; it speaks for itself. We are anxious to give the members of this Institute an opportunity to push it forward, and all we desire to do this morning is to say that, although the movement has but just begun,—very few really knowing of it,—the subscriptions have run up into the neighborhood of $6000. I hope that each member of this body will put down his name on the list; then he can take it to others and enlist them in the same work, and so help to spread the name and fame of our great Master, Hahnemann. I think I have had subscribed, through my own efforts, in the neighborhood of $400 or $500. It is not necessary that we shall get so much from every member's efforts. Some of the members have started with $100, others $50, others $25, and so it will go on through to the bottom of the list. What we are especially anxious for is the names of those who will start the ball. You know perfectly well that every name that is put down on a subscription list helps us to get another name.

Here the President told how he had succeeded in interesting a patron of Homœopathy so that he subscribed $100 for himself and another $100 for his wife. He also spoke of some little dime-savings-banks that he had made use of by placing them on the mantels of some of his families, and asked if this was not a good way to raise fifty or seventy-five thousand dollars. He closed by exhorting the Institute to take the matter in hand at once and let no effort be spared to put this seal of our love and reverence for Hahnemann in a prominent spot in the city of Washington.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE TO ASSIST THE COMMITTEE ON PHARMACOPŒIA was presented by its Chairman, Dr. T. Y. Kinne, of Paterson, N. J. The report was accepted and the committee discharged. Following is the report:

"The Special Committee appointed at the request of the Committee on International Pharmacopœia to advise regarding some questions arising from the action of the American Institute of Homœopathy, at its session in 1892, beg leave to submit their report.

"WHEREAS, Doubts have arisen in the minds of some of the Committee on Pharmacopœia as to the intent of a resolution adopted by the Institute at its last session—which resolution is as follows:

"Resolved, That the Committee on Pharmacopœia be instructed to give precedence to the old Latin names of drugs in common use and to place the new chemical name to the right and on the same line, therefore,

"Resolved, That there is nothing in the said resolution which prevents the Committee on Pharmacopœia from adding a third title to those already mentioned, whenever it shall be deemed best so to do, provided the ordered arrangement be not interfered with.

"Resolved, That the Committee on International Pharmacopœia be directed to proceed with all posssble dispatch in the publication of this valuable work so nearly completed; so much needed, and already too long delayed."

T. Y. KINNE,
Chairman.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON PHARMACOPŒIA was presented by Dr. J. P. Dake, of Nashville, Tenn., as follows:

"The preparation of the work which we fondly hoped would be in your hands before this date is almost entirely ready for the printer. Through the efficient aid given us by your special committee, asked for early in the session, we are pleased to say that all obstacles to our progress are now removed."

Dr. J. B. G. Custis, of Washington City, Chairman of the Auditing Committee, reported that the committee had examined the accounts and vouchers of the treasurer and find his report correct. The report, with that of the treasurer, were then accepted and referred to the Committee of Publication. (See "Report of the Treasurer.")

The Board of Censors then presented the names of 45 applicants for membership. These were laid over under the rule governing the subject. Adjourned till 9.30 Thursday morning.

FOURTH DAY.

JUNE 1, 1893.

The Institute reconvened at 9.30 o'clock, President McClelland in the chair.

Dr. Rush, Chairman of the Board of Censors, moved the election of the candidates for membership reported the previous day. His motion was adopted and the candidates declared elected.

Dr. Kinyon, of the same board reported a number of additional names.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON TIME-LIMIT FOR THE INSTITUTE SESSIONS

was called for and Dr. Kinne, Chairman of the Committee, said that his committee had had a conference with the Committee on the Revision of By-Laws, so as to harmonize their action; and he would ask that the latter committee report first; then will be given the changes arranged by the committee to fix the time-limit.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE REVISION OF THE BY-LAWS

was then presented by Dr. Pemberton Dudley, Chairman of the Committee, in a printed pamphlet which had been placed in the hands of the Institute members. The report opens as follows:

Your committee, to whom was assigned the task of revising the Institute By-Laws, has endeavored to retain every operative feature of the present government of the organization, and to eliminate all that has become useless by reason of changes in our methods. We have included in the revised by-laws all the Standing Resolutions that have acquired the force of society law; have recommended the discontinuance of all that have become inoperative from whatever cause, and have corrected that feature of our rules under which, in several instances, they either repeat or contradict each other. And finally we have so re-arranged the by-laws as to bring each of the subjects to which they pertain under its own proper heading and in its own separate Article. This was particularly needed in Article VII. of the old By-Laws, as that article treated of almost every subject connected with the government of the Institute.

The Institute then considered the recommendations of the Committee seriatim. At the request of the chairman these were read by Dr. Kinne.

Article II. Change "Vice-President" to "Vice-Presidents;" and "Treasurer" to "Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer."

Insert after "which shall" the words "arrange the business of the session." Adopted.

Article III., Section 1, strike out the words: "He shall deliver an address at the opening of each session, embodying a rêsumê of the progress of Homœopathy during the year past, and make such suggestions as he may deem necessary for the Institute to take action on during the session; and he may also consider any subject relating to medical science." Adopted.

Section 2 change to read, "The Vice-Presidents, in their order, shall perform," etc. Adopted.

Section 3 strike out the words "and the titles of the subjects selected by said Bureau," and add "He shall have printed, during the session, a daily list of the members and visitors registered, which shall give the registration number, residence, and local habitation of each person, and shall provide a number sufficient to furnish a copy to each and all those in attendance. He shall be empowered to employ clerical aid necessary to the performance of this duty."

Dr. Fisher moved the interpolation of the words "wherever practicable" after words "He shall have printed." Adopted as amended.

Add the following:

SEC. 5. It shall be the special duty of the Provisional Secretary to make, or provide, stenographic reports of scientific discussions of the Institute and of its Bureaus, and of all debates upon the reports and papers presented by the standing committees. He shall send copies of these discussions or debates for revision and correction to their authors respectively, who shall be required to return them within one week after their reception, when they shall be furnished to the General Secretary for publication in the TRANSACTIONS.

Add to the above Section as follows: "The Provisional Secretary shall receive a salary of two hundred dollars, and his actual expenses in the performance of his official duties shall be paid by the Institute."

DR. KINNE: According to the rules of the Institute in years past, the compensation of the Provisional Secretary has been determined by the officers of the Institute with the exception of the General Secretary; and it has required him to furnish an itemized statement of his accounts and upon that statement the officers have declared he should receive a certain compensation. The committee have found that in years past his actual compensation for his own work has averaged about $200. In the payment to the Provisional Secretary have been included all other stenographic work. It is now proposed to pay him a fixed sum or salary the same as to the General Secretary, and the Institute paying the bills for stenographic assistance as heretofore.

DR. TALBOT: We are dividing the duties in an improper way. The General Secretary should be the one responsible for the work done. He is given a Provisional Secretary who shall assist the General Secretary, and in his absence perform his duties. It seems to me that the General Secretary is the one who should have direction of all these reports. If we put this power directly in the hands of the Provisional Secretary the matter becomes very much mixed. I move that the article stand as it originally stood: "The Provisional Secretary shall assist the General Secretary, and in his absence perform his duties."

DR. KINNE: No changes have been made in the rules of the Institute. It is simply taking Resolutions 17, 18, and 38, which have been passed by the Institute and which control the Provisional Secretary, and simply combine them so that they will be uniform, and put them into the By-Laws, where they belong. That is all there is of it. Not a change of a word one way or the other; simply unifying the resolutions and conferring upon them the dignity of being a by-law, as they have always been in effect.

Dr. Talbot's amendment was lost.

The committee's recommendation was then adopted.

Add as follows:

SEC. 6. In the absence or disability of the Provisional Secretary, his duties shall devolve upon the General Secretary. Adopted.

Add as follows:

SEC. 8. The Assistant Treasurer shall render aid to the Treasurer, and, in his absence or disability, perform his duties. Adopted.

In regard to Article IV., Dr. Kinne said: The only question that came up in the committee was whether the Board as a Board should be elected annually, or whether they should be properly a standing committee to hold office five years; that is, change one member each year, and we ask the sense of the Institute upon that matter. After some discussion Dr. Talbot said: This is a question of such manifest importance to us that we cannot safely handle it in this desultory way. I move, sir, that this Article IV. be laid on the table until it can be clearly written out.

The motion was adopted.

Under Article V., add the following as

SEC. 2. No physician, graduated subsequent to the year 1891, shall be eligible to membership, unless said graduation has followed three, full, annual courses of didactic and clinical lectures of not less than six months each.

That Article VI. be here inserted as

SEC. 3. Members shall pay annually the sum of five dollars towards defraying the expenses of the Institute. The TRANSACTIONS of the Institute shall be sent to those members only who have paid their dues.

That Sec. 14, of Article VII., be transferred to this Article, as follows:

SEC. 4. Members neglecting the payment of dues for three years, after proper notification from the Treasurer, shall have their names dropped from the roll of membership. Any member thus dropped shall have the privilege of reinstatement either by paying all arrearages or by applying as a new member under the existing By-Laws, his membership to date from said application.

Add as follows:

SEC. 5. The Executive Committee shall be authorized to remit, sub silentio, the dues of those who, for ten years, have been in good membership and have paid their dues during that time, provided such members are unable to continue payment of their annual dues.

The above four Sections were adopted.

SEC. 6. All members of the Institute who have maintained twenty-five consecutive years of membership shall be considered Senior Members, and be exempt from the payment of annual dues; and the names of such members shall be printed first in the list of members, in capital letters.

Section 6 of Article V. of the old By-Laws was rescinded, and Section 5 was changed to Section 6.

The hour of twelve having arrrived, the further consideration of the report was postponed to half-past two o'clock, the session to be held in "Room 29."

The selection of the time and place of the Annual Session of 1894 was next in order, and nominations were called for: Dr. J. P. Dake nominated Boston, Mass.; Dr. Henry M. Smith nominated Newport, R. I.; Dr. A. C. Cowperthwaite nominated Denver, Col.; Dr. Malcolm Dills nominated Louisville, Ky.

The nomination of Denver was seconded in brief speeches by Drs. Walker, of Denver; Runnels, of Indianapolis, and Hanchett, of Colorado. Boston was seconded in the same manner by Drs. Boothby and Winthrop T. Talbot, both of that city, and by Dr. H. M. Smith, of New York, speaking for "Boston or its vicinity."

The vote being by ballot, Drs. J. E. James, of Philadelphia; Wm. R. King, of Washington, D.C.; C. W. Butler, of Montclair, N. J., and Z. T. Miller, of Pittsburgh, Pa., were appointed tellers.

A single ballot was taken, resulting as follows:

Washington, D. C.,	1
Omaha, Neb.,	1
Newport, R. I.,	3
Louisville, Ky.,	19
Boston, Mass.,	50
Denver, Col.,	132

Total, 206. Necessary to a choice, 104.

President McClelland declared that Denver, Col., having received a majority of all the votes cast, had been selected as the place for holding the next Annual Session.

On motion of Dr. Alonzo Boothby, of Boston, the choice was made unanimous.

On motion the Institute ordered that the precise date for the next session be referred to the Executive Committee in conference with the Committee of Local Arrangements.

Dr. C. E. Fisher, of Chicago, offered a resolution referring to the Semi-Centennial of the Institute, which was adopted, as follows:

WHEREAS, In view of the fact that the session of 1894 will celebrate the semi-centennial of the existence of the American Institute of Homœopathy, it is hereby

Resolved, That said Annual Session be made to partake of the character of a Semi-Centennial Jubilee, and

Resolved, That the President is instructed to appoint a Jubilee Committee of ten members from the general membership of the Institute to act in conjunction with the local committee of arrangements to be hereafter appointed, to arrange fully for said Jubilee meeting.

Resolved, That the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated toward the expenses of printing, etc., in connection therewith.

Dr. J. S. Mitchell, of Chicago, then nominated the following distinguished foreign physicians to be Corresponding Members of the American Institute of Homœopathy: Dr. Alfred E. Hawkes, Liverpool, Eng.; Dr. J. Cavendish Molson, London, Eng.; Dr. Oscar Hansen, Copenhagen, Denmark, Dr. P. C. Majumdar, Calcutta, India; Dr. Charles F. Fischer, Sydney, N. S. W.; Dr. Vernon Hamilton, Ontario; Dr. Logan, Dr. Henderson, Dr. Robinson, Dr. Edwin Adams.

These nominations were referred to the Board of Censors.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON LIFE INSURANCE EXAMINERS was presented by Dr. A. C. Cowperthwaite, of Chicago, Ill., Chairman of Committee. It was accepted and referred to the Committee of Publication, as follows:

To the Officers and Members of the American Institute of Homœopathy:

Your Committee on Life Insurance Examiners would respectfully report that we have done no systematic work the past year, the same not seeming to have been called for. Some correspondence has been had, and some alleged discriminations have been inquired into. On the whole, we think the action of this Institute has had a wholesome effect, and that there is much less discrimination against Homœopathic physicians than formerly.

While we do not wish to enter into a correspondence on every little point, yet the chairman would be glad to be informed in regard to all cases where discriminations are known to have been made.

The death of Dr. George A. Hall leaves a vacancy in this committee.

THE AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

proposed by Dr. T. M. Strong, at the session of 1892, to strike out of Article III. the words "and a Treasurer," and insert "A Treasurer and an Assistant Treasurer" was then adopted.

The Institute then adjourned till 2.30 P.M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Institute re-assembled at 2.30 o'clock, President McClelland being in the chair, and resumed the consideration of the report of the Committee on the Revision of the By-Laws.

Section 3 of Article V. of the old By-Laws was amended by inserting after the word "meeting" the words "on recommendation of the Board of Censors," and by numbering it Section 7.

Section 2 was re-numbered Section 10, and its last line was stricken out.

Article VI. of the old By-Laws was changed to Section 3 of Article V., and was amended by changing "Proceedings" to "Transactions," and substituting "shall" for "will."

The following was adopted:

That wherever in these By-Laws the word "Bureau" occurs it shall be changed to "Section."

Also, that Article VII. of the old By-Laws be divided into two Articles, to be numbered VI. and VII., the former to relate to Sections, the latter to Committees.

Under Article VI.—Sections.

Section 1 was changed as follows:

"The Section in Clinical Medicine" to read "Clinical Medicine and Pathology."

"Anatomy, Physiology and Pathology" to be stricken out.

"Nervous and Mental Diseases" to be changed to "Neurology."

"The Section on Organization," etc., to be changed to "a Committee."

Section 2. Strike out "nor more than fifteen." Adopted.

Section 3. Change to read as follows: "The Chairman of each Section in his address shall include a rêsumé of progress and discovery in the special field to which said Section pertains." Adopted.

Section 6 was numbered Section 4, and amended by striking out "not later than the Thursday morning session," and inserting "as early in the progress of the session as practicable," and adding the words "but no member of a Bureau who has failed to perform active service thereon shall be appointed to its chairmanship for the ensuing year." Adopted.

Section 7 was changed to Section 5, and amended by striking out the words "shall call his associates together and organize," and insert "shall select his associates and complete the organization of." Also, by striking out all after the first sentence and inserting "He shall, within one month after his appointment, send to the General Secretary a list of the officers and members of his Section."

Add the following:

Section 6. No member shall serve on more than one bureau in any one year.

Section 7. Vacancies occurring in any bureau may be filled by its Chairman, who shall give immediate notice thereof to the General Secretary. Adopted.

Article VII.—Committees.

In Section 1, "The list of committees" was changed to read as follows:

a. Organization, Registration and Statistics.

b. Legislation.

c. Medical Literature.

d. Foreign Correspondence.

e. Inter-collegiate.

f. Medical Education.

g. Drug Provings.

The Committee on Pharmacy was stricken out of the list.

Section 2 was amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2. "The Committee on Legislation shall consist of five members, and the Committee on Drug Provings of seven members. The term of service of one member in each of these committees shall expire each year. The Inter-collegiate Committee shall consist of two delegates to be appointed by each college represented in the Institute, and shall appoint its own chairman. The remaining Standing Committees shall consist of at least five members each, who shall serve for one year."

The following were added:

SEC. 3. There shall also be appointed each year Special Committees on Local Arrangements, on Transportation and on the Memorial Service, of not less than three members each. The duties of said committees shall be such as are indicated by their respective titles.

SEC. 4. The President, so far as these By-Laws require, shall appoint each of the committees provided for in this article immediately upon the presentation and disposition of its report.

ARTICLE VIII.—COMMITTEE OF PUBLICATION.

The Committee recommended that Article VII., Section 15, and Resolutions 20, 25 and 12 be embodied in Sections 1 and 2, as follows:

SECTION 1. The elective officers of the Institute shall constitute a Committee of Publication. Said Committee shall have charge of the publication of all papers, discussions, etc., referred to it by the Institute.

SEC. 2. No report or paper referred to the Committee of Publication shall be rejected, except with the formal concurrence of a majority of said Committee. All papers so rejected shall be returned to their authors by the General Secretary. Adopted.

Also, that Section 11 of Article VII. be transferred to this Article as follows:

SEC. 3. The TRANSACTIONS of the Institute shall be issued by the General Secretary, under the direction of the Committee of Publication, within five months after the close of the session, and copies shall be delivered to those entitled to them, without individual expense. Adopted.

Also, that Resolutions 37 and 14 and Rules 1, 5 and 2 be embodied in Sections 4, 5 and 6 as follows:

SEC. 4. There shall be published in each annual volume of the TRANSACTIONS: 1. A list of senior members arranged according to their years of membership. 2. An alphabetical list of members, including the names of senior members in CAPITALS. 3. A list of members classified by States. The list of deceased members shall be revised and republished annually.

SEC. 5. The General Secretary shall furnish editorial copies of the TRANSACTIONS to the Homœopathic journals in exchange for their papers and publications.

SEC. 6. The Secretary shall send copies of the Statistical Reports to all societies, hospitals and dispensaries that make reports to the Bureau of Organization, Registration and Statistics.

Section 4 was amended by adding "The List of Members of the Institute since its organization and the Code of Ethics shall be republished every fifth year."

Section 5 was amended by striking out "the Homœopathic journals in exchange for their papers and publications," and inserting "such Homœopathic journals as are sent to the Institute in exchange." Also, by adding "and to other selected journals."

As thus amended the three sections were adopted.

ARTICLE IX.—RULES OF ORDER.

The Committee recommended that Resolutions 19, 15, 43, 13 and 32 and Section 12 of Article VII. be embodied in the following:

SECTION 1. The names and residences of all applicants for membership shall be announced by the chairman of the Board of Censors in open session at least six hours before their election is voted upon.

SEC. 2. The General Report of the Bureau of Organization, Registration and Statistics shall be presented in general session, and shall follow the Report of the Necrologist.

SEC. 3. Reports from Sectional and State Societies shall be called for in alphabetical order. They shall be made by duly accredited delegates in actual attendance, in accordance with a plan to be prepared by the General Secretary for the purpose of securing uniformity; and special attention shall be given, in said reports, to events of unusual professional importance transpiring in the several States. The presentation of each report shall not consume more than five minutes.

SEC. 4. The time allotted to any Standing Committee for the presentation of its report shall not exceed fifteen minutes.

Section 1 was amended by adding after the word "announced," the words "in alphabetical order" and by striking out the words "the Chairman of."

Section 2 was amended to read, "The Report of the Necrologist shall be presented in connection with the Report of the Committee on Memorial Service."

Sections 1 and 2 were adopted as amended.

Section 3 was stricken out.

Section 4 was amended by striking out the word "standing," and was then adopted.

The following, recommended by the Committee, were ordered to be stricken out:

SEC. 5. No paper shall be read from any bureau or committee requiring over fifteen minutes, without unanimous consent; but an abstract of the same may be presented. (See Art. VII., Sec. 10; also Resolution 24.)

SEC. 6. Not more than half the time allotted to a bureau for its sectional meetings shall be occupied in the reading of papers, except by unanimous consent; and papers whose authors are present shall be given precedence in reading. (See Resolution 24.)

The next recommendations offered by the Committee were as follows:

SEC. 7. No report or paper shall be received by the Institute in an incomplete or unfinished condition, and no paper shall be published in the TRANSACTIONS which has been published previous to its presentation to the Institute, or which is not handed to the General Secretary before the close of the session. (See Art. VII., Sec. 8.)

SEC. 8. Sectional meetings of any bureau may be held at the call of its Chairman, provided such meetings be not held during the sittings of the Institute nor during the meetings of the other Sections, except as provided in the adopted Order of Business. (See Resolution 9.) Whenever any bureau extends its meetings beyond the time allotted to it in the adopted Order of Business, the Institute shall not be obliged to pay for stenographic reports of such extra meetings. (See Resolution 44.)

SEC. 9. In all discussions no speaker shall be allowed more than five minutes, nor to speak more than once upon the same subject, except by a vote of consent taken in the usual manner. (See Art. VII., Sec. 13.)

SEC. 10. The election of officers for the ensuing year, and the determination of the next place for the meeting of the Institute, shall take place at 12 o'clock on Wednesday. (See Art. VII., Sec. 16, and Resolution 16.)

Section 8 was amended by striking out the last sentence.

Section 10 was amended by striking out "on Wednesday" and inserting "on the third day of the session."

The four sections as amended were adopted as sections 5, 6, 7, and 8.

On motion of Dr. Talbot, Section 3 of Article VII. was amended by inserting after transportation, the words "on resolutions and on business," and by adding at the close of the section the words, "All resolutions presented to the Institute shall be referred, without debate, to the Committee on Resolutions."

The Committee recommended that Articles VIII. and IX. be renumbered X. and XI. respectively. Adopted.

Also, that the former be amended by adding as follows: "except in such cases as require disciplinary action, when the Senate shall report to the Institute with recommendations." Adopted.

Dr. Fisher moved a further amendment to Article X. (new numbering) defining the course of procedure in disciplinary cases. After some discussion the subject was laid over for future consideration.

A motion was made and adopted to amend Section 4 of Article IX. by adding the words, "No report shall be received from any committee except in writing."

The report of the Committee closed as follows:

In reference to these Resolutions and Rules your Committee offers the following recommendations:

1st. That those which have been embodied in our revision of the By-Laws be now formally rescinded. They are Resolutions Nos. 9, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 23, 24, 25, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 37, 38, 39, 41, 43, 44, and Rules 1, 2, 4, and 5. We also recommend the repeal of Rule 3, as it is covered by the report of the Committee on Extending the Time-Limit of the Sessions; also that Resolution No. 42 be rescinded, because its object is better secured by the retention of Resolution No. 36.

2d. As regards those Resolutions which have failed to influence the action of the Institute or of its members, and have been a dead letter, and those others that have served their full purpose and are now no longer necessary to the government or work of this body, we recommend, not that these Resolutions be repealed, but that their annual publication be simply discontinued. They are Nos. 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, and 11.

3d and finally. We recommend that the remaining Resolutions be continued in force and published from year to year as heretofore. They are Nos. 3, 8, 22, 26, 34, 35, 36, and 40.

Respectfully submitted,

PEMBERTON DUDLEY,
T. M. STRONG,
A. C. COWPERTHWAITE, Committee.

These recommendations were adopted as read.

The Institute then adjourned until 9.30 o'clock Friday morning.

FIFTH DAY.

JUNE 2, 1893.

The Institute resumed its session at half past nine o'clock A.M., President McClelland in the chair.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE TIME-LIMIT OF THE SESSIONS, reported through its Chairman, Dr. T. Y. Kinne, the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Institute shall begin its Annual Session at or about the middle of the week, and continue as long as the work of the Sections requires, according to the judgment of the Executive Committee.

Dr. C. E. Fisher offered the following as an addition to Article X.:

SEC. 2. Questions in dispute, having a bearing upon the general good of Homœopathy, which may be brought before the Institute for review and judgment, shall be referred to the Senate of Seniors for adjustment. In order to appeal from its decision, a two-thirds vote of members present and voting shall be necessary, said vote to be had without debate. All appeals thus ordered shall be heard at a special hour, set for the purpose, and shall be considered in executive session. Adopted.

On motion, the By-Laws, as they had been amended, were then adopted as a whole.

The portion of the Executive Committee's report on the question of establishing a reserve fund, which on Monday had been deferred, was taken up, and after being debated by Drs. B. W. James, I. T. Talbot, and Pemberton Dudley, was, on motion of Dr. C. E. Fisher, adopted.

Dr. Rush, Chairman of the Board of Censors, moved the election of the candidates for membership as reported yesterday, and his motion was adopted. He also named other candidates for action to-morrow.

Secretary Dudley moved that, as the session is nearing its close, the rule requiring the "posting" of candidates' names for six hours previous to the vote on their election be suspended for the remainder of the session. The motion was adopted.

The Memorial Service in honor of deceased members was then held as the special order.

The Necrologist, Dr. Henry M. Smith, of New York, N. Y., presented a list of ninety-six names, which have been heretofore omitted from the published Necrological List.

He then announced the decease of the following members since the last meeting of the Institute:

George A. Hall, M.D., Chicago, Ill.

Frank M. Clark, M.D., Salem, Ohio.

Caspar L. Crandall, M.D., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Charles Cullis, M.D., Boston, Mass.

John J. Drysdale, M.D., Liverpool, England.

George E. Shipman, M.D., Chicago, Ill.

George W. Moore, M.D., Springfield, Ohio.

Dr. Smith also presented Memorial Notices of these members which were accepted and referred to the Committee of Publication.

Addresses eulogistic of the deceased members were delivered as follows:

By Dr. Bushrod W. James, in reference to the life, services, and worth of his old friend and classmate, Dr. George A. Hall.

Dr. Henry M. Smith presented a letter from Dr. Robert E. Dudgeon, of London, England, eulogizing the memory of his distinguished friend, Dr. John J. Drysdale, of Liverpool, England.

Dr. H. C. Allen, of Chicago, spoke in reference to the same member.

Dr. Alfred E. Hawkes, of Liverpool, England, was called upon for an expression referring to Dr. Drysdale, to which he briefly responded.

Dr. I. T. Talbot also offered brief remarks, in which he alluded to his personal friendship for Dr. Drysdale.

Dr. A. W. Woodward addressed the Institute in relation to Dr. George E. Shipman.

Drs. Dake and H. W. Roby made earnest addresses expressive of the exalted character and worth of Dr. Hall.

Dr. Henry C. Houghton and I. T. Talbot spoke briefly but feelingly in reference to Dr. Charles Cullis.

Dr. John A. Gann, of Wooster, Ohio, offered a eulogy to the memory of Dr. Frank M. Clark.

Dr. D. H. Beckwith, of Cleveland, Ohio, referred to the decease of his friend, Dr. George W. Moore, of Springfield, and Dr. Wm. Owens, Jr., of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dr. E. M. Hale also offered a brief tribute to the memory of Dr. Cullis.

The President announced as a Committee on Resolutions, as provided in the new By-Laws, Drs. J. P. Dake, J. S. Mitchell, S. A. Phillips, Julia Holmes Smith, Asa S. Couch.

Dr. M. T. Runnels, of Kansas City, Mo., offered a resolution condemning the manufacture and sale of proprietary medicines under the designation "Homœopathic." Under the new rule it was referred, without debate, to the Committee on Resolutions.

Adjourned to Saturday morning.

SIXTH DAY.

JUNE 3, 1893.

The Institute reconvened for its final session at 9.30 o'clock A.M., President McClelland in the chair.

Dr. R. B. Rush, chairman of the Board of Censors, moved the election as members of the applicants whose names had been reported. The motion was adopted.

He reported 15 new applications for membership, and, under the suspension of the rules, the candidates were elected.

A REPORT FROM THE SENATE OF SENIORS

on the subject of the proposed new seal for the Institute, was offered by Dr. Henry M. Smith, of New York, N. Y. The Seniors recommended that of the two designs referred to them by the Institute the circular one should be chosen.

The recommendation was adopted.

Seal adopted, June 3, 1893.

THE REPORT OF THE INTER-COLLEGIATE COMMITTEE was presented by the chairman, Dr. I. T. Talbot, of Boston, Mass., and was accepted and referred to the Committee of Publication.

Chairman Talbot also reported the following resolution, referred to his committee, with a recommendation that it be adopted as the sense of the Institute:

Resolved, That the American Institute of Homœopathy favors the inclusion of Psychiatry in the Curriculum of all Medical Colleges of the United States. It favors examination in Psychiatry, as in other specialties, and recommends that clinical teaching should be added to the didactic wherever possible.

The resolution was adopted.

Dr. Thomas Franklin Smith, Assistant Treasurer, tendered the resignations of Drs. Wm. R. Elder, F. H. Berrick and Eugene Hubbell with a recommendation that they be accepted.

Agreed to.

A motion was offered by Dr. Henry M. Smith, that the President be authorized and instructed to appoint one from each State in the Union, each to assist in the raising of funds in his own State and to co-operate with his State organization in the work.

AUXILIARY MEMBERS OF THE HAHNEMANN MONUMENT COMMITTEE,

The motion was amended by Dr. H. C. Allen to include also "a member from each of the Colleges," and in that form it was adopted.

The Committee on Resolutions, through its chairman, Dr. J. P. Dake, reported adversely on the resolution censuring the manufacture and sale of proprietary medicines, etc., by homœopathic pharmacists; the ground of the Committee's report being that it was a matter over which the Institute had no jurisdiction. The report of the committee was adopted.

On behalf of the same committee, Dr. Dake presented the following, which were adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of the American Institute of Homœopathy, be extended to the Local Committee of the World's Homœopathic Congress for the careful and excellent preparations made for the accommodation and entertainment of the Institute at this its third meeting in Chicago; also to the physicians of Chicago for their kind attentions. Adopted.

Resolved, That the thanks of the American Institute of Homœopathy be returned to the daily press of Chicago for excellent reports of our proceedings. Adopted.

Resolved, That our thanks are due to the editor and publishers of the Daily Medical Century for their enterprise in the publication of our proceedings and roster from day to day. Adopted.

The President then read the following committees:

Memorial Service.—Drs. J. C. Burgher, Chairman; B. W. James, H. M. Smith, M. A. Canfield, A. R. Wright.

Transportation.—C. E. Fisher, Chairman; James M. Walker, Wm. W. VanBaun, L. H. Willard, George H. Martin.

Institute Jubilee. —Drs. I. T. Talbot, Chairman; J. P. Dake, W. T. Helmuth, R. Ludlam, B. F. Bailey, E. M. Kellogg, N. Schneider, H. W. Westover, J. E. James, M. D. Youngman.

Local Arrangements.—Dr. James M. Walker, Chairman, with power to complete the committee.

Delegate to the British Homœopathic Congress.—Dr. Hugh Pitcairn.

Dr. H. C. Allen asked to be informed as to the publication of the TRANSACTIONS of the World's Homœopathic Congress. He wished to know if the Reports, Papers, Addresses and Discussions are to be published by the Institute in connection with its own Proceedings; or, if not, then by whom would they be published and on what terms could Institute members obtain the work?

The President stated that the Institute TRANSACTIONS will not require two volumes. One volume will be published which will comprise, of course, the Proceedings of the Institute meeting, with various items, historical and otherwise, that have been ordered by the Institute at this time, and which make quite a bulky volume. The Proceedings of the Congress we understand, are to be published under the auspices of the World's Congress Auxiliary.

DR. T. F. SMITH: In regard to the publication of the Proceedings, in order to have the Proceedings of the Congress published the same as the TRANSACTIONS of the Institute and Congress at Atlantic City, I move that the Institute publish at its own expense, in connection with the Proceedings of the Institute, one volume of the Proceedings of the World's Congress.

DR. MITCHELL. The situation in regard to the publication of the Proceedings of the World's Congress by the Congress Auxiliary, is as follows: The Proceedings of all the Congresses will undoubtedly be published at the same time; how soon we cannot tell, at Government expense. The Proceedings of this Congress will be published undoubtedly, in a volume bound with the Proceedings of other Congresses. It would be such an expense to publish the Transactions of all these Congresses—of which there are altogether nearly 200—that the Government probably will not do it. It is the intention to publish them at the Government printing-house and in volumes of such size as will comprise three or four Congresses together—or a series of Congresses.

DR. KINNE: When the Government publishes the proceedings of the various Congresses, whenever that may be, will the Government publish all the papers submitted, or will they select such as they think best?

DR. MITCHELL: I am not able to answer that question.

DR. KINNE: If they should select what suited them best, we might be in an unpleasant predicament as to the value of what is omitted and of what retained, not having any supervision over the matter nor any jurisdiction. If we could be assured that the Government would publish the entire proceedings, papers and discussions, then it would be unnecessary to think of any expenditure for publication by the Institute. But we are not assured of that.

DR. B. W. JAMES: Our By-laws say that our TRANSACTIONS must be got out in five months. I do not suppose the Government will permit any dictation as to the time it will take in preparing its own records. And the remarks of Dr. Kinne are peculiarly appropriate, seeing that the Secretary of the Congress is not Secretary of the Institute, and therefore neither body has an officer to whom the whole matter could be delegated. Will the Congress allow us the right to publish the proceedings?

DR. MITCHELL: The Congress Auxiliary would be favorable to the publication, by any distinct organization like the American Institute, of the TRANSACTIONS of the Congress.

DR. TALBOT: If they are published outside of the Institute TRANSACTIONS, it will be very difficult for the members to get them; and I think it is due to the 1500 members of the Institute that they should have a copy of it, as they have paid their dues.

Dr. C. E. Fisher then moved that the Executive and Publication Committee be empowered to confer with the authorities and officials of the Congress, and to act as circumstances shall permit and their own judgment shall dictate. This motion was adopted.

Dr. R. B. Rush, Chairman of the Board of Censors, reported that the Board recommends the election of the following distinguished foreign physicians as corresponding members of the Institute, viz.:

Dr. Alfred E. Hawkes, of Liverpool, England; Dr. J. Cavendish Molson, of London, England; Dr. Oscar Hansen, of Copenhagen, Denmark; Dr. P. C. Majumdar, of Calcutta, India; Dr. Charles F. Fisher, of Sydney, N. S. W., Australia.

The above recommendations of the Board of Censors was adopted unanimously.

Dr. Pemberton Dudley stated that for years past Madame Bojanus has, unknown to this Institute, translated into our language numerous valuable reports and papers which have afterwards appeared in our TRANSACTIONS and in various medical journals in the United States and Europe; and has, moreover, shown her interest in the cause of Homœopathy, and in the welfare of this Institute, by her presence at this session. He therefore moved, that Madame Olga Bojanus, of Samara, Russia, be elected an Honorary Associate Member of the American Institute of Homœopathy. The motion was unanimously adopted.

Dr. Rush, of the Board of Censors, reported that during the session there had been one hundred and fifty-five regular members, six corresponding members, and one honorary associate member added to the Roll of the Institute.

DR. I. T. TALBOT: Mr. President, I now move that this Institute do now adjourn, each of its 1550 members to bring one new member to Denver, Colorado, next June.

The motion was adopted with a round of applause, and President McClelland then declared the Forty-ninth Anniversary Session of the American Institute of Homœopathy adjourned sine die.

Memorial Notices of Deceased Members.

HENRY ADAMS, M.D.

Was the son of Dr. Peter C. Adams. He was born in Coxsackie, N. Y., July 6, 1787. He studied medicine with his father; admitted to practice in his twenty-first year; appointed surgeon in the army during the war of 1812 and stationed at Sackett's Harbor, where he remained in practice until 1848, when he removed to Albany. He had adopted the Homœopathic practice prior to settling in Albany. In 1850 he removed to Cohoes, N. Y., where he died, on his seventieth birthday, July 6, 1857. A sketch of his life, published in the Transactions for 1876 (vol. 2, page 460) gives the above data.

Dr. Adams's name is published in the list of members of the Institute, in 1845, as living at Coxsackie; in 1852, at Glen's Falls, the following year at Cohoes. In the list of 1858, the name is preceded by an asterisk, signifying deceased, and it also appears among the "deceased members," in 1867 (page 156) without any date.

JAMES HART ALLEN, M.D.

Was the son of Stephen Allen, a prominent merchant, and former mayor of New York. Dr. Allen graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, in 1844, and joined the Institute in 1848. He was known as a prominent practitioner, and was one of the founders of the first homœopathic dispensary. He died in August, 1858, leaving a widow, since deceased, and a daughter.

SAMUEL ALVORD, M.D.

The only child of Sewell and Jennie Alvord, was born at West Springfield, Mass., February 5, 1812. He obtained a good academic education by earning money as a school-teacher himself, which he continued till nearly thirty years of age—the last twelve as Principal of the Chicopee Falls High School. He then took up the study of medicine, and attended lectures at the Berkshire Medical College, at Pittsfield. Through his acquaintance with Dr. George W. Swazey, he took up the practice of Homœopathy, and was the pioneer of our school at Chicopee Falls, where he had made his home. He attended lectures at the New York Homœopathic College, and graduated from it in 1866. In 1868 he joined the Institute. He died at his home, February 5, 1892. During his teaching days he married Miss Mary Wood, who survives him. He left no children.

JONATHAN DICKENSON ANNIN, M.D.

The son of William C. and Phœbe Annin, was born at Liberty Corner, N. J., November 26, 1806. Of his early life and attendance at school but little is known. He attended lectures at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, but the time and place of graduation is unknown. He practiced in Irvington, N. J., at first, and afterward at Newark. After thirty years of Old-School practice, he abandoned it for the Homœopathic. He was a veteran of the Institute, having joined in 1846. He married, in 1840, Eleanor, the eldest daughter of Benjamin Mead, by whom he had two daughters and one son. He died September 26, 1883.

ADOLPHUS H. ASHTON, M.D.

Was born May 18, 1826. He graduated at the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania in 1852. He joined the Institute in 1858. In the spring of 1860 he was elected to the chair of Obstetrics in the Homœopathic College in Philadelphia, but withdrew from the Faculty without delivering a lecture owing to personal differences. He was afterwards connected with the Hahnemann Medical College as Curator. He was a member of the Pennsylvania State Homœopathic Society, the Philadelphia County Society, and one of the founders of the Children's Homœopathic Hospital. He died of Bright's disease, February 17, 1883.

MOSES ATWOOD, M.D.

Studied with Dr. Samuel Gregg, of Boston, and in 1840 settled in Francistown, N. H., being the first practitioner of Homœopathy in that State. He remained here till 1844, when he removed to Nashua. Failing health obliged him to change his residence, and he went to Concord, Mass., where he remained but a short time, and then joined his nephew, Dr. A. H. Atwood, at Manchester, N. H. After practicing here two years, he removed to New Boston, where he died, April 28, 1850. His name is published in the list of members of the Institute, in 1846, as living at Francistown, but he does not appear to have taken an active part in the proceedings. In the list of members for 1850 his name is printed as at Francistown, though preceded by an asterisk, signifying deceased.

CHARLES AUSTIN BACON, M.D.

The son of Daniel Peck and Mary Armitage Bacon, was born in the city of New York (on the corner of Vesey and Church streets), May 14, 1838. His father was a school teacher, and by him Charles was fitted to enter Columbia College, where he graduated in 1856. He studied medicine with Dr. John F. Gray, and Dr. S. R. Percy, and obtained his medical degreee at the New York Medical College and Charity Hospital, March, 1863.

He served one year on the staff of the Brooklyn City Hospital, and in 1864 began practice in the city of New York, acquiring experience by four years' attendance at the New York Homœopathic Dispensary. When the New York Ophthalmic Hospital was placed under the care of Homœopathic physicians, Dr. Bacon was among the first to be put on the board of attending surgeons. He spent three years, 1872 to 1875, studying in London, Berlin, and Vienna. On his return in the fall of 1875, he was appointed house physician at the Charity Hospital on Ward's Island, which had just been turned over from the old to the new school of practice. His hospital experience was of great value in organizing this first large and well-appointed hospital that had been taken charge of by our school. He was also a member of the medical board of the Hahnemann Hospital, as well as other charitable institutions.

He was Professor of Physiology and Histology for several years in the New York Homœopathic College. In April, 1878, he was made a member of the State Board of Medical Examiners by the Regents of the State University. He was a member of the New York State and County societies, in which he took active part, being Vice-President of the latter organization in 1885. He was an assistant surgeon in the army. He became a member of the Institute in 1871. After practicing twenty-three years in New York, he removed to the city of Washington in 1885 or 1886, where he continued in practice till within two years of his death, which occurred in Florida, January 9, 1892. His wife, who died two years before him, was a daughter of Professor Reed, of the University of Missouri. Two children survive him, a daughter of fourteen and a son of ten years.

JOSEPH C. BAKER, M.D.

Was born in Loudon, N. H., October 12, 1814. He was married in 1844 to Mary Green Critchett. Before his marriage he taught school, and was noted for his remarkable memory, and had the reputation of being an excellent Latin and Greek scholar. After his marriage, he studied medicine with his brother-in-law, Dr. Alpheus Morrill, of Concord, N. H., and graduated at the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania in 1856. After practising a short time in Concord, he removed to Keene, where he was succeeded by his nephew, Dr. William B. Chamberlain, whence he removed to Middleboro, Mass., taking the practice of Dr. E. C. Knight. Here he remained till his death, February 23, 1865, the result of blood-poisoning from attending a small-pox patient. He joined the Institute in 1858. He left a widow, Dr. Mary G. Baker, the subject of the following sketch, and one daughter who subsequently became the wife of Dr. Edgar A. Fisher, of Worcester, Mass.

MARY GREEN BAKER, M.D.

Was born in Epsom, N. H., July 1, 1824. She was the daughter of Thomas and Sally Green Critchett. After her marriage with Joseph C. Baker, mentioned above, and while residing at Middleboro, she began the study of medicine, and graduated from the New England Medical College. After the death of her husband she continued practice in Middleboro till 1869, when she removed to Worcester, where she continued in practice till her death, February 17, 1879. She became a member of the Institute in 1872.

JOHN EASOM BARNABY, M.D.

Was a native of Shropshire, Eng., where he was born May 20, 1821. He came to this country in 1842, located at Brady's Bend, Pa., and engaged in business till his health failed, and getting no relief from the old method of practice, was benefited by Homœopathic treatment. He studied medicine under Dr. J. P. Dake, graduated at the Homœopathic Medical College, of Pennsylvania, in 1866, and began to practice in Allegheny City, Pa. His health failing, he gave up practice, and in the autumn of 1868 started, with his wife, for St. Augustine, Fla., but died at Key West on his way there, January 5, 1869. He was elected a member of the Institute in 1866.

CHARLES B. BARRETT, JR., M.D.

Graduated from the Hahnemann Medical College, of Philadelphia, in 1867, and opened an office at Ionia, Mich., in March, 1870. In January of the following year he was thrown from his sleigh, receiving injuries which ended fatally. He died in Detroit, at the residence of his father-in-law, Dr. Edwin A. Lodge, June 5, 1871, aged 25 years. He had become a member of the Institute in 1870.

JACOB BEAKLEY, M.D.

Was born at Sharon Springs, Schoharie County, N. Y., July 20, 1812. He studied medicine under Prof. Jas. McNaughton, of Albany, and graduated at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the Western District of New York, at Fairfield, Herkimer County, N. Y., March 1, 1834. He began practice at Schoharie Court House, where he remained till 1839, when he went to Albany, continuing there till 1842, when he removed to New York City. He adopted the Homœopathic practice in 1844, and nine years afterward (1853) was elected Professor of Surgery in the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania, succeeding Dr. Francis Sims.

He had as his fellow-members of the Faculty, Drs. Williamson, Loomis, Small, Humphreys and Gardiner. In 1859 Dr. Williamson resigned from the Faculty and Dr. Beakley was elected Dean. He retained his position in Philadelphia till the close of the session of 1860, when he came to New York, having been instrumental in organizing the "Homœopathic Medical College of the State of New York in the City of New York," this being the long title given to the new college in this city. He was Professor of Surgery and Dean of the Faculty until the autumn of 1870, when, under the reorganization, he was retired. To this institution Dr. Beakley had devoted the greater part of his time and much of his means. Through his association with the two colleges, covering a period of seventeen years, his name had become familiar not only to the graduates of those schools but to the profession everywhere.

Dr. Beakley joined the Institute in 1847 at the session held in New York, and was afterward steady in his attendance and prominent in the part he took in its proceedings. He was elected secretary at the session held in Philadelphia in 1860.

In July, 1872, while visiting his brother, Dr. Henry Beakley, at Peekskill, N. Y., he had a severe pulmonary hæmorrhage, from which he recovered, but gradually sank, and died August 6th.

He was co-editor, with Dr. Chas. J. Hempel, of the Manual of Homœopathic Practice, published in 1853, of which he wrote the surgical portion. In 1852 he was one of a committee to address the Homœopathic physicians of the State of New York in order to arouse interest in the State Society. In 1854, again in 1859 and 1861, there were published addresses and lectures he had delivered before college classes.

JOHN H. BEAUMONT, M.D.

Was of French descent, and was born in the town of Champlain, Clinton County, N. Y., February 12, 1818. With limited opportunities for obtaining an education, he was fortunate in having for a kinsman Sir Wm. Henry Beaumont, a surgeon of repute, whom he assisted in many of his operations, whence he acquired a taste for the study of medicine. In 1844, at the age of 26, he removed to Joliet, Ill., engaged in business and married Miss Alcesta M. Bedee. Financial reverses in 1857 led him to resume the study of medicine, and he graduated at the Hahnemann Medical College, of Chicago, in 1864, at the age of 46 years. He began practice at Freeport, Ill., where he had been well known as a business man since 1849, and where, as a physician, he soon gained a high reputation. He was elected a member of the Institute in 1870. In 1880 he was elected President of the State Homœopathic Medical Society. He died February 24, 1882.

HARRIS S. BENEDICT, M.D.

Was born at Warwick, Orange County, N. Y., July 12, 1823. He studied medicine with Dr. T. J. Patchen, of Bath, N. Y. He graduated at the Western Homœopathic Medical College, Cleveland, in 1863, and about a year afterward opened an office at Havana, N. Y., and in 1864 removed to Corning, where he remained till his death, October 18, 1869. He joined the Institute in 1867 at the meeting in New York.

GEORGE BRIGHT BIRCH, M.D.

Was practicing at Hannibal, Mo., in 1863, as an Eclectic physician. Two years later he became an advocate and practitioner of Homœopathy. In 1867, his health being impaired, he joined what was known as the "Quaker City Excursion" (from the steamer of that name), about which "Mark Twain" has written in his Innocents Abroad. On his return to Hannibal he resumed practice, but the desire to travel had been aroused, and he started to "go around the world" with two friends. After visiting Europe, Palestine and Egypt, the party went to India, and here Dr. Birch was taken sick, and died after a painful illness of six days, at Allahabad, December 10, 1873. Dr. Birch joined the Institute in 1869.

JOSEPH BIRNSTILL, M.D.

Was born at Rastadt, in the Grand Duchy of Baden, Germany, August 9, 1809. He was educated at the Universities of Freiberg and Heidelberg, studied medicine at Wurzburg, Bavaria, under Prof. Schonlein, and was converted to Homœopathy by Dr. Griesselich. He left Germany, for political reasons, in May, 1833, landed in New York July 10th, and soon after went to Dunkirk, at a time when the name of Homœopathy had scarcely been heard in Chautauqua County. His knowledge of our language was so limited that he could converse only in German or with the aid of an interpreter. As at this time there was hardly a person that could speak German, the doctor labored under great disadvantages. He was quite successful, however—mostly in chronic cases. He remained here about eight months, when he removed to Westfield, in the same county. He gradually acquired a knowledge of English, and his practice increased, especially in chronic cases that had been abandoned by other physicians. Meeting with no sympathy from the other physicians, after two years he went to Buffalo, where he remained but a few months, when he returned to Westfield and resumed practice. His success had brought him many friends among the most intelligent families. When he applied for membership to the Chautauqua County Medical Society with authentic evidence of having received the degree of doctor in medicine, he was rejected solely on the ground of his Homœopathic practice. He was liable to prosecution and a fine, but continued to practice, and made important cures. His poverty and foreign birth, with the ridicule of the Old-School physicians, finally drove him away. He went to Erie, Pa., in 1839, and thence to Massilon, O., where his health failed, and he removed to Worcester, Mass. Here he practiced three years, and in 1847 went to Boston, where he remained two years, and in 1849 removed to Newton Corner, where he had an extensive practice till he died, February 16, 1867, aged 56 years.

In 1849 the Quarterly Homœopathic Journal, edited by Drs. J. Birnstill and B. de Gersdorf, first appeared. It was published by Otis Clapp and was continued two years. A new series was begun in 1853, edited by Drs. J. Birnstill and J. A. Tarbell, which also was published two years.

Dr. Birnstill was elected a member of the Institute in 1865, at Cincinnati.

JOSIAH BOWERS, M.D.

Was born in Billerica, Mass., September 1, 1791. He began the study of medicine with Dr. Gordon, of Hingham, and was afterwards the private pupil of Professor Nathan Smith, of New Haven. He graduated at New Haven in 1816, and shortly after settled in Huntington, Long Island, N. Y., where he soon had a large practice and acquired a reputation as a surgeon. In 1821 he removed to Setauket, where he practiced several years, and then went to Smithtown. Here he was appointed surgeon of the regiment, then of the brigade, and finally of the division of the militia of his district.

After he was fifty years of age, he made trial of Homœopathy, and being convinced of its superiority over the old method, adopted it. His patients knew nothing of medical theories or practice, but soon discovered that the doctor was curing his cases in shorter time and with pleasant doses. In 1850 he opened an office in New York, where he soon had an extensive practice, extending also to Brooklyn. He was twice married, but had no children. He died in Billerica, where he had removed ten years before, November 7, 1868. He was elected a member of the Institute in 1846.

BENJAMIN RICHARD BRATT, M.D.

Was born at Boonton, N. J., April 22, 1836. In 1837, his parents removed to Pittsburgh, Pa. He graduated at the Allegheny College at Meadville, in 1855, and began the study of medicine with Dr. D. M. Dake. He graduated in medicine in 1858, at the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania, and in the same year located at Reading, where he continued in practice until a short time before his death, which occurred January 31, 1872. He was elected a member of the Institute in 1869, at the meeting in Boston, but his name is published in the list of members in 1871 for the first time.

SAMUEL NELSON BRAYTON, M.D.

Was born in Queensbury, Warren County, N. Y., January 11, 1839. He worked on a farm and attended the district schools till he was fourteen years old. He received a classical education at the High School at Lawrence, Mass.; studied medicine with Dr. Walter Burnham, of Lowell, and graduated at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, in 1861.

During the war he was a surgeon in the Navy, and assigned to the Boston navy yard, afterward to the frigate Sabrina and the ironclad Montauk. He was on duty during the siege of Forts Sumter and Moultrie, in Charleston Harbor. He was afterward on the Pacific Ocean two years, when he resigned from the navy and went into the drug business in New York. Here he remained only one year, and removed to Honeoye Falls, N. Y., where he practiced ten years, at the end of which time he settled in Buffalo. Here he was a member of the Faculty of the Homœopathic College of Physicians and Surgeons of Buffalo (the designation, Homœopathic, was afterwards dropped from the title), and one of the editors of the Physicians and Surgeons' Investigator. He joined the Institute in 1890. He was married in 1868 to Miss Frances Hyslip, who died in 1888. His second wife was Miss E. Norton, of Alabama, N. Y., who survives him. He had no children. Dr. Brayton had diabetes. He had a toe amputated in consequence of gangrene following the removal of a corn. The gangrene extending, it was found necessary to amputate his leg. He died two days after the operation, May 17, 1893.

SILAS SWIFT BROOKS, M.D.

Was a native of South Scituate, Mass., where he was born, May 30, 1817. His parents belonged to the religious Society of Friends, and he continued a member in good standing till his death. His literary education was obtained at a school under the supervision of the Society at Providence, R. I. After leaving school, he went with his parents to Philadelphia, where he taught school. He began the study of medicine at Mullica Hill, N. J., where he was engaged in teaching, about the year 1840, becoming the student of Dr. John Taylor, of that place. He attended three courses at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, and graduated therefrom March 20, 1844. He at once engaged in the practice of his profession at Philadelphia, in which he continued ten years, during which time he was three years attached to the Philadelphia Dispensary, served as one of the vaccine physicians of the city, and delivered annual courses of lectures on physiology before the Franklin Institute. During the last of the these ten years he began to investigate Homœopathy, became convinced of its truth and adopted its practice.

In 1860, he was offered the chair of Institutes and Practice in the Homœopathic Medical College of Pensylvania, which he filled for four years. He was subsequently chosen Dean of the Faculty, and remained such during his connection with the college. During this period he had failed to meet the class at his regular lecture hour but four times, and these four lectures were delivered at other hours, so that the class did not miss a single lecture. He had attended every meeting of the Faculty, and all but two of the Board.

Dr. Brooks joined the Institute in 1860, at the meeting held in Philadelphia. Among his contributions to our literature, was an article published in the Philadelphia Journal of Homœopathy, iv., p. 217, entitled, "Reasons why Medicines should be Used in Accordance with the Law Similia Similibus Curantur," which was the cause of his expulsion from the Philadelphia County Medical Society (Old School). He was a contributor to the Philadelphia Journal, but the above-mentioned article, and an Address delivered to the graduating class, 1863, are the only pamphlets that were published.

Dr. Brooks's health began to fail when he was fifty years old, and he attempted to lessen his work and retire from practice to a small farm he had in New Jersey. He had a hæmorrhage of the lungs in the latter part of May, 1871, followed by others. He died July 2, 1871.

JOSEPH R. BROWN, M.D.

Was elected a member of the Institute in 1848, when he was practicing in Phœnix, N. Y. His name is published in the list of members as living in the same place until 1853, when his address is given as Galveston, Texas. He introduced Homœopathy in Galveston, beginning its practice there in 1850. He died of yellow fever in 1854.

JOEL BRYANT, M.D.

Was born at Northport, Suffolk County, N. Y., November 10, 1813. He graduated at the Pennsylvania Medical College, and began the practice of Homœopathy in Brooklyn, in 1849. He joined the Institute in 1855. In 1851, he compiled, The Pocket Manual, or Repertory of Homœopathic Medicine, Alphabetically and Nosologically Arranged, etc., 12mo., pp. 352, of which there were three editions, published by William Radde. Dr. Bryant died November 20, 1868, after a long illness, the result of a cold contracted in 1852, followed by necrosis of the bones of the right leg.

FRANK M. CLARK, M.D.

Was born in Strongsville, Cuyahoga County, Ohio, January 14, 1854. He graduated at the Homœopathic College at Cleveland in 1860, and located at Monroeville, where he practiced for three years, whence he removed to Salem. He married Miss Hattie Strong in April, 1880. He joined the Institute in 1888. He died October 8, 1892.

ISAAC COLBY, M.D.

Began to practice Homœopathy at Concord, N. H., in 1846. He removed to Salem, Mass., in 1851. He became a member of the Institute in 1847, and took an active part in the proceedings. He was a Fellow of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and in 1850 applied for dismission on the ground of having, by his adoption of the Homœopathic practice, been excluded from its fellowship and privileges. Instead of granting the request, as Dr. Colby supposed they would, the matter was referred to a committee with instructions "to devise some course of action to be pursued by the Society in regard to all Homœopathists." This was the beginning of a long controversy, an account of which has been published in the Transactions of the Massachusetts Homœopathic Medical Society, vol. i. Dr. Colby died June 29, 1866.

HENRY A. COLLINS, M.D.

Was born in South Hadley, Mass., August 27, 1826. His father died shortly after he was born, and he was brought up by his grandfather, Josiah White. After attending Williston Seminary at Easthampton, he was sent to Yale, whence he graduated in medicine in 1850. He began practice at Conway, Mass., and removed from there to Springfield in 1852, where he continued till his death, May 13, 1884. He became a member of the Institute at the meeting in New Haven in 1851, and so became a Senior in 1876.

GEORGE COX, M.D.

Was a native of London, England, where he was born, February 2, 1796. He began the study of medicine under Sir Astley Cooper.

After spending some time in the hospitals of London and Edinburgh, he went to one of the West India Islands, whence he came to this country, and settled in Brooklyn in what was then the village of Williamsburgh (1823). He became a convert to Homœopathy in 1840 or 1842, of course cutting himself off from all communication with his former associates, but gaining increased success in his practice. He joined the Institute in 1847. After practicing in Brooklyn about thirty years, he had an attack of paralysis, and, after lingering about two years, died November 11, 1853.

JOHN REDMAN COXE, JR., M.D.

Was the son of Dr. John Redman Coxe, well known as Professor of Materia Medica in the University of Pennsylvania, practitioner, and writer. He was born in Philadelphia February 19, 1799. In 1845 he was practicing in Williamsport, Pa., where he remained till 1850, when he returned to Philadelphia and graduated at the Homœopathic Medical College. In 1857 he succeeded Dr. A. E. Small in the chair of practice in the college, and was succeeded by Dr. S. S. Brooks in 1860. He joined the Institute in 1852; was Provisional Secretary in 1854 at the session held at Albany, in which year he made a report on hydrophobia. He died May 11, 1863.

CASPAR LE ROY CRANDALL, M.D.

Was the son of Dr. Jos. B. Crandall. He was born in the neighborhood of Hartford, Conn. He graduated at the Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago in 1879, and began the practice of medicine at Burlington, Wis., the same year. He was practicing here when he joined the Institute, in 1890, at its session at Waukesha. In 1891 he removed to Salt Lake City, Utah, where he remained till his death, March 22, 1893. When he removed from Burlington he was the corresponding secretary of the State Society of Wisconsin, and at the time of his death he was president of the Homœopathic Medical Society of the Territory of Utah. He was married at Clinton, Wis., June 6, 1876, to Miss Nettie R. Cobb, who survives him.

CHARLES CULLIS, M.D.

The following sketch of Dr. Cullis has been furnished by his friend, Dr. Henry C. Houghton, of New York: Dr. Cullis was born of English parentage in Boston, March 7, 1833. He left school at an early age in order to go into business, having to contend with adverse circumstances as well as the tendency to phthisis. In January, 1854, he was under the professional care of Dr. O. S. Saunders, and in March of the same year he began the study of medicine under his care and direction. He attended lectures at the University of Vermont, where he graduated in 1858. He went into practice with Dr. Saunders, and remained with him till 1861, when he opened an office in the same street.

At the outset of his professional career his attention was drawn to the condition of patients afflicted by the dread disease, consumption, who were too poor to employ a physician, and were removed from place to place till they gravitated to the county hospital to die. As early as 1862 he consecrated himself to his life-work, to secure a home where the indigent consumptive could have proper care and Homœopathic treatment. A house was purchased and fitted up, additions subsequently made, and finally houses were established in different localities. In May, 1873, Dr. Cullis visited similar institutions in Germany and England, and soon after his return he was known as a "faith healer;" and while he gave medicine to those who desired it, he thought entire trust in the power of the Holy Ghost the better way.

Dr. Cullis was married in 1860 to Chastina Morse, who died about two years afterward. His second wife was Mrs. L. A. Reed, who survives him with one son and two daughters. He died June 18, 1892, of general anasarca and exhaustion. He became a member of the Institute in 1859, and, continuing such, was a Senior at the time of his death.

WILLIS DANFORTH, M.D.

Was born at Lake Village, N. H., September 26, 1826. He began the study of medicine in Illinois in 1846, attended two courses of lectures in the Indiana Medical College at La Porte, 1848–1850, and graduated from the same institution, now known as the Rock Island Medical College, in 1850. He began the practice of medicine, in 1850, in Oswego, Ill.; thence he went to Joliet in 1852; remained there till 1869, when he removed to Chicago. He practiced here ten years, and went to Milwaukee, where he continued till his death, June 4, 1891.

He was captain of cavalry in 1861, and, as such, served eighteen months. He then received the appointment of surgeon of the 134th Illinois Volunteers, and afterwards was medical director.

He was Professor of Surgery in Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago from 1869 to 1876, and Professor of Gynæcological Surgery in the Chicago Homœopathic Medical College from 1876 to 1879. He has contributed largely to our periodical literature, and for three years was associate editor of the United States Medical and Surgical Journal. He joined the Institute in 1870, at the session held in Chicago.

JOHN SAVAGE DELAVAN, M.D.

Was the son of Edward C. Delavan, the temperance reformer. He was born at Ballston, Saratoga County, N. Y., October 18, 1840. He studied medicine with Drs. Henry D. Paine and Jas. W. Cox, of Albany, graduated at the Albany Medical College, December 23, 1861, and afterward pursued special studies at Paris. He returned to Albany in 1862 and entered into partnership with Dr. J. W. Cox. In 1863 he enlisted in the army, served two years as assistant surgeon, and returned to Albany in 1865. He was appointed examining surgeon for pensions, which position he held two years. In 1868 he formed a partnership with Dr. L. M. Pratt, which continued till his removal to Washington, D. C., in 1870. In 1872 he took up his residence in Geneva, Switzerland, where he lived four years, one of which he spent as United States Vice Consul. On returning to Albany in 1879 he resumed practice with Dr. Pratt. He joined the Institute in 1869, at the session held in Boston. He was drowned August 7, 1885.

JOHN JAMES DRYSDALE, M.D.

Was born in Edinburgh, in 1817. After a general education in France he entered on the study of medicine at the University of Edinburgh, where he was a pupil of Dr. Fletcher's. He graduated in 1838, and was admitted a licentiate of the College of Surgeons the same year. With his friend, Dr. Rutherford Russell, he visited Leipzig, attended the Homœopathic Dispensary there, and thence went to Vienna. Here he was an almost daily attendant, for nearly two years, of Fleischman's Hospital, in the Leopoldstadt. In Vienna he met Dr. Dudgeon and formed a friendship which afterward united them in doing so much useful work for our school.

He returned home thoroughly assured that in Homœopathy lay the scientific basis of therapeutics, and openly declared his so-called heretical views. He had letters from Dr. Simpson and others speaking of him in flattering terms and as having "distinguished himself academically," but also as having "recently been in Germany and imbibed some of the new notions promulgated there." He was proposed as member of the Liverpool Medical Institution, and read a paper on the subject of Homœopathy, which was warmly discussed. Among those present at this meeting was Dr. Chapman, of London, who had already begun the study of Homœopathy, though he had not practiced it. In 1841 Dr. Drysdale opened the Homœopathic Dispensary, which was the nucleus of the Hahnemann Hospital.

In 1849 Liverpool was visited by a severe epidemic of cholera, and the successful treatment of Dr. Drysdale and others caused great interest to be taken in the subject of the new system throughout the town and accession to be made to the number of Homœopathic practitioners. Instead of leading the other medical men of the town to examine the method of Dr. Drysdale, it, as in other places, stirred up their wrath, and though they could not turn him out of the Liverpool Medical Institution, they passed a law that any one practicing Homœopathy should be ineligible for membership. This was but one of several struggles for freedom of opinion in which Dr. Drysdale was engaged. It was but the beginning of a controversy such as invariably leads to a more careful study of the system and final adoption of the practice of Homœopathy. The incidents in the professional life of Dr. Drysdale are eras in the history of Homœopathy, not only in Liverpool but throughout England, and in fact not limited to that country.

In 1842, during a visit to Edinburgh, in a conference with Drs. Russel, Francis Black, and Samuel Brown, the publication of the British Journal of Homœopathy was determined upon, and in January, 1843, appeared the first number of this periodical, which for forty years was the able exponent of our school, during thirty-five of which Dr. Drysdale was the senior editor. Of his contributions to this journal and literature in general, or his active personal connection with everything having for its object the promulgation and advancement of Homœopathy, any statement here would seem to be a work of supererogation.

In the sketch of his life published in the Monthly Homœopathic Review Dr. Pope gives a list of his principal works. These are not exclusively medical, but embrace all the natural sciences. Many of his essays have drawn the attention of the scientific world to them on account of their originality. The Rev. Dr. Dallinger, his friend and associate in his scientific research, writes to Dr. Pope, that he was a student "without the shadow of a prejudice. I have seen him absolutely jubilant at the discovery of a new fact which his previous knowledge had compelled him for long to hold (doubtful?). He was absolutely devoid of conceit. He thought of himself only as a means of knowing truth and doing good, and in scientific research he was unsparing of himself and, untiring in his efforts; he never flagged when once he was convinced he had taken a true path of enquiry."

Dr. Drysdale died August 20, 1892.

HENRY GALE DUNNELL, M.D.

Was born in Albany, N. Y., September 17, 1804. He came to New York about the year 1817. He graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York in 1825, in the same class with Drs. John F. Gray, Lewis Hallock, Benjamin F. Joslin, and Walter C. Palmer. He was on friendly terms with these physicians, and voted with them in favor of a public and recorded examination, but was strongly opposed to their medical dogmas. Early in 1840, when called from the city, he left one of his patients in the care of Dr. Alfred Freeman, by whom, to his surprise, she was cured. On inquiring the method, he was informed it was by Homœopathic remedies, which led him to study the system and, as the result, he soon avowed himself a Homœopathist. He was interested in the different societies that were established in the early days of the practice in New York and was president of the New York Physicians' Society, an inaugural address before which was published in pamphlet form. He was also a contributor to the Homœopathic Examiner. He was one of the original members of the Institute, his name appearing as such in 1844. He died in New York, September 4, 1868.

WILLIAM P. ESREY, M.D.

Was born in Maple Township, Delaware County, Pa., in 1818. In 1841 he began the study of medicine with Dr. Walter Williamson and graduated at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1844. After practicing at Norristown about a year, he went to Philadelphia to assist Dr. Williamson, with whom he remained about a year and then opened an office on his own account. He became a member of the Institute in 1846. He died September 28, 1854. He was the author of a work on anatomy and physiology, a Repertory to the Materia Medica of American Provings, and he also translated several works of German authors into English.

ADOLPHUS FELLGER, M.D.

A native of Gemund, in Wurtemberg, was born June 14, 1821. After studying in the Universities of Tübingen, Zurich, and Strasbnrg, he served as surgeon in the army. He came to this country in 1847. In 1869 he graduated from the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania, and practiced in Philadelphia. He became a member of the Institute at the time of the World's Congress, 1876. He published a small pamphlet, What Acts in Potentized Medicines? He died July 19, 1888.

LEVI WELLS FLAGG, M.D.

Was born at West Hartford, Conn., February 14, 1817. He was the oldest son of Augustus and Lydia (Wells) Flagg. He graduated from Yale College in 1839 and shortly afterward was employed by Judge Butler, of New Orleans, as private tutor in his family, a position he occupied for three years. Returning home, he began the study of medicine at Hartford, and in 1844 he entered the office of Dr. Willard Parker, of New York, and graduated at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1847. The following spring he opened an office at Yonkers, where he soon had a large practice. In 1849 he became acquainted with Dr. John F. Gray and shortly after adopted the Homœopathic practice. He did not become a member of the Institute till 1867, but thereafter took a lively interest in its proceedings. He died of heart disease, May 15, 1884.

JAMES CHESTER FREELAND, M.D.

Was the son of Dr. J. C. Freeland, who practiced twenty-five years in Becket, Mass., and then adopted Homœopathy. James was born in Becket, June 21, 1831. He studied medicine with his father, attended medical lectures at Pittsfield, and graduated at the Western Homœopathic College, at Cleveland, in 1862. In 1855 he removed to Fitchburgh with his father's family. He left there to enter into a partnership with Dr. William B. Chamberlain, at Keene, N. H., but returned in 1858 and remained till his death, April 15, 1870. He was elected a member of the Institute in 1869.

ALFRED FREEMAN, M.D.

Was born at Salem, Washington County, N. Y., November 6, 1793. He came to New York in 1834 and graduated at the New York School of Medicine. After practicing five or six years, he was induced by Dr. A. S. Ball to investigate the claims of Homœopathy, with the result of his adoption of the New-School practice. He was a very successful practitioner, and by his large practice did much to make Homœopathy popular among the people. He was one of the early members of the Institute, his name being enrolled among the others in 1846; but he never took any prominent part in any society. He died March 8, 1861.

ELIAL TODD FOOTE, M.D.

The son of Samuel Foote, was born in Greenfield (now Gill), Mass., in May, 1796. When he was a year old his parents moved to Sherburne, N. Y. He studied medicine with Dr. Samuel Guthrie, of Sherburne, and was licensed by the Chenango County Medical Society in 1815. He immediately emigrated to Chautauqua County and located at what was afterward, Jamestown, but which at this period had no name. In June, 1818, he was chairman of a meeting of the physicians of the county called for the purpose of organizing the Chautauqua County Medical Society, of which he was the first president. In 1827 he was elected a permanent member of the New York State Medical Society (Old School) and his name appears as such in the Transactions every year down to 1868 when it is no longer published. At a meeting of the Homœopathic Medical Society of Connecticut, in 1869, Dr. Foote was speaking of the friendly social intercourse existing between the members of the two schools, citing the apparent respect with which he was always treated by the members of the New York State Medical Society of which he was a member, when the secretary (of the Connecticut Society) informed him of a letter he had just received, speaking of his expulsion from the before-mentioned society, a matter of great surprise to Dr. Foote, who subsequently was able to learn that the only reason for such action was that he was practicing Homœopathy. Dr. Foote had been a resident of New Haven for several years, but before leaving New York had been so much interested in the subject of Homœopathy as promulgated and practiced by Dr. Alfred W. Gray, brother of Dr. John F. Gray, and a resident of the same county, that he, with other practitioners of his neighborhood, became a thorough convert to the new system.

He joined the Institute at the meeting in Albany, in 1850, and always took a great interest and an active part in the proceedings. He presided at the session held in Baltimore in 1852. He has been a frequent contributor to our literature mostly on historical subjects. He died November 17, 1877.

WILLIAM STANLEY GEE, M.D.

Was born at Clinton, Henry County, Mo., August 6, 1856. In 1859 his parents moved to Anderson, Ind. In 1879 he entered Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago, where he graduated in 1881. After spending a year as house surgeon in Hahnemann Hospital, he engaged in practice in Hyde Park. In 1885 he was elected Professor of Materia Medica and Institutes in the Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago and continued to lecture for five years on the principles of Homœopathy as taught by Samuel Hahnemann. Dr. Gee was married December 31, 1883, to Katherine Belle James, of Hyde Park. He was elected a member of the Institute in 1885. A few months before his death, which occurred November 11, 1890, he was associated with Dr. Allen in the editorship of the Medical Advance.

ALBERT GILES, M.D.

Was born in Kingston, N. Y., May 10, 1809. He left a printing office, where he had been engaged, to study medicine. He graduated at the Berkshire Medical College, at Pittsfield, Mass., in December, 1835. He at once began practice in Troy. N. Y., and in January of the following year he married Miss Ann Osborn of Troy. In 1839 or 1840 he moved to Troy, Wis., where he continued in practice till 1846 when he adopted the teachings of Hahnemann and in 1847 removed to Racine. After ten years of successful practice here, his failing health obliged him to seek a more inland place and he went to Madison and entered into partnership with Dr. J. Bowen of that place. Here, with Dr. Bowen, he edited the Madison Homœopathist. His family being much opposed to his leaving Racine, he returned there after a few months and became the partner of Dr. Rufus B. Clark. He joined the Institute in 1857 at the meeting held in Chicago. He died June 7, 1862.

SAMUEL W. GRAVES, M.D.

Joined the Institute in 1847, while he was living at Taunton, Mass. In 1851 he moved to Springfield and in 1853 he practiced in Chicago, where he conducted the Chicago Homœopath with Drs. D. S. Smith and R. Ludlam. He died from the sequelæ of cholera, July 6, 1854.

GEORGE ALEXANDER HALL, M.D.

Was born at Sheridan, Chatauqua County, N. Y., June 5, 1834. He was the son of a farmer but was determined to acquire knowledge, for which such a life did not offer sufficient opportunities. So successful was he that at the age of fifteen he was considered competent to, and did, take charge of a school of seventy-eight pupils. He had prepared himself for a course at Yale College, but time and means failing, he entered the office of Dr. L. M. Kenyon, at Westfield, N. Y., in 1852, to study medicine. He attended lectures at the Berkshire Medical College in Massachusetts and the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia and graduated at the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania in 1856. He went into partnership at once, with Dr. Kenyon at Westfield and took his practice when that gentleman removed to Buffalo. Dr. Hall continued to practice at Westfield till 1872, when he removed to Chicago where he remained in practice till his death.

In the fall of 1872 he became one of the Faculty of the Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago and so continued till 1889. He joined the Institute in 1859, at the session at Boston. He has served on many committees and bureaus and presented many valuabla reports. He was vice-president in 1880. Besides these offices he has held the positions of President of the Chautauqua County (N. Y.) Homœopathic Medical Association; President of the Hahnemann Hospital Clinical Society; President of the Western Academy of Homœopathy; Physician-in-Chief in Hahnemann Hospital of Chicago, for four years; Surgeon-in-Chief in the same hospital for ten years. He died April 4, 1893.

ALBERT HAMMOND, M.D.

Was born December 14, 1847. He went to St. James's College until that institution was closed in 1863, at the time of Lee's invasion. He afterward attended Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster, Pa., and was subsequently employed at various callings till he took up the study of medicine with Dr. Charles R. Doran in Hagerstown, Md. He attended lectures and graduated at the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia in 1871. He joined the Institute in the same year. He died November 8, 1879. Brief mention was made of his death in the TRANSACTIONS for 1881, p. 38.

JOSEPH P. HARVEY, M.D.

Was born in Bucks County, Pa., November 25, 1836. He graduated at the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania in 1865 and the following year located in Allegheny City. He joined the Institute in 1865 and early in the following year was obliged to give up practice on account of his failing health. He died in his native place July 7, 1866.

WASHINGTON HOPPIN, M.D.

Was born in Providence, R. I., January 2, 1827. He was educated at the College Street Classical School in that city, where he was fitted for college. He entered Brown University in 1843, but on account of ill health left the Institution for a time. He joined it again with the class of 1844 but was finally compelled to leave before his graduation. He then entered the office of Dr. A. H. Okie as a student of medicine. Dr. Okie had just come from Philadelphia and had begun his remarkably successful career as a Homœopathic physician. Dr. Hoppin was his first regular student, and derived great benefit from his experience. Leaving the office he went to New York and attended a course of lectures at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in that city. Afterward he attended the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania, where he graduated in 1850. Returning to his native city, he began practice, forming a partnership with Dr. Ira Barrows and later with his brother, Dr. Courtland Hoppin. In his early manhood, Dr. Hoppin had purpura hæmorrhagica, from which he never entirely recovered. This complicated with grave kidney difficulties, gradually undermined an unusually fine and robust constitution.

He joined the Institute in 1850, at as early a period as he could. He married Miss Louise Clare, daughter of Major John Rogers Vinton, U. S. A., October 14, 1852. He died April 1, 1867, leaving a widow and five children.

FREEMAN HORTON, M.D.

Joined the Institute in 1856 while practicing at Weare, N. H. In 1858 he removed to Lynn, Mass., where he died, March 3, 1861, aged 45 years.

ERASTUS HUMPHREYS, M.D.

Was born in Canton, Conn., in 1784. He studied medicine with Dr. Solomon Everest and received his diploma from the State Medical Society of Connecticut, at Hartford, in 1808. After practicing with Dr. Everest about two years, he removed to Marcellus, Onondaga County, N. Y., where he remained till 1823, when he went to Auburn, N. Y. In 1840 Dr. Horatio Robinson went to Auburn with a case of Homœopathic medicines, consisting of eleven vials about the diameter of a goose quill and one and one-half inches in length, with a copy of Dr. Epps' Domestic Homœopathy (London edition, 24mo., pp. 260). [Dr. Leverett Bishop, from whose sketch these facts are taken, is particular in giving an exact inventory as showing how large a business was done on a small capital.] Dr. Humphreys was not convinced of the merits of Homœopathy by what Dr. Robinson had heard and seen, and the matter was dismissed. A short time afterwards Dr. Humphreys was called away on urgent business, and Dr. Robinson, being left with his practice, called in the aid of Dr. Biegler, then practicing in Albany, and when Dr. Humphreys returned, it was to find his old patients much improved and his office crowded with new ones. He adopted the practice of Homœopathy and introduced it into the Auburn State Prison, of which he was then surgeon, and his report to the State Prison Inspector served to call public attention to the new system. Dr. Humphreys went to Syracuse in 1842, and practiced with Dr. H. Hull Cator. In 1843–4 he removed to Utica, and in 1847 went to New York, where he endeavored to establish a Homœopathic hospital. He was prostrated by a sunstroke, from which he never recovered, and died March 14, 1848. He joined the Institute in 1844, being one of the original members.

WILLIAM AUGUSTUS JONES, M.D.

Was a student at the Homœopathic College at Cleveland, from New Hampshire, during the sessions of 1852–3 and 1853–4, graduating in 1854. He began to practice Homœopathy in Wilton, N. H., whence he removed to Lyndborough in 1857. He joined the Institute in 1867 at the session in New York, though his name does not appear in the list of members till 1867. He died December 18, 1880.

THEODORE S. KEITH, M.D.

Was born in East Bridgewater, Mass., Feb. 3, 1838. He graduated at Harvard Medical College, was appointed a Medical Cadet, U. S. A., in 1862 and stationed at Alexandria, Va. In January, 1863, he was appointed Acting Assistant Surgeon, U. S. Navy, and assigned to duty on steamer "E. B. Hale." After five years' service on several vessels, he received an honorable discharge, at his own request, in January, 1868, and, after a year of study, settled in Newton, Mass., and began the practice of Homœopathy. He joined the Institute in 1869. He died at Newton, Sept. 13, 1889. He was unmarried.

STEPHEN REYNOLDS KIRBY, M.D.

Among the early friends of Dr. Hans Birch Gram, one of the coterie that met regularly at his house for instruction in the new system of medical practice, was Dr. Kirby. Dr. Kirby was well known to the Homœopathic profession of a generation ago as the editor of the American Journal of Homœopathy, which was the principal periodical of our school for almost a decade, beginning in 1848.

A member of the "Convention of the Practitioners of Homœopathy," held in New York, April 10, 1844, when it was deemed expedient to establish a society entitled "The American Institute of Homœopathy," he was elected the first treasurer of this organization. At the third session, held in Philadelphia in 1846, he was elected presiding officer while continuing in the office of treasurer, which he did for ten years. At the session held in Baltimore in 1852 he delivered the annual address. He was a member of the New York Homœopathic Physicians' Society, and one of the seceders who organized the Homœopathic Society of New York and branch of the American Institute of Homœopathy. He was one of the founders of the Hahnemann Academy of Medicine, and was elected President in 1851. He delivered his inaugural address on "Who are the Homœopathists, and what is their duty?" He was one of the founders of the New York County Homœopathic Society, and elected to the presidency thereof in 1863, his address being on "The Introduction and Progress of Homœopathy in the United States." Associated with Drs. P. P. Wells and Jas. M. Quin, he opened the first Homœopathic dispensary in the United States, in October, 1845. He was a member of the Faculty of the New York Homœopathic College for several years from its organization, and was Professor of Materia Medica in the New York Medical College for Women.

Dr. Kirby was born at Middle Patent, town of Bedford, Westchester County, N. Y., May 21, 1801. He came to New York at the age of fifteen or sixteen, and later on taught school. He was Principal of Public School No. 7 when it was opened in Chrystie Street, in 1827. Shortly after he began the study of medicine. He was interested in the temperance cause and President of the New York Society; he was a member of the New York Volunteer Fire Department and an active member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He died in New York, March 6, 1876.

CHARLES ELMER LANING, M.D.

Was born in West Bethlehem, Washington County, Pa., April 26, 1851. He became a resident of Illinois about 1875. He graduated from the Chicago University, and attended medical lectures at the Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago, whence he graduated in 1878. He was a member of the Faculty of his Alma Mater from 1879 till his death. The estimation that he was held in is seen by this action of the college. He joined the Institute in 1889. He died at Chicago, May 21, 1892.

ALEXIS LEON, M.D.

Was born in Philadelphia in April, 1815. He graduated at the Jefferson Medical College, and, after practicing a few years in Philadelphia, removed to New Orleans, where he remained twelve years in very successful practice. He came to New York for the benefit of his health, and, getting better, was induced to make that city his home. He was one of the early members of the Institute, becoming such in 1846. He died Sept. 2, 1866.

RICHARD LEWIS, M.D.

Was born in England about the year 1818. Most of his life was spent in the United States. He was a Baptist minister till his graduation at the Homœopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania, in 1861, when he began the practice of medicine at Frankford, Pa. He joined the Institute in 1871. He died April 13, 1883.

JOHN MERRILL, M.D.

Was born in Conway, N. H., in 1782, attended Phillips' Exeter Academy, graduated from Harvard in 1804, studied medicine with Dr. John Warren, and obtained his degree as doctor in medicine from Harvard. He settled in Portland, Me., in 1807, and here he began the practice of Homœopathy in 1841. The success of Dr. Sandicky, who spent some time here in 1840, led Dr. Merrill to investigate the system he practiced, which resulted in his adopting it. He was one of the founders of the Institute, his name appearing in the records of the first session, 1844, as a member of the Board of Censors. He died at Portland, June 7, 1855.

JAMES WHITING METCALF, M.D.

The son of Eliab and Nancy Benton Metcalf was born in the city of New York, October 28, 1815. He was a graduate of the Medical Department of the University of New York, in 1849. In February, 1851, the first number of the North American Homœopathic Journal was published under the editorial charge of Drs. Constantine Hering, Erastus E. Marcy and James W. Metcalf. The "Preface" was contributed by Dr. Marcy, the first article was written by Dr. Metcalf, a "Bibliographical History of Homœopathy in the United States of America," with critical remarks, comprising forty pages; the third article being on "Daily Cycles in Diseases and in the Effects of Drugs," by Dr. Hering. In the second volume, Dr. Metcalf published an article on the preservation of vegetable juices by combining the expressed juice with milk-sugar instead of mixing with alcohol, a method recently rediscovered by some of the pharmacists. The last number of the Journal appeared November, 1855, but was issued under a slightly changed title in August, 1856, under the care of Drs. Marcy, Peters, Holcombe and Preston. The "Homœopathic Provings," originally published as an appendix to the Journal, were edited by Dr. Metcalf and published in a volume by themselves by Radde in 1853. Dr. Metcalf joined the Institute in 1851. He had had an attack of cholera in 1849 which increased other troubles that he had, so that he was obliged to relinquish practice early in the fifties, and he removed to Westfield, Mass., where he died April 14, 1856. He married Maria C., daughter of Judge Samuel R. Betts, July 12, 1842.

JOHN D. MIDDLETON, M.D.

Was born in Bryantown, Charles County, Md., February 29, 1826. His father, Dr. John D. Middleton, was one of the leading (Old-School) physicians of the county in which he lived. His mother was a sister of Dr. Felix R. McManus of Baltimore. His father dying before his birth, his mother moved to Baltimore when he was six weeks old. He attended Prof. Clark's school in Baltimore, and afterward studied medicine with his uncle, Dr. McManus, graduating at the University of Maryland, March 7, 1848. He soon afterward commenced the practice of Homœopathy, becoming a member of the Institute the year of his graduation. He settled in Wheeling, W. Va., but returned to Baltimore in 1851, where he continued until his death, April 26, 1870. He was married in 1860 to Miss Miles, of Connecticut, who, with three daughters, survived him.

GEORGE W. MOORE, M.D.

Was born near Bellevue, Ohio, November 11, 1833. He was the sixth child and fourth son of John and Mercy Rolf Moore, who were among the first settlers in Huron County in that State in 1822. He was brought up on the farm and attended the public schools. In 1857 he began the study of medicine with Dr. John Osborne of Wood County, and began to practice, but gave up in the summer of 1862 and volunteered in the army. Recruiting part of a company (G, 11th Ohio V.) he went into the service as Lieutenant. He received a commission as Captain in 1864, was in many engagements, was with Sherman in his "March to the sea," and at the close of the war resumed his studies and graduated at the Homœopathic College at Cleveland in 1870. He practiced in Wood County for a short time, going thence to Ashtabula, and from there to Springfield, in 1874, where he continued in practice until his death, December 1, 1892. He was elected a member of the Institute in 1875 at Put-in-Bay. He was also a member of the Ohio State Society, and was appointed examiner for pensions under President Harrison. He married Mary E. Love of Monroeville, Huron County, Ohio, September 6, 1855, who survives him, with two children. Dr. Moore's illness extended over a period of seven years, during the greater part of which he attended to his practice.

JAMES OTIS MOORE, M.D.

Was born at Parsonfield, York County, Me., April 28, 1822. He was the youngest of ten children, and the third Homœopathic physician among six brothers. He graduated at Castleton Medical College, Vermont, in 1848. He studied Homœopathy under his brother, Dr. Levi C. Moore, who had begun to practice the new method in 1841 or '42. In 1849, Dr. Moore established himself in Saco, Me., being the first Homœopathic physician there. He was surgeon of the Twenty-second Regiment United States colored troops, and in 1865, receiving an honorable discharge, he returned to Saco, where he remained about a year, and removed to Haverhill, Mass. Here he continued until his death, November 16, 1886. He joined the Institute in 1869.

WILLIAM OWENS, JR., M.D.

Was the son of our worthy fellow-member, Dr. William Owens. He was born April 23, 1857, in Granville, Ohio, where his parents were temporarily visiting. In the following year they returned to Cincinnati, where William spent his childhood and received a good common school education. He early showed a fondness for civil engineering and devoted several years to its study. He was one of the engineers engaged in the survey and construction of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad. He graduated at the Pulte Medical College in 1877, having attended four full courses in it. He was appointed demonstrator and went into practice with his father, making a specialty of surgery. In the winter of 1880 he was appointed surgeon of a railroad in United States of Colombia with headquarters at Ruerto Berrio, United States of Colombia about six hundred miles from the mouth of the Magdalena river. He remained here about two years, when failing health obliged him to resign his position, and he returned to Cincinnati. He attended a course of lectures at the New York Homœopathic College and resumed practice with his father. He was elected Professor of Anatomy in the Pulte College, which position he held until 1884, when ill-health again obliged him to resign. He remained with his father, however, until July, 1886, when he went to California. During a residence of two and a half years in that State his health improved and he returned to Cincinnati. In December, 1890, he had an attack of "la grippe," recovered, suffered a relapse and returned to the mild climate of California, but did not derive the benefit anticipated. He died at Los Angeles, May 9, 1891. He was married to Lulu Parker, of Home City, in 1883. She survives him. He had no children. He was elected a member of the Institute in 1878, but was able to attend only a few meetings.

JOHN PAYNE, M.D.

Was an older brother of our late associate, Dr. Wm. E. Payne. He was born in 1801. While practicing at Northport, Waldo Co., Me., in 1843, he became interested in the success of his brother who had practiced Homœopathy three years, made a trial of some of the remedies with such success that he gave up the old system which he had practiced for fifteen years, adopted the new and removed to Belfast in February, 1844. He was one of the founders of the Institute. He died October 8, 1857.

GEORGE W. PEER, M.D.

Was born at Williamson, Wayne County, N. Y., in 1820. He graduated at the University of New York in 1848 and shortly after removed to Rochester, where he continued to practice until his death. In 1862 he received appointment as army surgeon and established a military hospital in Trinity Church, Washington, and, later, one at Georgetown and another at Fairfax. He had charge of the steamer "John Brooks" during the Peninsular campaign, and was in active service on the field at Antietam, Malvern Hill, Gettysburg, and all the prominent battles of the Army of the Potomac. He joined the Institute in 1872. He died of apoplexy, January 12, 1883.

SARAH BROOKS PETTENGILL, M.D.

Was born in Charlestown, Mass., May 16, 1810. She was the daughter of Dr. Jacob Felt. In 1827 she married John Pettengill, a merchant in Charlestown. In 1833 they removed to Concord, N. H., where Mr. Pettengill was engaged in business. Mrs. Pet-tengill's failing health compelling her to be away from home in the fall and spring, they decided to make Philadelphia their home. In 1856 Mrs. Pettengill began the study of medicine for her own improvement, and after two years' study she concluded to continue the third year and graduated at the Penn Medical University. She had been a Homœopathist for several years and desired to enter the Homœopathic College, but the rules forbade her admission. She was allowed, however, to listen to the lectures on Practice and Materia Medica if she would sit behind a partition, screened from the other students. Under these conditions she attended two winters and gained much valuable information. She was admitted to membership in the Institute in 1871 at the meeting held in Philadelphia, with Drs. Harriet S. French, Mercy B. Jackson and Harriet J. Sartain. She died March 29, 1877.

AARON PITNEY, M.D.

Was born near Mendham, N. J. He was a pupil of Dr. Valentine Mott and after graduating, was appointed surgeon in the army and served during the war of 1812. At the close of the war he associated himself with his brother, Dr. Joseph Pitney, at Auburn, N. Y. During this period he was induced to try the alleged virtues of Homœopathic remedies and visiting New York, placed himself under the tuition of Dr. A. Gerald Hull. He removed to Chicago in 1842 and began the practice of Homœopathy with Dr. D. S. Smith as his only colleague. He joined the Institute in 1857, at the meeting held in Chicago. He died April 7, 1865, of malignant erysipelas, resulting from a fall.

ALBUS REA, M.D.

Was born in Windham, Cumberland County, Me., in 1795. He attended medical lectures and graduated in Boston in 1819 and the following year settled in Portland, Me. In 1840 he became a convert to Homœopathy through Dr. Eliphalet Clark and continued very zealous in his advocacy of the New School of medical practice. He had acquired a large practice which he not only retained, but added to by his change in method, and increased success consequent thereon. He was one of the founders of the Institute, taking an active part in the first meeting. His death, resulting from an injury, occurred October 14, 1848.

JACOB ROBERTS, M.D.

Of him, his son writes: "The old Quaker Doctor, one of the most benign characters of his day and generation in the State of Maine, in medicine, religion and politics. He learned to read after he was seventeen years old, and through his own efforts became the best Latin scholar east of the Kennebec River, and he did more to establish public opinion, the Quaker religion, and Republican politics than any other ten men of his time. His father was a soldier at seventeen years of age and fought in the battle of Bunker Hill and so on to Yorktown, then with two wives, raised twenty-four children, two of whom are now living. The old soldier died at the age of 86 years leaving three hundred and seventy-six living descendants."

Dr. William E. Payne* wrote of him: "In 1844, Dr. J. Roberts of the town of Brooks who had been engaged in Allopathic practice for about forty years, became a convert to Homœopathy. He was induced to investigate the subject through the agency of Dr. John Payne of Belfast. . . . . Many interesting anecdotes are related of him, which characterized the man, the spirit of some of which at least, it might be well for us who are left behind to emulate. His whole aim seemed to be to cure rather than to secure a multiplicity of cases."

Dr. Roberts was one of the early members of the Institute, becoming such in 1847, but it does not appear that he attended many meetings.

Dr. Roberts was born in the town of Buckfield, Oxford County, Me., in 1784. He was the fourth of twenty-four children of Joseph Roberts. He died at North Vassalborough, Me., March 15, 1856.

BENAIAH SANBORN, M.D.

Was born at Waterford, Vt., in 1799. He received his early education at the public schools in Caledonia County, Vt., attended medical lectures and graduated at the University of Vermont at Burlington in 1827. He located at Lyndon, where he built up a large practice. He became a convert to Homœopathy in 1846 and located in St. Johnsbury, where he continued in practice till his death, October 4, 1867. He joined the Institute in 1854. In 1851 he had, with a few colleagues, organized the Caledonia County Homœopathic Medical Society, one of the earliest county societies in New England.

* History of Homœopathy in Maine, from which extracts are published in Trans. of Inst, 1876, vol. ii., p. 555.

ERASTUS ROMIG SCHOLL, M.D.

The son of Robert and Mary, was born at Fleetwood, Berks County, Pa., July 21, 1834. He graduated from the Jefferson Medical College in 1856. He adopted the Homœopathic practice in 1865, since which time he continued to take an active interest in everything affecting its extension, and particularly the organization of the hospital and dispensary at Reading, where he lived. He had served as surgeon in the army, and for several years was a member of the pension examining board. He joined the Institute in 1891. He married Emma Keeley, of Reading, March 5, 1859. He died at Reading, October 13, 1892.

JOHN SCHUE, M.D.

Was a native of Germany, born in 1815. He came to New York in 1839 and entered the office of Drs. Bull and Gray to get a knowledge of the English language and familiarize himself with Homœopathic practice. He graduated at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, in 1842, and practiced in New York till 1844, when he removed to Hartford and formed a partnership with Dr. Gustavus M. Taft, which continued till Dr. Taft went to New Orleans. Dr. Schue joined the Institute in 1846. The death of his wife in 1855 caused great depression of spirits, and when sick with dysentery, he refused all medical aid, declaring death was desirable. He died September 25, 1856.

GEORGE ELIAS SHIPMAN, M.D.

Was born in the City of New York, March 4, 1820. His early schooling was obtained at one of the ward schools in that city. He graduated from the University of New York in 1839. He studied medicine with Dr. Alfred C. Post, and received the degree of Doctor of Medicine from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, in 1843.

Dr. Federal Vanderburgh was the family physician of the Shipmans, and the young graduate acquired a knowledge of the German language that he might study Homœopathy in the language of the discoverer. For the reason that many have made their home in the West, Dr. Shipman's health failing, he removed to Illinois and began to practice Homœopathy in Peoria, but in 1844 removed to Andover, to look after a large tract of land his father had purchased there. In 1846 he settled in Chicago, where he has lived to the time of his death.

In October, 1848, he published the first number of the North-Western Journal of Homœopathy, an octavo of 16 pages, monthly. It was continued four years, completing four volumes. During the cholera epidemic of 1853 his success in the treatment of this disease led to his appointment as a member of the Staff of the City Hospital of Chicago when it was erected in 1857, which, of course, aroused the violent opposition of the Old School.

In 1855 he opened a Homœopathic pharmacy, associated with his nephew, Mr. C. S. Halsey, and when Mr. Halsey was the publisher of the Medical Investigator, Dr. Shipman was a frequent contributor to it. He has written several pamphlets, and, at the request of the author, translated Von Grauvogl's Text-Book of Homœopathy, which was published by subscription in 1870. In 1878 he translated Panelli's Treatise on Typhoid Fever. The following year he translated Grauvogl's Law of Similarity. In October, 1865, the first number of the United States Medical and Surgical Journal (quarterly) was published under his editorial care, which was continued for five years, when it passed into the control of Drs. Small, Ludlam and Danforth. In January, 1871, he opened the Foundlings' Home, in which he continued as director for over twenty years, or up to the time of his death.

He joined the Institute in 1857, and while not a frequent attendant at the meetings, he contributed to its TRANSACTIONS. In 1875, at the request of the Senior members, Dr. Dunham offered a resolution, which was adopted: "That in consideration of the valuable services rendered by George E. Shipman, M.D., of Chicago, to Homœopathy and to the American Institute of Homœopathy, he be constituted a member of the Corps of Seniors. Signed, A. E. Small, President, David Thayer, Secretary." The resolution was unanimously adopted. As this action was subsequently found not to be in accordance with the by-laws, his dues were remitted and his name placed on the list of Seniors as of 1857, at the meeting held at Waukesha, in 1890. In October, 1860, he undertook the editing of the American Journal of Materia Medica, to be published quarterly, having for its object "the expurgation of the false symptoms of the materia medica." Four numbers were published. In 1855 he was one of the trustees of the Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago, and filled the chair of Materia Medica and Therapeutics for eleven years, from the first session in 1860. He was afterward professor in the Chicago Homœopathic Medical College.

He married in April, 1845, Miss Fannie E. Boardman (sister of Dr. H. K. Boardman, of Chicago), of Northfield, Conn., who with eight children and twenty-three grandchildren, survives him. Dr. Shipman died January 20, 1893.

EZRA P. K. SMITH, M.D.

Was born April 9, 1817, at Moravia, Cayuga County, N. Y. In 1836, he removed to Auburn, where he remained in practice till his death, December 27, 1874. He joined the Institute in 1869.

GUSTAVUS M. TAFT, M.D.

Was born in Dedham, Mass., December 7, 1820. He read medicine with Dr. Josiah F. Flagg, of Boston, and afterward with Drs. Hull and Gray in New York. He graduated at the University of New York in 1842, and began practice at Hartford, Conn., being the second practitioner of Homœopathy in the State. His health failing, he went South in November 1845, and entered upon the practice of Homœopathy in New Orleans, being the first one of the New School there also. His success in treating yellow fever brought him many cases, so that worn down with over-work he was attacked with the disease, and unwilling to abandon several critical cases and take necessary rest, he was obliged to succumb. He began to treat himself, and with success, declaring that the fever would subside the following day, but delirium set in, and as there was no other Homœopathic physician in the city, a physician of another school was called, the treatment changed, and his death took place August 10, 1847. He was one of the original members of the Institute, and was a member of the "Correspondence Committee" for 1844.

CHARLES WALKER, M.D.

Was born in Belchertown, Mass., in 1800, studied medicine in the office of Dr. Hunt, of Northampton, attended lectures and graduated at an Old-School medical college in Philadelphia in 1827. He settled in Northampton and practiced about one and a half years, when he went to Hudson, N. Y., and studied Homœopathy under Dr. George W. Cook. He returned to Northampton and practiced Homœopathy until his death, January 17, 1855. He joined the Institute in 1848.

NOAH HULL WARNER, M.D.

Was born in Plymouth, Conn., January 21, 1808. He graduated from the Medical Department of Yale College in 1831, and began the practice of medicine at Van Dusenville, Mass., where he continued until 1836, when he removed to Buffalo, where he remained during his life. He was a man accustomed to think for himself, a habit that was not approved of by many of his associates in the Medical Society of Erie County, and in 1843 he was arraigned before it and expelled on the charge of irregularity. In his diary, under date of February 6, 1844, he wrote: "This day I have made my first purely Homœopathic prescription." At this period there were only one or two Homœopathic physicians in Western New York, and the advocates of the school had to meet and combat the most bitter opposition. During the prevalence of cholera in 1849 the superiority of the Homœopathic system was so thoroughly demonstrated that the attention of the community was called to it. The care of his large practice and consequent exposure brought on an affection of the lungs from which he suffered for several years. On the re-appearance of cholera in 1853, his health again failed, and he started on a voyage to the Mediterranean, but was called home before sailing. He joined the Institute in 1853. He died of diabetes at Swamscott, Mass., June 24, 1869.

JOSHUA FOLSOM WHITTLE, M.D.

The son of Thomas and Mary Folsom, was born in Deering, N. H., August 5, 1820. He attended the Francestown Academy and taught there. He studied medicine with his uncle, Dr. James Peterson, of Weare, attended lectures at Castleton Medical College, and graduated in 1843. After practicing a short time at Francestown, he removed to Nashua, where he continued in practice till his death, August 17, 1888. Dr. Whittle was twice married. September 5, 1858, he married Miss Amanda Roby, and January 6, 1872, he was married to Mrs. Sarah C. Wallace. He was a veteran of the Institute, having been a member since 1847.

ADALINE WILLIAMS, M.D.

Was the youngest of five children (four daughters) of Marcus and Nancy Hall Williams, and was born in Mansfield, Bristol County, Mass., September 26, 1834. Her early education was at the public schools. Later, she was a pupil at the North Bridgewater Academy, and afterward she entered the literary course at Oberlin College. She entered the senior class at Antioch College, Ohio, but was called home on account of sickness in her family, and did not graduate. During the Rebellion she was a teacher at Hilton Head. Four of her father's children were Homœopathic physicians. She attended two courses of medical lectures at the New England Medical College at Boston, and a third at the New York Medical College for Women, where she graduated in March, 1865. She began practice in Mansfield. During 1873 and 1874 she spent a year in England and Scotland. She practiced for a time at St. Charles, Minn., and in the spring of 1880 returned to the east and settled in Worcester, where she continued in practice until within a few months of her death, which took place at Augusta, Me., December 21, 1889. She joined the Institute in 1876.

WILLIAM GROSVENOR WOLCOTT, M.D.

Was born in Shoreham, Vt., September 28, 1818. He studied medicine with Dr. W. A. Hitchcock of that town, and graduated at Berkshire Medical College in 1839. He settled in Portland, N. Y., in 1841. Meeting Dr. John F. Gray, who was visiting his father at Portland, the subject of Homœopathy was discussed, and, scarlatina being prevalent, he made a trial of Homœopathic remedies with such success that he adopted the practice. In 1845 Dr. Wolcott removed to Westfield, where he formed a partnership with Dr. L. M. Kenyon, who had recently adopted Homœopathy. Dr. Wolcott's health suffered from the lake winds, and he was compelled to leave Westfield. He settled in Whitehall, Washington County, in 1847, where he continued in practice till his death, September 7, 1866. He joined the Institute in 1848.

Remarks.

Bushrod W. James, M.D.: Life is a perpetual succession of changes, inevitable and unavoidable. We know it is the fact, and yet, as each mutation follows the other, we meet it with surprise. We have not been prepared for this event or that at such times as they have fallen into our lives, yet they were not altogether unexpected.

We are sure of death as we are of the life which now pulsates in our hearts, yet no one may be certain of the time at which the golden thread will be broken; and this uncertainty is both a blessing and a trial,—that is, some of us may regard it as a trial. If it were possible to know just when our work must stop, we imagine it would be well. To finish our self-set tasks, to round our lives into perfection, to leave behind an unbroken record of accomplished toil, is the longing ambition of nearly every one who thinks of the end of human life at all.

But where is there a chronicle of a perfectly finished human existence? The noblest and the most learned have passed away with a sword outside its scabbard, or a pen still moist with flowing ink! The statesman had just outlined a grand project for the nation's good, and he left the earth and took his splendid ideas with him! An author had just conceived the most beautiful poem of his life, and no one will read it ever! The physician had found a wonderful addition to his materia medica, but before he finished his provings and records, or puts it to the test, he passes beyond the need of a remedy! And the surgeon had planned a finer instrument, or thought out a more skilful and facile method of operative procedure, which would have aided surgical science materially, when he turns to answer the last peremptory call, and no one will ever profit by his merciful creations!

And so it could be recorded in an increasing round as the daylight comes and goes, and we are forced to believe that there is no finish on this side of eternity, and we wonder why. Yet if all were completed here, would there be need for the endless hereafter of which we are told? Suppose a man's life here, so entirely completed that he is satisfied, what need is there for any future? and yet there are very few men who are willing to believe that they are less than immortal, and that when death comes it ends them once for all! Ah, no! The soul within cries for recognition and holds fast to its prospect of unending existence beyond the trivialities and sufferings of this evanescent sphere.

One by one we step out and leave a half-spun web for some one else to finish; or, far more likely, it will forever be an imperfect creation to human understanding. But it may be that unconsciously to the careless world it is still trending to its full beauty. It may be that the incompleteness is but the tangible part of it, the perfection even now weaving itself around and among the workers in the field which he has left.

With some lives, it is sad to say, it would seem well if they should be forever ended when the frail, sinful term of this life was closed; but if one should thus terminate, so must those whose very memory is a sacred talisman pointing others on to higher and grander achievements! So it must be that the tares shall flourish with the wheat until such time as we know not now, and it becomes our better part to forget the mistaken careers and to look with charity upon the evil effects which they have produced, while endeavoring in our own to counteract their direful influences; in fact, to think of them as only we must, that we may forget and keep clear of the past which their example has polluted, unless we can straighten out the sadly tangled threads.

But we may dwell in joyful knowledge that we have known, have touched hands and exchanged thoughts with such as we miss from our number. Year by year the number of the associates of our youthful days decreases on this side of the veil of mystery; but think of the meeting of classmates and friends beyond! They pass from our vision into the glorious, better life, and our grief must be only the shower which will ripen the remembrance of them into beautiful recognition when we too have passed away!

We have seen them go—Dr. J. J. Drysdale, Dr. George E. Shipman, Dr. Charles Culliss and Dr. George A. Hall, our college classmate, our honored friend and brother in surgery and medicine. I can recall him now, in his youthful ambition, in his strong young manhood, in his riper years, always true, always brave and faithful to his trust as healer of the wounded, and helper to poor human sufferers. We were classmates and warm-hearted friends and I know whereof I speak; he was a companion to love, a man to honor, a surgeon to trust and a teacher in whom to repose faith and confidence. His span of life counted in years was all too short! But he lived so earnestly and devoted himself to his profession so indefatigably that in those years he spent as long a life of usefulness as thousands who have reached their three score years and ten.

In his career we see how much of good can be done in a comparatively short space of time; how the years may be rounded into beautiful fulness with no waste places to mar their symmetry. For a little while we must say farewell to him, and the others who pass from our midst. They go and others step forward to fill their places, to take up the work which they have laid down; but none can ever make whole the riven chain, and not one can fully occupy the spots in our affections which they claimed by traits peculiarly their own! Time and again we will think of them—in business hours, in hours of well-earned leisure they will come back to our remembrance; the glances of the friendly eyes, the tones of the genial voices will return with vivid distinctness until we almost feel the warm hand-clasps, and then we will remember they are gone! Gone to another life, and we fully trust to higher and grander! A life whose beauty we cannot fully realize until we too have crossed to the other side.

Following them in earnest toil, in purity of purpose, we will aim that one day we will meet them in the beautiful land where all things lead on to perfection. Here we can see them never, though our hearts should ache with loneliness—but there we are told we will find no sorrowful partings, no regrets, no doubts nor fears! there the world will seem to have been only a stopping place in which to receive the initiative into rest and peace and happiness! into the fulness of the existence for which we were created—the completeness of holy ambition, the exquisite perfection of love and happiness unbounded! of friendship unalloyed, of the companionship of the good and true of all ages, and under the never-failing glory of the presence of Him to whom we owe all that we may attain here and hereafter and to whom also is praise and love forever and ever!

Not here ends all! within the life beyond
Earth's sorrows seem but wandering summer clouds,
Within whose folds the silvery drops are hid
Which loose bright wings from sombre funeral shrouds.

And makes the heart sick with its quivering weight,
And dims the eyes, so they might never see
The angel standing at the opening gate.

Not here ends all! else must the spirit die;
And fair beginnings have no end complete;
And love and friendship pass, as if a storm
Had torn and cast them at our faltering feet.

Not here ends all! ah no, so fair a land
Awaits us when the years have laid us down,
That but to reach its beauteous, restful shores
Is worth earth's cares and death's pale, withering crown.

ALFRED E. HAWKES, M.D., of Liverpool, England, was asked for some remarks touching his late distinguished colleague, John J. Drysdale, M.D. He responded as follows:

Dr. Drysdale, whose father received the honor of knighthood at the hands of the King, was born near Edinburgh.

He was a landed proprietor and a magistrate, and in many respects a typical Scotchman.

He studied at Edinburgh University where he was distinguished and there obtained his degree. He further studied in Vienna and France; he was a proficient German and French scholar and was personally acquainted with Hahnemann.

He was well versed in pathology, and he and Dr. Rutherford Russell were associated in editing Fletcher's Pathology more than fifty years ago. As a microscopist he was well-known, and his work in conjunction with Dr. Dallinger is highly appreciated and very frequently referred to by other workers. He settled in Liverpool more than fifty years since and speedily began to exert his almost unique influence. He originated the dispensary for the benefit of the poor which forty-five years afterwards became incorporated with the Hahnemann Hospital, built and furnished by Mr. Henry Tate.

He was the author of many works bearing on the problems of life, but his provings and arrangement of Kali bichrom., so well done that the drug seems to cover as much ground as many of our polychrests, will suffice to perpetuate his name in our ranks.

He unveiled the Cypher Repertory, which is, to the Greeks even, foolishness, but in the hands of those who have spent a little time in mastering its arrangement, it is a sine qua non. Apart from the Cypher, it is, in the speaker's opinion, the most reliable Repertory we have.

But the chief monument which our deceased friend, like Wren, has raised to his own memory, is the British Journal of Homœopathy, without which no medical library is complete. In England it commands a large price, and it may be said to be worth about £35 in its complete state.

Of his diagnostic acumen, his judicial mind, and his kindness to his juniors, whose papers at the Homœopathic Society he never failed to listen to and speak of in encouraging terms, it is hardly necessary to speak.

As a consultant he was widely known, and in this capacity he attended Mr. John Bright, who, like Beaconsfield, Whateley, and Dean McNeal, was a homœopath.

As president of the Liverpool Biological Society, and of the Liverpool Literary and Philosophical Society, he did good work.

And finally, he was a firm believer in a beneficent and merciful Creator, whose works he had studied with such patience and to such advantage to his fellow-creatures. His hopes rested on something more firmly established than his own scientific views, and his faith did not waver.

He died at his suburban residence, Waterloo, near Liverpool, on August 20, 1892, at the age of 75 years. He was followed to the grave by many of his medical brethren of both schools, and others.

DR. H. C. ALLEN: His example in life is certainly worthy of our emulation. Probably, we have not had in our school, since Hahnemann's immediate pupils and followers, a man adhering so closely to the teachings of the Master as did Drysdale. We always knew where to find him. He was a Homœopath from conviction and practice; always ready and willing to defend and advance the cause, under any circumstances, at any time, and under all conditions. This one feature of Dr. Drysdale's life has called most attention to him—his persistent adherence to his principles—in this he emulated Hahnemann himself. Another cause why we should pay him marked deference is, that he was one of our oldest and ablest editors, having been engaged in that work for forty years. Most of us grow tired of the work in five, or at most, in ten years; but he continued steadfastly and faithfully for forty years. This has endeared him to many and many a member, and I pay him my grateful tribute for what he has done for Homœopathy.

DR. TALBOT: Dr. Drysdale was a man that you could not meet or know without both respecting and loving. He was, by nature, generous even to his most bitter enemy, if such he had, but which I doubt; at the same time a great student, a great observer, an earnest worker, and a firm believer in the principles of Homœopathy. He did more, perhaps, than any other man in Great Britain to win for the cause of Homœopathy a hearing and a friendly feeling even from its opponents. He was a man of great scientific attainments, and in a personal interview with Darwin, in respect to Drysdale he said, we have no man in the scientific world more estimable and more exact than he. A long life and a busy one brought Dr. Drysdale in contact with a very large number of the profession, and I have yet to find the first one, who ever had a moment's conversation with Dr. Drysdale, but what had the greatest respect and regard for him, and I think in his death we lose one of the most honorable and valuable members of the Institute.

The following letter from Dr. R. E. DUDGEON was read as a tribute to Dr. Drysdale:

"By the death of Dr. Drysdale Homœopathy has lost one who has, for many years, filled the foremost place in the new school of medicine. His reputation was not limited to Britain, nor even to the English-speaking race. All over the world, wherever a knowledge of Homœopathy has penetrated, Drysdale's services to Homœopathy are known and acknowledged. It was my privilege to enjoy half a century of close friendship and unbroken intimacy with him, and I can honestly say, that I have never known a man gifted with a more thoroughly scientific mind and a sounder judgment, or one who was a more delightful companion.

"Dr. Drysdale's literary labors on behalf of Homœopathy commenced with his contribution to the "Introduction to the Study of Homœopathy," brought out under the joint editorship of Dr. Russell and himself, were continued through the British Journal of Homœopathy, of which he was the founder, and chief editor for thirty-four years, and to which he communicated many important original papers, and culminated in the "Cypher Repertory," and the first volume of Materia Medica, Physiological and Applied. He spared no trouble in working out his ideas for promoting the scientific development of Homœopathy. His activity in other departments of science and philosophy, as shown by the works he published, was something marvellous, and gave evidence of the many-sided character of his mind. With all his knowledge, he was singularly modest, and deferential towards the views and opinions of those he conversed with, and he gave you the impression that he wished more to learn from you all that you knew, than to teach you what he knew. He had not a trace of envy or jealousy in his disposition, but was always anxious to encourage the researches, and proclaim the discoveries or novel views of others. He was no pedant, and could easily throw off the cares of practice, and abandon for awhile the severe studies in which he delighted, for a few days of fishing or shooting, or for a tour through some of the beautiful scenery of his native land. He was a man of warm affections and steady friendship, of strict morality, and severe truthfulness, a scientist, and a gentleman in the highest sense of the word."

J. P. DAKE, M.D., paid a tribute to the memory of Dr. Geo. A. Hall, in which he said: It is hardly necessary for me to add to what I have already said at the dedication of the hospital on the grounds of the Exposition. I believe that the remarks I there made are in the Medical Century, published in full. I will simply say here, in addition, that Dr. Hall belonged to a class of our physicians who view the interests of the profession in general before their own personal interests. Dr. Hall was a thorough teacher and a careful and devoted practitioner. He took interest in everything calculated to promote the progress of the cause of Homœopathy, and he was therefore a good example to us, and especially to the younger men who are coming forward with a long life before them. My personal acquaintance with Dr. Hall was very pleasant. He was a most genial friend, and when he was with us on occasions like this, of the meetings of the Institute, he was most cordially devoted to whatever we had in hand. We have occasion to mourn his departure. He was cut off before the whole of life's work seemed to have been done, and all we can do is to honor his memory and to emulate his good example.

DR. H. W. ROBY: It was my pleasure, as well as my great profit, for a number of years to know intimately and well Dr. George A. Hall. He was a born leader, fitted by nature to be a leader of men, as was Napoleon, as was Thiers, as was Gladstone. As a soldier he would have taken the city or the state; if he could not have taken them alone, he would have organized armies enough to go with him and take them; as a statesman, he would have given his country a new and a better constitution and better laws, if it were possible; as a lawyer, he would have been always found on the side of humanity and right in all the great contests of his age; as a minister, he would have trampled bigotry and selfishness out of the creeds as far as possible, and have brought a broad, generous, noble theology and one that can take in all humanity and carry it through successfully; in commercial life he would have been a merchant prince, he would have established reciprocity in commerce with all the nations of the earth for the betterment of mankind; at the head of municipal affairs, he would have turned the rascals out and appointed men on the score of honesty coupled with capacity; as a sailor, he would have emulated Columbus, and made a new chart of the seas and a new map for the continent; as an astronomer, he would have had his eye on every planet and asteroid this side of eternal darkness; as a Homœopath, he never rested until he knew the law that runs like a silver thread through all the intricacies of pathogenesy; as a surgeon, he slept but little until he could recognize and name every tissue of the body, until he could safely thrust a steel instrument between the neoplasm and life, until he could do that which would stagger and appal other men in its boldness and daring—like the fireman who rushes into the burning building to save life amidst the greatest danger—yet returning from the surgical expedition amid the plaudits of the populace—bringing back to life one given over to death. He was the friend of every student who showed a taste for study, and yet no man could more vigorously lay the lash of scorpions on the back of the shirker and the laggard. Thus was he in Homœopathy—firm and strong and upright, faithful to every trust imposed upon him, in his profession and without it—a noble man.

DR. ROBY then read the following poem:

ONE FAITHFUL MAN.

When Hiram said he would not yield
The trust his faithful breast concealed;
When Damon came through flood and strife
To save imperilled Pythias' life;
When Daniel in the lion's den
Kept compact with the Prince of Men;
When Martin Luther went to Worms,
Nor sought for leniency of terms;
When Switzerland's great tyrant fell,
And freedom came through William Tell;
When Cromwell spurned the proffered crown,
And flung Great Britain's sceptre down;
When Washington at Valley Forge
Prayed first, then dared the icy gorge;
When old John Brown foresaw the grave,
And still went on to free the slave;
And Lincoln, by his great decree,
Set all the groaning bondmen free,
They set the gauge for all mankind
To great and lofty deeds inclined.
One faithful man at Freedom's gate
May save your city or your state;
One faithful man in every field
May multiply the harvest's yield;
One faithful man of good report
To every foreign camp and court
May save our land from deep disgrace
In many a diplomatic case;
One faithful man in manhood's ways
May set your city's streets ablaze
With fire of patriotic zeal
And frenzy for the public weal;
May make your merchants sell their wares
As if the buyers held their shares;
May make your wrangling doctors cease
To fret the air, and live in peace;
Put courts and juries in a mood
To do all men an equal good;
Make lawyers heedful of their speech,
Make preachers practice what they preach;
And make old Shylock loan his gold
On half the usury of old.
One faithful man in every home
May stay the tide of those who roam
In quest of mischief through the street

Where vice and virtue daily meet.
One faithful man in every pew
May all our fealty renew,
And make our joys for sacred things
Sweet incense to the King of kings.
And such a man, wherever born,
Wears all the glorious tints of morn
Within his glowing face, and stands
A poem in all times and lands,
And to his enemies may say,
In truth, on each immortal day,
"Into my cabin you may come,
For God is here, and hate is dumb."
In state and church, and lodge and clan,
The world still needs that faithful man;
And here, my brothers, we had found
That faithful man who might be crowned
The Prince of Surgeons without wrong
To any of the royal throng,
From Gimbernat in days of old
To those who still life's chalice hold;
And I propose in friendship's name
To add this tribute to his fame
And sue all men, whate'er their creeds,
To emulate his lofty deeds.

The name of Charles Cullis was responded to by DR. H. C. HOUGHTON, who said: I regret that I have had no opportunity to prepare any set eulogy on the virtues of this exemplary man. If it were possible for me to speak only what comes to my mind at this moment concerning his life, it might be better because more spontaneous than any studied effort; I will acquit me as best I can in paying my tribute, which will give him credit for being an earnest, active, persistent, consistent student of Homœopathy and practitioner. My acquaintance with Dr. Cullis began immediately at the close of the late civil war in 1865, and continued from that time until his death, and I may say that my heart was knitted to his as to no other man outside of my own family because of the beneficent influence which he exerted not only upon my belief and practice of Homœopathy and of our belief and faith in the practice of medicine, but the greater influence which he had upon my spiritual and Christian life; and it was in this part, this particular phase of his life that this man came to be known not only to his own community but throughout these United States and the world.

We find in his life the results of environment and of personal experience; beginning life with a limitation of body, he realized in the phthisical tendency and the probability that his life would be short, that what he should do must be done quickly, and he was led into an association professionally and medically with Dr. Saunders, and thus his practice in Homœopathy and his direction in life began; and immediately out of his own experience there developed a most intense sympathy for the consumptive patient. As he said, they were thrown here and there without any care, because they were incurable cases; these gave the motive and impelling power to his own life, and from the first establishment of the Consumptive's Home until his death, that was his characteristic—a self-denying surrendering of his soul and body to Homœopathy not alone in the sense which any physician does, but in the special sense which any man does when he is impelled by the divine spirit within. After organizing this Institute for Consumptives, he went to Europe to investigate the work of George Mills and others. There, possibly out of these studies and experiences, he was led to a position as regards Christian belief and faith which was peculiar and which has been largely misunderstood. While he had faith in the power of Jesus Christ upon the body, he never gave up his faith in the efficacy of healing remedies upon that body; because of this misunderstanding and misconception of his position he had to carry in the latter part of his life a burden of sorrow which you can well understand, But out of his whole experience and out of the fact that he was identified with a similar work of charity, the Consumptives' Home, he acquired and received from the whole world, I may say, the tribute which was given him so richly, so spontaneously at the memorial services which closed the record of his mortal life, and, if it be true, as I believe it is, that when we leave this body God will give to us a better body, one fitted in every sense for the functions of the spirit life, I cannot think of my beloved brother as dead but as alive in all the activities—wider, richer, deeper than that which characterized his life while here on earth.

DR. TALBOT: I cannot allow this occasion to pass by without one word of tribute to the memory of Dr. Cullis, whom I knew well and for a very long time. In a life that has not been inactive and that has brought me in contact with a great many physicians, I must say that I have never met a man in all my life that so disappointed me as Dr. Cullis. I knew him as a very young man, delicate, sensitive, feeble, his voice gone, so that he could not for a long time speak but in a whisper, with a desire to do something that was good in the profession, and yet seemingly so very weak. No one who knew him believed that he had a long life before him. He married soon after his graduation, and his wife, delicate as himself, died soon after of consumption, and it seemed the last blow to a weak, feeble man, and for days, almost unconscious, he hung upon the beloved remains of that woman; but from that moment there seemed to come a strength to him, a feeling that he had something to do in life, and it was then that he began that work which so widely, so grandly through all life after that time of thirty or forty and more years he carried on. The amount of work which he accomplished is something marvellous; the number of communications that he received from all parts of the world was very great; the hospital with its large number of patients tenderly cared for, from the moment of entering therein until the patient died, or, as fortunately in some cases, when doomed to death, they still recovered. He also established a cancer hospital, and taking those who had at that early time in the history of New England no place to go, and the labor that he there exerted was voluminous. His publications, too, brought him in contact with the people all over the world. He also engaged in the establishment of missions in far-off India. I have only told you of a small part of the work that this man alone carried on, establishing them from his own thought and experience, and that he carried on by his own strength. I say most unhesitatingly that no man has ever been connected with the American Institute that has carried on such broad, extensive and very toilsome work as the youth who seemed so feeble and with his life just fluttering and threatening to end.

Dr. E. M. Hale paid a tribute to the wonderful knowledge which Dr. Cullis possessed, which was evidenced so well and thoroughly by his frequent communications to Dr. Hale while the latter was writing his New Remedies. He credited him with many of the best ideas in the New Remedies.

John A. Gann, M.D., spoke as follows in relation to his late friend and colleague, Dr. F. M. Clark:

I am perhaps unfortunate in having to speak a name that is not known to many of you. The great majority of us, were we to be called away would perhaps be as unknown to the remainder of the Institute as is Dr. F. M. Clark. I shall only speak of Dr. Clark as I knew him, and as those who knew him in the community in which he lived. He was ever one of the most active members of the local and State Society; he was one of the most faithful members of the State Society, and one who loved most dearly the American Institute. Dr. Clark was an unprejudiced man; always an earnest student; he was a modest man, always deferring in all things to the good of others. Above the mere fact of his being a physician,—above the mere fact of his being a student, he possessed something far beyond that, for Dr. Clark was a man called away at an early age when a life was open before him of great usefulness, and he felt the inspiration of a future greater and grander than that which even a long life could have insured him, and with disease preying upon his life, he gave himself unflinchingly to his duty and avoided the minor events of his day and surroundings. He was looking upward and forward to a better life. He was not afraid of the future, and like the grand case that was referred to by Drs. Talbot and Haughton, the coming of the morrow was the coming of the greater joy.

The name of the late Dr. George W. Moore being then called, DR. D. H. BECKWITH of Cleveland, said:

Mr. President, I have been requested by the Memorial Committee to pay tribute to the deceased members of the Institute who have died in Ohio since our last gathering.

Among the pioneer Homœopathic physicians was George W. Moore, M.D., of Springfield, Ohio.

For over a quarter of a century he was an active member in the State Medical Society and for about that period a member of this Institute. For many years he was the leading Homœopathist of the city in which he resided, and as a surgeon he was second to none in Springfield or the counties adjoining. He had a large, portly frame; and behind that face and figure he carried those traits of character, which his friends called manliness.

He had warm attachments for his friends,—his patrons and his profession. Shortly after the war broke out, he sought and obtained an appointment as surgeon in the army. He served with distinction in this capacity until the bugle of peace was sounded, when he returned to his home and again resumed the practice of medicine and surgery. He possessed a mind that was progressive in religion and medicine and was bound to no creed. His patients trusted and honored him; they brought to him the serious interests of their lives. A genial face and a kind heart made him many friends in and out of the profession. He died honored and beloved.

The other member that died in Ohio was William Owens, Jr., M.D., of Cincinnati. He was the son of the veteran that has so long been identified with the Institute.

The father of the deceased educated his son with reference to his future work—the practice of medicine and surgery. The office with its surroundings served as his teacher in practical work from early boyhood. That practical training in office work was a great educator to young Owens and fitted him for manhood's work.

He was not a graduate of a literary college, but had more than an ordinary education which he acquired in Cincinnati. After three courses in the Pulte Medical College, he received his diploma—his standing being among the best in his class.

After graduation he entered into partnership with his father in the practice of medicine and surgery. He soon established a very creditable practice, and was beloved by his patients.

His qualifications were such in his profession that the trustees of the Pulte Medical College conferred upon him a professorship soon after his graduation. This was accepted and filled to the entire satisfaction of the faculty and the students.

He rose above all controversies, that so often develop in medical schools. Possessing this trait of character he naturally became a favorite among his associates that were engaged in college work.

His labors in his profession and college work so exhausted his vital energies that he became an easy victim to the "Grippe," that was prevalent in Cincinnati.

Finding it impossible to recover at home he sought a more equable climate, which he found in California. On reaching there his improvement was all that he could desire and he looked forward to a speedy return to business and his friends.

From undue exposure he contracted a severe cold from which he could not recover and the brilliant future of young Owens terminanated in death many miles from his native home.

It matters not what estimate we now place upon the old veteran or the young hero, for they both sleep beneath green turf—that God had prepared for their eternal rest.

A. W. WOODWARD, M.D., spoke briefly, but feelingly, in eulogy of his friend and professional brother, the late distinguished George W. Shipman, M.D. (His remarks have not been received by the General Secretary).

DR. BUSHROD W. JAMES, chairman of the Committee on Memorial Service, then closed the service. He said:

The time has now arrived to close our memorial service. We will pass out into the bustling world, and its noise will soon dissipate the silence and solemnity of this hour. Gradually we will in a measure forget to think of those who have left our company for ever. We will forget to wonder who will be absent from our circle when we meet again. But the noble examples of those who have departed will still influence some of us, while the good they have done will go on growing and extending, working benefits of which we may be scarcely conscious.

We hear much of what a single seed of evil may produce. How much more of good must accrue from the many deeds and words sown by those of whom we have been thinking and speaking during this service. It is something for which to be thankful to have belonged to the same profession and society with these absent brothers. Their examples should stimulate us to strive toward an equality with them in character and profession, so that when our time arrives to lay down our hands and close our eyes in very weariness of this uncertain world, its cares, its sorrows and its sufferings, we may feel that there will be some friends to regret our absence and to wish that we had not been called away so soon. We know not how many of us will be silent when the roll is called next time we meet. We do not know of whom, some of us will be speaking regretfully and sadly at our next memorial service. It is a solemnly momentous thought that the laws of mutable nature renders it impossible for us to expect that we will all be in the session at Denver in 1894.

Is it not better that we cannot look upon one and another and know that they will be the absent ones next year? Oh, it is far pleasanter to say "good-bye" with the hope of meeting again. And it is better for each of us to so direct our lives that no matter when the call shall come, we will hear from the Eternal himself, "well done thou good and faithful servant."

HISTORICAL NOTE.

In July, 1843, the New York Homœopathic Physicians' Society issued invitations to the Homœopathic physicians of the United States, to meet in general convention in the city of New York for the purpose of forming a National Homœopathic Medical Society. The invitation was responded to by a considerable number of the leading Homœopathic practitioners of the country, who, according to previous arrangement, convened in the Lyceum of Natural History in New York City, on the 10th day of April, 1844, the eighty-ninth anniversary of the birth of the illustrious Hahnemann.

The convention was organized by electing Constantine Hering, M.D., of Philadelphia, Pa., President; Josiah F. Flagg, M.D., of Boston, Mass., and William Channing, M.D., of New York City, N. Y., Vice-Presidents; and Henry Dunnell, M.D., Secretary.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is deemed expedient to establish a society, entitled "The American Institute of Homœopathy."

John F. Gray, M.D., was elected General Secretary of the Institute, and S. R. Kirby, M.D., Treasurer.

The Convention having accomplished the object for which it had assembled, on motion, adjourned, sine die.

Immediately after the adjournment of the Convention, on the evening of the 10th day of April, 1844, at the call of John F. Gray, M.D., General Secretary-elect, the First Session of the American Institute of Homœopathy was held. Josiah F. Flagg, M.D., Boston, Mass., was elected Chairman, and A. Gerald Hull, M.D., New York City, N. Y., Provisional Secretary.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS.

CONSTITUTION.

ADOPTED JUNE 10, 1874.

Article I.—Name and Object.

THIS Association shall be styled the AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF HOMŒOPATHY, and its object the improvement of Homœopathic therapeutics and all other departments of medical science.

Article II.—Members.

The Institute shall be composed of those physicians who are already members, and of such others as may be hereafter chosen in conformity with the By-Laws.

Article III.—Officers.

The officers of the Institute shall be a President, two Vice-Presidents, who shall be designated "First" and "Second," according to the number of votes received by each, a General Secretary, a Provisional Secretary, a Treasurer and an Assistant Treasurer, with such other officers as shall be designated by the By-Laws, to be chosen at such time, in such manner, for such a period, and with such duties as the By-Laws shall ordain.

Article IV.—Seal.

The Institute shall have and use one common seal, with a suitable device and inscription.

Article V.—Amendments.

This Constitution may be altered or amended by a vote of two-thirds of all the members present at the regular annual meeting, provided that notice of such alteration or amendment shall have been given in writing at a previous annual meeting of the Institute.

BY-LAWS.

(ADOPTED JUNE 2, 1893.)

Article I.—Meetings.

This Institute shall hold at least one session in each year, at such time and place as may be determined upon from time to time.

Article II.—Officers.

SECTION 1. The officers shall be elected by ballot at each annual session of the Institute, and shall enter upon their respective duties the first day of January following.

SEC. 2. The officers of the Institute, viz., the President, Vice-Presidents, General Secretary, Provisional Secretary, Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer shall constitute an Executive Committee, which shall arrange the business of the session, attend to matters of business not otherwise specially provided for, and perform such other duties as may by vote of the Institute devolve upon them.

SEC. 3. The General Secretary shall be paid an annual salary of five hundred dollars.

Article III.—Duties of Officers.

SECTION 1. The President shall preside at the meetings of the Institute and perform the duties usually pertaining to his office, together with such others as may by vote of the Institute devolve upon him. He shall sign all certificates of membership. He shall deliver an address at the opening of each session, and make such suggestions as he may deem necessary for the Institute to take action on during the session; and he may also consider any subject relating to medical science.

SEC. 2. The Vice-Presidents in their order shall perform the duties of the President in his absence or disability.

SEC. 3. The General Secretary shall keep a record of the proceedings of the meetings, conduct the correspondence of the Institute, issue notices of meetings, notify members of their election, sign certificates of membership, and perform such other duties as the Institute may direct. It shall further be the duty of the Secretary to send to each Homœopathic journal published in the country, within two months after the adjournment of an annual meeting, a list of the officers for the ensuing year and the members of its sections. He shall have printed, during the session, whenever practicable, a daily list of the members and visitors registered, which shall give the registration number, residence, and local habitation of each person, and shall provide a number sufficient to furnish a copy to each and all those in attendance. He shall be empowered to employ clerical aid necessary to the performance of this duty.

SEC. 4. The Provisional Secretary shall assist the General Secretary, and in his absence perform his duties.

SEC. 5. It shall be the special duty of the Provisional Secretary to make, or provide, stenographic reports of all scientific discussions of the Institute and of its sections, and of all debates upon the reports and papers presented by the Standing Committees. He shall send copies of these discussions or debates for revision and correction to their authors respectively, who shall be required to return them within one week after their reception, when they shall be furnished to the General Secretary for publication in the TRANSACTIONS. The compensation for such services shall be two hundred dollars per annum and the necessary expenses of his attendance at the session shall be paid by the Institute.

SEC. 6. In the absence or disability of the Provisional Secretary, his duties shall devolve upon the General Secretary.

SEC. 7. The Treasurer shall receive all money belonging to the Institute, and make all disbursements under the recommendation of the Executive Committee. He shall furnish at each annual meeting a written report of the condition of the finances.

SEC. 8. The Assistant Treasurer shall render aid to the Treasurer, and, in his absence or disability, perform his duties.

Article IV.—Censors.

There shall be a Board of Censors, consisting of five members (three of whom shall constitute a quorum) who shall receive and examine the credentials of candidates for membership, and report to the Institute for election such as may be found properly qualified. One member of said Board shall be elected by ballot at each annual session, to serve for five years from the first day of January next succeeding said election.

Article V.—Membership.

SECTION 1. Candidates for membership shall present to the Board of Censors a certificate of three members of the Institute that the applicant has pursued a regular course of medical studies according to the requirements of the existing institutions of this country, and sustains a good moral character and professional standing. Such certificate shall state when and where the applicant obtained a diploma. If found qualified, the candidate may be elected a member. No person shall be considered a member, however, before paying an admission fee of two dollars and the annual dues, which shall entitle him to a certificate of membership.

SEC. 2. No physician, graduated subsequent to the year 1891, shall be eligible to membership, unless said graduation has followed three, full, annual courses of didactic and clinical lectures of not less than six months each.

SEC. 3. Members shall pay annually the sum of five dollars towards defraying the expenses of the Institute. The TRANSACTIONS of the Institute shall be sent to those members only who have paid their dues.

SEC. 4. Members neglecting the payment of dues for three years, after proper notification from the Treasurer, shall have their names dropped from the roll of membership. Any person thus dropped shall have the privilege of reinstatement either by paying all arrearages or by applying as a new member under the existing By-Laws.

SEC. 5. The Executive Committee shall be authorized to remit, sub silentio, the dues of those who, for ten years, have been in good membership and have paid their dues during that time, provided such members are unable to continue payment of their annual dues.

SEC. 6. All members of the Institute who have maintained twenty-five consecutive years of membership shall be considered Senior Members, and be exempt from the payment of annual dues; and the names of such members shall be printed first in the list of members, in capital letters.

SEC. 7. Any foreign physician may be elected a Corresponding Member of the Institute at any annual meeting, on recommendation of the Board of Censors, and shall have all the privileges of members, except voting and eligibility to office.

SEC. 8. The Institute may, at any annual meeting, elect as Honorary Members, not to exceed five in one year, any foreign physicians who may be judged worthy from their superior attainments in medicine; provided, that the names of persons proposed for Honorary Membership shall have been presented at a previous annual meeting. Such Honorary Members shall have all the privileges of members except voting and eligibility to office.

SEC. 9. The Institute may, at any annual meeting, elect as Honorary Associate Members, not to exceed three in any one year, any persons not members of the medical profession, who have in any way been of special service to science and humanity, and particularly those who have been special patrons of Homœopathy; and said Honorary Associate Members shall have all the privileges of Honorary Members.

SEC. 10. Any physician properly accredited as a Delegate shall be admitted during the session of the Institute to all the privileges of members, except voting and eligibility to office, on the following basis:

First. From every association composed of more than fifty members from different States, two delegates, with an additional delegate for every twenty members.

Second. From every State Society, two delegates, with an additional delegate for every twenty members.

Third. From every county or local society, one delegate.

Fifth. From every medical journal published, one delegate.

Sixth. From every college associated with the Institute, two delegates; said delegates to constitute the Inter-collegiate Committee of the Institute.

Article VI.—Sections.

SECTION 1. The following SECTIONS shall be appointed as hereinafter provided for.

a. Materia Medica and General Therapeutics.
b. Clinical Medicine and Pathology.
c. Obstetrics.
d. Gynæcology.
e. Pædology.
f. Sanitary Science.
g. Surgery.
h. Neurology.
i. Ophthalmology, Otology, and Laryngology.

SEC. 2. Each of these sections shall consist of not less than five members.

SEC. 3. The chairman of each section in his address, shall include a résumé of progress in discovery in the special field to which said section pertains.

SEC. 4. The President shall appoint the chairmen of all sections for the ensuing year; and shall announce all such appointments as early in the progress of the session as practicable. But no member of a section who has failed to perform active service thereon, shall be appointed to its Chairmanship for the ensuing year.

SEC. 5. The chairman of each section, as soon as possible after appointment, shall select his associates and complete the organziation of his section by the appointment of a secretary. He shall within one month after his appointment send to the General Secretary a list of the officers and members of his section.

SEC. 6. No member shall serve on more than one section in any one year.

SEC. 7. Vacancies occurring in any section may be filled by its Chairman, who shall give immediate notice thereof to the General Secretary.

Article VII.—Committees.

SECTION 1. The following STANDING COMMITTEES shall be appointed, as hereinafter provided for:

a. Organization, Registration, and Statistics.
b. Legislation.
c. Medical Literature.
d. Foreign Correspondence.
e. Inter-collegiate.
f. Medical Education.
g. Drug Provings.

SEC. 2. "The Committee on Legislation shall consist of five members and the Committee on Drug Provings of seven members. The term of service of one member in each of these Committees shall expire each year. The Inter-collegiate Committee shall consist of two delegates to be appointed by each college represented in the Institute, and shall appoint its own chairman. The remaining Standing Committees shall consist of at least five members each, who shall serve for one year."

SEC. 3. There shall also be appointed each year, Committees on Local Arrangements, on Transportation, on Resolutions and Business and on the Memorial Service, of not less than three members each. The duties of said Committees shall be such as are indicated by their respective titles. All resolutions presented to the Institute shall be referred without debate to the Committee on Resolutions.

SEC. 4. The President, so far as these By-Laws require, shall appoint each of the Committees provided for in this article, immediately upon the presentation and disposition of its report.

SEC. 5. All Committees or members appointed to perform any special work under the authority of this Institute shall serve without compensation, unless otherwise specifically ordered.

Article VIII.—Committee of Publication.

SECTION 1. The elective officers of the Institute shall constitute a Committee of Publication. Said Committee shall have charge of the publication of all papers, discussions, etc., referred to it by the Institute.

SEC. 2. No report or paper referred to the Committee of Publication shall be rejected except with the formal concurrence of a majority of said Committee. All papers so rejected shall be returned to their authors by the General Secretary.

SEC. 3. The TRANSACTIONS of the Institute shall be issued by the General Secretary, under the direction of the Committee of Publication, within five months after the close of the session, and copies shall be delivered to those entitled to them, without individual expense.

SEC. 4. There shall be published in each annual volume of the TRANSACTIONS: 1. A list of senior members arranged according to their years of membership. 2. An alphabetical list of members, including the names of senior members, in CAPITALS. 3. A list of members classified by States. The list of deceased members shall be revised and republished annually. The complete list of Members of the Institute from its Organization, and its Code of Ethics, shall be published every five years.

SEC. 5. The General Secretary shall furnish editorial copies of the TRANSACTIONS to such homœopathic journals as are sent to the Institute in exchange, and to other selected journals.

SEC. 6. The Secretary shall send copies of the Statistical Reports to all societies, hospitals and dispensaries that make reports to the Committee on Organization, Registration and Statistics.

Article IX.—Rules of Order.

SECTION 1. The names and residences of all applicants for membership shall be announced in alphabetical order by the Board of Censors in open session, at least six hours before their election is voted upon.

SEC. 2. The Report of the Necrologist shall be presented in connection with the Report of the Committee on Memorial Service.

SEC. 3. The time allotted to any Committee for the presentation of its report shall not exceed fifteen minutes. No report shall be received from any Committee except in writing.

SEC. 4. No report or paper shall be received by the Institute in an incomplete or unfinished condition, and no paper shall be published in the TRANSACTIONS which has been published previous to its presentation to the Institute, or which is not handed to the General Secretary before the close of the session.

SEC. 5. Meetings of any section may be held at the call of its Chairman, provided such meetings be not held during the sittings of the Institute, nor during the meetings of the other sections, except as provided in the adopted Order of Business.

SEC. 6. In all discussions no speaker shall be allowed more than five minutes, nor to speak more than once upon the same subject, except by a vote of consent taken in the usual manner.

SEC. 7. The election of officers for the ensuing year, and the determination of the next place for the meeting of the Institute, shall take place on the third day of the session at twelve o'clock noon.

Article X.

All complaints relating to violations of the Code of Ethics of the Institute shall be referred to the Senate of Seniors for consideration and adjustment, and its decision shall be final without further action of the Institute; except in such cases as require disciplinary action, when the Senate shall report to the Institute with recommendations.

Questions in dispute, having a bearing upon the general good of Homœopathy, which may be brought before the Institute for review and judgment, shall be referred to the Senate of Seniors for adjustment. In order to appeal from its decision a two-thirds vote of members present and voting shall be necessary, said vote to be had without debate; all appeals thus ordered shall be heard at a special hour set for the purpose, and shall be considered in Executive Session.

Article XI.—Amendments.

These By-Laws may be altered or amended by a vote of two-thirds of the members present at the annual meeting.

STANDING RESOLUTIONS.

1. Resolved, That the American Institute of Homœopathy does not necessarily indorse the doctrines contained in the reports of committees by accepting and publishing such reports with the Proceedings.—Adopted June 4, 1867.

2. Resolved, That hereafter all provings by a single prover, presented through the Section in Materia Medica, Pharmacy and Provings, be referred back to the section, to be retained by it until a sufficient number of provings are obtained to warrant the section in collating the same and presenting them to the Institute for publication; and such collation and presentation shall be a part of the duty of that section.—Adopted June 9, 1874.

3. Resolved, That this Institute condemns the action of any college which graduates an unsuccessful candidate from another college, unless he attends at least one full course of lectures at the college where he applies for a degree.—Adopted June 30, 1886.

4. Resolved, That in making up the list of existing journals illustrating Homœopathy, by the Committee on Organization, Registration, and Statistics, and the Committee on Medical Literature, all such shall be embraced as avow the principle of similars as the dominating principle for the selection of drugs in the cure of the sick, and which also support the organizations of Homœopathy as a distinctive body in the medical profession; that no journal thus listed shall be stricken off without formal notice through the General Secretary to the Institute of the reason for any proposed omission from the list, and then not without due notice and opportunity for defence on the part of the journal under consideration, final action on the case being deferred until the succeeding annual meeting. But the name of any journal may be dropped from the list before September, 1889, after failure to signify its assent to the preceding conditions of its listing, and, if assenting, after subsequent failure to make report to the Institute for three consecutive years.—Adopted June 27, 1889.

5. Resolved, That the American Institute of Homœopathy cordially endorses and approves the action of the Inter-collegiate Committee, by which four years has been made the required term of medical study, and the studies of the first year have been definitely arranged to include the preliminary studies requisite to more advanced medical instruction.

6. Resolved, That it is the duty of every member of the Institute to assist and sustain the medical colleges in their efforts.—Adopted June 20, 1890.

7. Resolved, That the Committee on Local Arrangements be instructed to respect the working hours of the Institute session, and to make no provision for entertainments to the members except during the intermissions of the session.—Adopted June 20, 1890.

8. Resolved, That the American Institute of Homœopathy, systematically, and from year to year, investigate the comparative mortality per cent., as shown in the Health Offices of all the larger cities of the United States, and give the results of said investigation the widest possible publicity.—Adopted June 17, 1892.

CODE

OF THE

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF HOMŒOPATHY:

REPORT

A COMPLETE CODE OF MEDICAL ETHICS.

THE undersigned, appointed by the American Institute of Homœopathy a committee to "prepare a complete code of medical ethics," respectfully present the following as the result of their labors.

Considering it to be very desirable that the code of ethics adopted by the various associations of the physicians of our country should be uniform in scope and arrangement, and as nearly identical in language as possible, the Committee have used the arrangement, and, to a great extent, the language of the Code adopted by the American Medical Association, and published in vol. xvi, of their Transactions (for 1865), modifying it where changes seemed to be demanded by a proper regard for liberality and for justice, both to patient and to physician, or by a due concern for the freedom of medical education, opinion and action.

Respectfully submitted,

CARROLL DUNHAM, M.D.,
WALTER WILLIAMSON, M.D.,
A. S. BALL, M.D.,
E. M. KELLOGG, M.D.,
G. W. BARNES, M.D.,
Committee on Medical Ethics.

CODE OF MEDICAL ETHICS.

SCOPE.

THE scope of a Code of Medical Ethics comprises the reciprocal duties and obligations of physicians and patients; the duties and obligations of physicians to each other; and the reciprocal duties and obligations of physicians and the public.

FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES.

The great principles upon which Medical Ethics are based are these:

1. The great end and object of the physician's efforts should be: "The greatest good to the patient."
2. The rule of conduct of physician and patient, and of physicians toward each other, should be the GOLDEN RULE: "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them, likewise."

The various articles of the Code are only special applications of these great principles.

PART I.

RECIPROCAL DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS OF PHYSICIANS AND PATIENTS.

Article I. DUTIES OF PHYSICIANS TO PATIENTS.
" II. DUTIES OF PATIENTS TO THEIR PHYSICIANS.

PART II.

DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS OF PHYSICIANS TO EACH OTHER.

Article I. DUTIES AS MEMBERS OF THE MEDICAL PROFESSION.
" II. PROFESSIONAL SERVICES TO EACH OTHER.
" III. VICARIOUS SERVICES.
" IV. IN REGARD TO CONSULTATION.
" V. IN CASES OF INTERFERENCE.
" VI. DIFFERENCES BETWEEN PHYSICIANS.
" VII. CONCERNING PECUNIARY OBLIGATIONS.

PART III.

RECIPROCAL DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS OF PHYSICIANS AND THE PUBLIC.

Article I. DUTIES OF THE PROFESSION TO THE PUBLIC.
" II. OBLIGATIONS OF THE PUBLIC TO PHYSICIANS.

PART I.

OF THE RECIPROCAL DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS OF PHYSICIANS AND THEIR PATIENTS.

Article I.—Duties of the Physician to the Patient.

SECTION 1. The physician should hold himself in constant readiness to obey the calls of the sick. He should ever bear in mind the sacred character of his calling and the great responsibility which it involves, and should remember that the comfort, the health and the lives of his patients depend upon the skill, attention and faithfulness with which he performs his professional duties.

SEC. 2. The physician, in order that he may be able to exercise his vocation to the best advantage of the patient, should possess his respect and confidence. These must be acquired and retained by faithful attention to his malady, by indulgent tenderness towards the weaknesses incident to his condition, and by the exercise of a firm but kindly authority. The physician is bound to keep secret whatever he may either hear or observe while in the discharge of his professional duties, respecting the private affairs of the patient or his family. And this obligation is not limited to the period during which the physician is in attendance on the patient. The patient should be made to feel that he has, in his physician, a friend who will guard his secrets with scrupulous honor and fidelity.

SEC. 3. The physician should visit his patient as often as may be necessary to enable him to acquire and keep a full knowledge of the nature, progress, changes and complications of the disease, and to do for the patient the utmost of good that he is able. But he should carefully avoid making unnecessary visits, lest he render the patient needlessly anxious about his case, or expose himself to the charge of being actuated by mercenary motives.

SEC. 4. The physician should not give expression to gloomy forebodings respecting the patient's disease, nor magnify the gravity of the case. Bearing in mind the almost infinite resources of nature, he should be cheerful and hopeful, both in mind and manner. This will enable him the better to exercise his faculties and apply his knowledge for the patient's benefit, and will inspire the patient with confidence, courage and fortitude, which are the physician's best moral adjuvants.

But it is the physician's duty to state the true nature and prospects of the case, from time to time, to some judicious friend or relative of the patient, and to keep this person fully informed of its changes and probable issue; and if the patient himself request the physician to disclose to him the nature and prognosis of his disease, it is his duty to state tenderly, but frankly, the whole truth,—provided the patient be of sound mind and strong enough to receive the disclosure without serious injury. The patient has a right to know the truth. If, moreover, facts within the physician's knowledge lead him to believe that it is of great importance, in relation to the patient's affairs, that he should be warned of the approach of death, it is the physician's duty to reveal to the patient's nearest friend, or to the patient himself, the true state of the case, and the importance of timely action.

SEC. 5. Whether the case proceed favorably, or become manifestly incurable, it is the physician's duty to continue his attendance faithfully and conscientiously so long as the patient may desire it. He is not justified in abandoning a case merely because he supposes it incurable.

SEC. 6. As the patient has an undoubted right to dismiss his physician for reasons satisfactory to himself, so, likewise, the physician may, with equal propriety, decline to attend patients, when his self-respect or dignity seem to him to require this step; as, for example, when they persistently refuse to comply with his directions.

SEC. 7. In difficult or protracted cases consultations are advisable. They tend to increase the knowledge, energy and confidence of the physician, and to maintain the courage of the patient. The physician should be ready to act upon any desire which the patient may express for a consultation, even though he may not himself feel the need of it. Nothing is so likely to maintain the patient's confidence as alacrity in this respect. Moreover, such a course is but just to him, for he has an indisputable right to whatever aid or counsel he may think likely to be of service to him.

SEC. 8. The intimate relations into which the physician is brought with his patient give him opportunity to exercise a powerful moral influence over him. This should always be exerted to turn him from dangerous or vicious courses towards a temperate and virtuous life. The physician is sometimes called to assist in practices of questionable propriety, and even of a criminal character. Among these may be mentioned the pretence of disease, in order to evade services demanded by law, as jury or military duty; the concealment of organic disease or of morbid tendencies, in order to secure favorable rates of life insurance, or for deception of other kinds; and especially the procurement of abortion when not necessary to save the life of the mother. To all such propositions, the physician should present an inflexible opposition. It is his duty, in an authoritative, but friendly manner, to explain and urge the nature, illegality and guilt of the proposed action, and to use every effort to dissuade from it, and to strengthen the patient's virtue and sense of right. The physician should be aware of the frequency of criminal abortion, and of the different methods employed for it, and should take every occasion to warn those who may be tempted to resort to it. In no case should the physician induce abortion, or premature labor, without a previous consultation with the most experienced practitioners attainable, nor without the most clear and imperative reasons.

Article II.—Duties and Obligations of Patients to their Physicians.

SEC. 1. Physicians are required, by the nature of their profession, to sacrifice comfort, ease and even health, for the sake of their patients. Patients should reflect upon this, and should understand and remember that they have corresponding duties and obligations towards their physicians.

SEC. 2. The patient should select a physician in whose knowledge, skill and fidelity he can place implicit confidence; whose habits of life are regular and temperate, and whose character and demeanor are such that he can regard him as a personal friend. He must be able to confide in him freely. And the physician should not be changed for light reasons. A physician thoroughly acquainted with the constitution, temperaments and tendencies of a family can the more successfully treat them.

SEC. 3. The patient should always consult his physician as early as possible after he has discovered that he is ill. A disease which is trifling at its onset may grow formidable through neglect. The physician should be regarded as a confidential adviser, who, on being early consulted, may prevent a sickness.

SEC. 4. The patient should faithfully and unreservedly state to his physician the supposed cause of his malady, and tell him everything that may have a bearing upon its nature. Since the physician is under the strongest obligations to secrecy, the patient should not allow considerations of delicacy, modesty or pride to prevent an entirely frank statement of his case, and candid and full replies to interrogatories.

SEC. 5. The patient should implicitly obey his physician's injunctions as regards diet, regimen and medical treatment. If he deviate from these directions, he cannot hold the physician to a full responsibility in the case; and, further, by a partial obedience he incurs some personal risk, since, in the treatment of diseases, all parts of the physician's advice are made to harmonize, and each is dependent on the others and may be unsafe without the coincidence of the others. Moreover, he does the physician an undeserved, and often a serious, wrong. If the patient have not sufficient confidence in his physician, and respect for him, to follow his directions, it were better for him to frankly say so, and to employ another in whom he can confide.

The patient should never allow himself, while under a physician's treatment, to take other medicines than those prescribed by him. He would, by so doing, incur a serious risk of taking medicines that are incompatible with each other. If desirous of trying any other mode of treatment, it would be much better frankly to state the fact to his physician, and ask his advice.

SEC. 6. The patient should, if possible, avoid receiving the friendly visits of a physician other than the one under whose charge he is. When he receives such visits, he should avoid conversation on the subject of his disease; for an accidental observation might give him false impressions respecting his disease, or destroy his confidence in the treatment he is pursuing. He should never send for a consulting physician without the express consent of his own medical attendant; for physicians can act together for the advantage of their patient only when they act harmoniously. Nor should he, by a secret appointment, constrain his medical attendant to meet another physician with whom he might not be willing to consult; but the patient has an undoubted right to have the opinion of any physician whom he may desire upon his case. His proper course is to request his medical attendant to arrange a consultation, and frankly state his desire for the physician whom he may prefer. If his medical attendant decline the consultation, it is then for the patient to determine whether he will insist, and thus dismiss his medical attendant, or whether he will defer to the judgment of his own physician. And the patient has a right thus to choose.

SEC. 7. If the patient wishes to dismiss his physician, he should, in justice and in common courtesy, state his reasons, and, if possible, in a friendly manner. To dispense with the services of a physician need not, of necessity, change the social relations of the parties.

SEC. 8. The patient should, when practicable, send for the physician in the morning, before his usual hour for leaving home. He will, by so doing, secure his earlier attendance, and will enable him the better to apportion his time so as to do justice to all his calls and engagements. He should call on his physician during his office hours only, and should avoid disturbing him in hours devoted to meals, rest and sleep. And in receiving his physician's visits, he should avoid compelling him to wait, even a few minutes. The aggregate of petty detentions, while the patient is making some needless preparation to receive the physician, amount to a serious waste of valuable time.

PART II.

OF THE DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS OF PHYSICIANS TO THE PROFESSION AND TO EACH OTHER.

Article I.—Duties to the Profession.

SECTION 1. Inasmuch as every member of the medical profession partakes of the honor in which it is held, and is entitled to its privileges and immunities and profits by the scientific labors of his predecessors and associates, it is his duty faithfully to endeavor, in his turn, to elevate the position of the profession and, by every honorable exertion, to enrich the science of medicine.

SEC. 2. In no other profession should a higher standard of morality and greater purity of personal character be required. Physicians ought to come up to this standard, and do what they may to exalt it. As the practice of medicine requires the constant exercise of a vigorous and clear understanding, and as the practitioner should be, at all times, ready for emergencies in which the welfare and even the life of a fellow-creature may depend upon his steady hand, acute eye and unclouded brain, it is incumbent upon the physician to be temperate in all things.

SEC. 3. The physician should not resort to public advertisements or private cards or handbills, inviting the attention of persons affected by particular diseases or publicly offering advice and medicine to the poor gratis, or promising radical cures. Neither should he publish cases or operations in the daily prints, nor invite laymen to be present at operations, nor solicit or exhibit certificates of skill and success, nor perform any similar act.

SEC. 4. It is equally derogatory to professional character for a physician to hold a patent for any nostrum or any surgical instrument or appliance, or to keep secret the nature or composition of any medicine used by him. Such restriction or concealment is inconsistent with the beneficence and liberality which should characterize the medical profession. But it is the duty of the physician to avail himself of every opportunity to observe the action and study the properties of new or secret remedies and new processes of preparing medicines as well as new modes of treating diseases, and to subject them to the analysis of scientific investigation. For the physician should always bear in mind that the great object of his profession is to cure the sick, and that it is not only admissible, but is his solemn duty to investigate thoroughly and without prejudice, whatever offers any probability of adding to his knowledge of the art and means of curing, and of thus enriching the science of medicine.

Article II.—Professional Services of Physicians to each other.

SEC. 1. All practitioners of medicine, their wives, and children while under the paternal care, are entitled to the gratuitous services of any one or more of the faculty residing near them. Physicians, when ill, are incompetent to prescribe for themselves. The natural anxiety and solicitude which they feel for members of their own family when ill, tend to obscure their professional judgment and make it difficult to treat them. Under these circumstances physicians are peculiarly dependent on each other, and kind offices and professional aid should always be cheerfully and gratuitously afforded. But visits should not be obtruded officiously or unasked upon a sick physician.

If, however, a physician in affluent circumstances, request the attendance of a distant professional brother, and offer an honorarium, it is not proper to decline it; for one should not, even from a kindly motive, impose upon another a pecuniary obligation which the recipient would not wish to incur.

If a physician is called from any considerable distance, the expense of travel, etc., thereby incurred, should always be paid by the physician receiving the visit; and an honorarium may be tendered if much time is consumed in making the visit.

Article III.—Duties of Physicians as regards Vicarious Offices.

SEC. 1. Attention to his personal affairs, the pursuit of health, and the various contingencies to which the physician is peculiarly exposed, sometimes compel him temporarily to withdraw from his duties to his patients, and to request some of his professional brethren to discharge them for him. Compliance with such a request is an act of courtesy which should always be performed with the utmost consideration for the interests and character of the physician relieved. And when this is done for a short period only, all the pecuniary obligations for such services should belong to him. But if a physician neglect his business in quest of amusement and pleasure, he is not entitled to the frequent and long-continued exercise of this fraternal courtesy without conceding to the physician who acts for him the fees accruing from the duties discharged by the latter.

SEC. 2. Obstetrical and surgical cases involve unusual fatigue and responsibility, and it is just that the fees accruing therefrom should belong to the physician who attends them.

Article IV.—Duties of Physicians in Regard to Consultations.

SEC. 1. A complete medical education, of which the diploma of a medical college is the formal voucher, furnishes the only presumptive evidence of professional acquirements and abilities. But the annals of the profession contain the names of some who, not having the advantage of a complete medical education, became, nevertheless, through their own exertions and abilities, brilliant scholars and successful practitioners. A practitioner, therefore, whatever his credentials may be, who enjoys a good moral and professional standing in the community, should not be excluded from fellowship, nor his aid rejected, when it is desired by the patient in consultation. No difference in views on subjects of medical principles or practice should be allowed to influence a physician against consenting to a consultation with a fellow-practitioner. The very object of a consultation is to bring together those who may, perhaps, differ in their views of the disease and its appropriate treatment, in the hope that, from a comparison of different views, may be derived a just estimate of the disease and a successful course of treatment.

No tests of orthodoxy in medical practice should be applied to limit the freedom of consultations. Medicine is a progressive science. Its history shows that what is heresy in one century may and probably will be orthodoxy in the next. No greater misfortune can befall the medical profession than the action of an influential association or academy establishing a creed or standard of orthodoxy or "regularity." It will be fatal to freedom and progress in opinion and practice. On the other hand, nothing will so stimulate the healthy growth of the profession, both in scientific strength and in the honorable estimation of the public, as the universal and sincere adoption of a platform which shall recognize and guarantee:

1. A truly fraternal good-will and fellowship among all who devote themselves to the care of the sick.

2. A thorough and complete knowledge, however obtained, of all the direct and collateral branches of medical science,—as it exists in all sects and schools of medicine,—as the essential qualification of a physician.

3. Perfect freedom of opinion and practice, as the unquestionable prerogative of the practitioner, who is the sole judge of what is the best mode of treatment in each case of sickness intrusted to his care.

The physician may, with propriety, decline to meet a practitioner of whose inimical feelings towards himself or of whose general unfairness in consultations he is satisfied. But in such a case he should explain to the patient his reasons; and if the patient desire the opinion of the practitioner objected to, the family physician may withdraw from the case and allow the other to be sent for. But in justice to the latter the state of affairs should be explained to him at the time he is requested to visit the patient.

SEC. 2. The utmost punctuality should be observed in the visits of physicians when they are to hold consultations together; and this is generally practicable, for society allows the plea of professional engagements to excuse the neglect of all others, and to be a valid reason for the relinquishment of any present occupation. But as professional engagements may sometimes interfere and delay one of the parties, the physician who first arrives should wait for his associate a reasonable period of time, after which the consultation should be considered postponed to a new appointment. If it be the attending physician who is present, he will, of course, see the patient and prescribe; but if it be the consulting physician, he should retire without seeing the patient, except in case of emergency, or when he has been called from a considerable distance, in which case he may examine the patient, and give his opinion in writing and under seal, to be delivered to the attending physician.

SEC. 3. In consultations no rivalry or jealousy should be indulged in. Candor, probity, and all due respect should be exercised towards the physician in charge of the case. If the consulting physician cannot agree with him respecting the nature and proper treatment of the case, the physician should state this fact to the patient or his nearest friend, both physicians being present at the time, and should request him to select the one in whom he has most confidence. But if they agree sufficientiy to take joint charge of the case, then the consulting physician must justify and uphold, so far as he can conscientiously do so, the practice of his associate, and must abstain from any hints, insinuations, or actions which might in any way impair the confidence which the patient reposes in him, or affect his reputation. He must refrain from any extraordinary attentions or assiduities calculated to ingratiate himself in the patient's favor and to supplant his associate.

SEC. 4. In consultations, the attending physician should first put the necessary questions to the patient. After this, the consulting physician should make such additional inquiries and examinations as may be needed to satisfy him of the true nature of the case. But he should avoid making a parade of examining the patient more thoroughly than had been done before; rather suggesting to the attending physician, where this is possible, to make whatever examinations he desires, than making them himself. Both physicians should then retire to a private room for deliberation.

SEC. 5. In consultations, the attending physician should deliver his opinion first; and, when there are several consulting physicians, they should express their opinions in the order in which they have been called in. Should an irreconcilable diversity of opinion occur, when more than two physicians meet in consultation, the opinion of the majority should be regarded as decisive; but, if the number be equal on each side, the decision should rest with the attending physician. If two physicians, in consultation, cannot agree, they should call in a third to act as umpire. If this be not practicable, the patient must be requested to select the physician in whom he is most willing to confide. The physician who is left in the minority should, without any ill-feeling, retire from the consultation and from any farther participation in the management of the case; and, in justice to the physician thus retiring, the fact of his difference from his associates should, in the presence of all the physicians attending, be explained to the patient as his reason for withdrawing from the case.

SEC. 6.—The attending physician should communicate to the patient or his friends the directions agreed upon in the consultation, as well as any opinion which it may be thought proper to express. But no statement or discussion should take place before the patient or his friends, except in the presence of all the physicians attending, and by their common consent. And no opinions or prognostications should be delivered which are not the result of previous deliberation and concurrence. No decision arrived at in a consultation is to be regarded as restraining the attending physician from making such variations in the treatment as any subsequent change in the case may demand. But such variation, and the reason for it, ought to be carefully noted at the time, and detailed at the next meeting in consultation. The same privilege belongs also to the consulting physician, if he is sent for in an emergency when the attending physician is out of the way; and similar explanations must be made by him at the next meeting.

SEC. 7. Sometimes a special consultation is desirable in cases in which the continued attendance of two physicians might be objectionable to the patient. The consulting physician, in such a case, should sedulously avoid all further unsolicited attendance. Such consultations require an extraordinary outlay of time and attention, and at least a double honorarium may be reasonably expected.

SEC. 8. The consulting physician cannot, with propriety, take exclusive charge at any time of the patient in whose case he has been called in consultation without the consent of the attending physician, except in cases provided for by the third sentence of section 3, and by the fourth sentence of section 5, of this article.

Article V.—Duties of Physicians in Cases of Interference.

SEC. 1. Medicine is a liberal profession, and those admitted into its ranks should base their expectations of success upon the extent of their qualifications, not upon intrigue or artifice. A physician should not allow himself to feel envious or jealous of a brother-practitioner. The distinction which one successful physician wins is shared by the whole profession. Nor should a physician suffer himself to feel ill-will towards another who may come into his neighborhood and appears likely to take a share of the business which he has hitherto enjoyed. Such feelings are inconsistent with the beneficent and liberal nature of the profession. Liberality and true generous fraternity in thought, word, and deed will unite the interests of all the members of the profession, and will so exalt the estimation in which it is held in the community that, confidence being increased, business will likewise increase; and to physicians will be accorded the position which, of right, should be theirs, that of confidential family advisers in all matters pertaining to the care of the body in health no less than in sickness.

SEC. 2. The physician, in his intercourse with a patient who is under the care of another practitioner, should observe the strictest caution and reserve. No meddling questions should be asked in any interview for business or friendship, no disingenuous hints thrown out relating to the nature and treatment of his disorder; nor should the patient be allowed to converse upon these topics. No course of conduct should be pursued which might, directly or indirectly, tend to diminish the trust reposed in the physician employed.

SEC. 3. A physician should not take charge of a patient who is, or has recently been, under the charge of another practitioner in the same illness, except in cases of sudden emergency, or in consultation with the physician previously in attendance, or when the latter has relinquished the case, or has been regularly notified that his services are no longer required. Under such circumstances no unjust or illiberal remarks should be made or insinuations thrown out in relation to the treatment pursued by the previous physician. Nor should the physician permit the patient unreasonably to find fault with his predecessor. For patients often become dissatisfied with their attendant on account of the mere duration of a case which no degree of professional knowledge or skill could have shortened.

SEC. 4. In cases of accident or sudden emergency, one or more physicians are often sent for by alarmed friends. Courtesy should assign the patient to the first of these that arrives; and he should select from those present such additional assistance as he may deem necessary. But he should also request the family physician (if there be one) to be sent for, and, on his arrival, resign the case into his hands. The practitioner of the patient, when he arrives, should take the place of any one called in his absence. "The practitioner of any patient" is the man whom he has in any way given to understand that he regards him as his medical adviser, or who would now be in charge of the case were it not for his absence, sickness or other disability.

SEC. 5. In a sparse population, a physician, when visiting a sick person, may be desired to see, in an emergency, a neighboring patient, who is under the regular charge of another physician. The conduct to be pursued on such an occasion is to give advice adapted to present circumstances; to interfere as little as possible with the general plan of treatment; to assume no farther direction of the case unless it be expressly desired; and, in the latter case, to request an immediate consultation with the practitioner previously employed.

SEC. 6. A wealthy physician should not give advice gratis to the affluent, because his so doing is an injury to his professional brethren. The office of the physician can never be supported as an exclusively beneficent one; and it is defrauding, in some degree, the common fund when fees are dispensed with which might justly be claimed.

SEC. 7. When a physician who has been engaged to attend a case of midwifery is absent, and another is sent for, if delivery is accomplished in the absence of the former, the latter is entitled to the fee, but he should resign the patient to the practitioner first engaged.

Article VI.—Of Differences between Physicians.

SEC. 1. Diversity of opinion and opposition of interests may, in the medical, as in other professions, sometimes occasion controversy and even contention. When such cases occur and cannot be immediately terminated, they should be referred to the arbitration of a sufficient number of physicians or a court-medical.

Article VII.—Of Pecuniary Acknowledgemnts.

SEC. 1. Some general rules should be adopted by the physicians in every town or district relative to pecuniary acknowledgments from patients. These should be adhered to by physicians as uniformly as circumstances will permit. They serve, likewise, as a standard to which appeal may be taken in cases of doubt or dispute.

SEC. 2. Members of the medical profession have been so uniformly in the habit of attending, gratuitously, the indigent sick, and, in general, of answering every call promptly and without a question as to whether they are to receive remuneration therefor, that many persons seem to think they have a right to demand the services of physicians, and do, in fact, call upon them freely, and neglect or refuse to render any pecuniary equivalent, although abundantly able to do so. They impose upon one physician in this way until they have exhausted his patience, and then call upon another; and thus, in the course of a few years, make the circuit of the profession in their neighborhood. It is proper for the physicians of a community to make a list of the names of such individuals, and to demand, before visiting those whose names are on it, adequate security that their honorarium will be paid.

PART III.

THE RECIPROCAL DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS OF PHYSICIANS AND THE PUBLIC.

Article I.—Duties of Physicians to the Public.

SECTION 1. As good citizens, it is the duty of physicians to be vigilant for the welfare of the community, and to bear their part in sustaining its institutions and burdens. They should be always ready to give counsel to the public in relation to matters appertaining to their profession, as, for example, on subjects of medical police, public hygiene and legal medicine. It is their province to enlighten the public in regard to quarantine regulations, the location, arrangement and dietaries of hospitals, asylums, schools, prisons and similar institutions; in relation to the medical police of towns, drainage, ventilation, etc., and in regard to measures for the prevention of epidemic and contagious diseases. And, when pestilence prevails, it is their duty to face the danger and to continue their labors for the alleviation of suffering and the saving of life, even at the risk of their own lives.

SEC. 2. Physicians should always be ready, when called on by the proper authorities, to enlighten coroners' inquests and courts of justice on matters strictly medical, such as involve questions relating to insanity, legitimacy, or sudden and violent deaths, and in regard to the various other subjects embraced in the science of medical jurisprudence. But, in these cases, and especially where they are required to make post-mortem examinations, it is just and right, in consequence of the time, labor and skill required and the responsibility and risk they incur, that the public should award them more than a mere consulting fee.

SEC. 3. There is no profession, by the members of which eleemosynary services are more freely dispensed than they are by physicians; but justice demands that some limits should be placed to the claims upon such offices at their hands. Poverty, professional brotherhood, the benevolent and scantily remunerated occupation of the individual patient, and certain of the public duties referred to in Section 1 of this Article, should always be recognized as presenting valid claims for gratuitous services. But neither institutions endowed by the public or by rich individuals, societies for mutual benefit, for the insurance of lives or for analogous purposes, nor any profession or occupation can be admitted to possess such privilege. Nor can it be justly expected of physicians to furnish certificates of inability to serve on juries, or perform military duty, or to certify to the state of health of parties wishing to insure their lives, obtain pensions or the like, without a pecuniary acknowledgement. But to indigent persons such professional services should always be cheerfully and freely accorded.

Article II.—Obligations of the Public to Physicians.

SECTION 1. The benefit accruing to the public, directly and indirectly, from the active and constant labors and beneficence of the medical profession are so numerous and important that physicians are justly entitled to the utmost consideration from the community. The public ought, likewise, to entertain a just appreciation of the proper qualifications of a practitioner of medicine; to make a due discrimination between true science and the assumptions of ignorance and empiricism; to afford every encouragement and facility for the acquisition of medical education, and not to allow the provisions of their statute-books or of the prospectus of their chartered institutions to interpose any obstacles to the attainment of the fullest knowledge of every branch of medical science, or, in any way, to restrain the most entire freedom of thought, investigation and action in matters appertaining to the practice of medicine.

Register of Membership.

All members of the Institute who have maintained twenty-five consecutive years of membership shall be considered Senior Members, and be exempt from the payment of annual dues; and the names of such members shall be printed first in the list of members, in capital letters.—Article V., Section 6, of the By-Laws.

There shall be published in each annual volume of the TRANSACTIONS: 1. A list of senior members arranged according to their years of membership. 2. An alphabetical list of members, including the names of senior members, in CAPITALS. 3. A list of members classified by States. The list of deceased members shall be revised and republished annually. The complete list of members of the Institute from its organization, and its Code of Ethics shall be published every five years.—Article VIII., Section 4, of the By-Laws.
